West-Central Part Of Illinois Hit

Flood Batters Dikes, Levee Gives Way Engulfing Many Acres, More Debris

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The churning Mississippi River swirled through the Quincy area in west-central Illinois today, while 140 miles upriver weakened dikes were battered in the Quad Cities of Iowa and Illinois.

The record flood burst dikes and spread debris-littered water over thousands of acres from Dubuque, Iowa, to Hannibal, Mo.

Floodwaters rolled over more than 5,600 acres of farm land south of Quincy, but most of the city of 45,000 residents is situated on bluffs and is safe.

More than 15 square blocks of the business district were inundated in Hannibal, a city of 20,000.

Levee Breaks

The river burst a levee in the South Quincy drainage district, and engulfed more than 5,600 acres. Some 150 persons were evacuated.

Illinois 57 south of Quincy was closed and most rail traffic was stopped. Highway 36 and the Mark Twain Bridge were in danger of being closed.

Two National Guardsmen on the South Quincy levee when it broke were rescued by boats.

About 24 miles south of Quincy, the 550 residents of Hull, Ill., were ready to leave. Officials said the levees protecting the town would not hold.

In Hannibal, 23 families were evacuated from low areas as the river reached its highest level in history. Hannibal has no levee.

Civil Defense workers used a boat to patrol against looting in the flooded Hannibal business district. The U.S. Weather Bureau predicted a 25½-foot crest Sunday.

Upriver, the crested Mississippi surged against soggy dikes in the Quad Cities of Moline, Rock Island and East Moline, Ill., and Davenport, Iowa. The area has a population of more than 270,000.

Thousands of volunteers continued an around-the-clock sandbagging job.

"This is the time you can get killed during a flood," one U.S. Corps of Engineers official said. "They're all out there piling sandbags while the river's rising, but the moment it starts to drop a tenth of a foot or two, they want to go home.

"And these dikes, the longer they're up, the soggier they get. They can go just like that. You don't even know what happened."

Huge areas of the Quad Cities and Bettendorf, Iowa, were under water.

Estimates of the number of persons evacuated in Illinois and Iowa have been placed at 10,000.

Officials sandbagged sand boils at the vital Point Mississippi Dike near Bettendorf when water began seeping behind homes.

A new flank levee was prepared in Muscatine, Iowa, a secondary defense line for 1,000 homes and $50 million worth of factories. The levee backs up primary dikes.

Upriver from the Quad Cities, Fulton and Albany in Whiteside County, Ill., were surrounded by flood waters.

Up to 10 feet of water gushed through deserted Gulfport, Ill. A train was backed across a bridge from Burlington, Iowa, into Gulfport and evacuated 30 marooned residents.

Shelter Plans Sent to State For Approval

Plans for construction of a Civil Defense "alternate seat of government" shelter to be used in case of atomic attack, have been forwarded to the state authorities for approval.

The project, which was approved by the Board of Supervisors, calls for an underground shelter in which the essential county government and Civil Defense activities would be carried on in the event of nuclear attack and when other offices are out of commission.

To be constructed with state and federal aid, the proposed plan calls for a deep underground shelter to house installations for continuing the county government in case of emergency and also to house the Civil Defense offices and communications system.

Tentative Plan

A tentative plan has been prepared by Augustas R. Schrowang Associates, architects, for construction of an underground shelter to the rear of the new Ulster County Office Building at Fair and Main Streets. The shelter is to be constructed deep underground, under the parking area at the rear of the building. Plans call for emergency entrances from the present office building and utilization of existing public utilities from the office building. Under normal circumstances the area could be used for additional space for county offices, and, in emergency the area quickly cleared and put to emergency use.

Under Parking Area

Reports that the cellar of the old county clerk's office would be used for the shelter were denied today by the architect, who stated that the shelter would have to be deep underground and adjacent to existing utilities in the present office building. Emergency escape hatches and other above ground installations could not be installed in the area between the office building and Fair Street, due to lack space and also such installations would deface the entrance area which will ultimately be landscaped and become the main entrance to the County Office Building.

Peace Pact Means Steel Will Flow For U.S. Economy

PITTSBURGH (AP) — A four-month labor peace pact guaranteed today a continued flow of steel for the nation's booming economy.

"It's all signed, sealed and delivered," said David J. McDonald, United Steelworkers president.

He and R. Conrad Cooper, chief negotiator for the basic steel industry, signed the temporary truce exchanging postponement of Saturday's scheduled strike for an 11.5-cent hourly pay hike.

But for a while Wednesday it was touch and go.

The expected routine approval by the steelworkers' Wage Policy Committee turned into a three-hour debate when opponents branded the pact a "tin cup agreement" and implied that top union negotiators were "beggars."

"We all thought it was lost," said one top union source after the hectic session of the 163-man committee, which finally overrode the opposition and approved the agreement.

Less than an hour after the committee's shouted approval, Cooper hustled to McDonald's hotel headquarters. Emerging a few minutes later, Cooper shook hands with McDonald and said, "It's signed."

Both emphasized a complete contract remains to be negotiated. Either side can serve 30-day notice Aug. 1 to end the agreement, bringing on another steel strike threat Sept. 1.

With at least temporary labor peace assured, attention turned to Friday's scheduled announcement of the results of the union's presidential election — a major factor complicating the steel industry negotiations.

I.W. Abel, now secretary-treasurer, is expected to be the winner, ending McDonald's 12-year reign over the million-member union.

McDonald reportedly plans to challenge the expected result, asking the union's 33-man executive board to overturn it. He also may ask the U.S. Labor Department to investigate and seek a court order for a new election.

But Cooper indicated he did not consider the figure a pattern for future bargaining.

The 11.5 cents an hour will not be paid to steelworkers until a final contract settlement is worked out.

Northwest Is Rocked By Quake

No Reports Given Yet of Casualties

SEATTLE (AP) — A severe earthquake rocked the Pacific Northwest today, causing widespread damage.

Some walls collapsed in downtown Seattle and a man was reported trapped in a car covered by rubble.

Buildings swayed in a score of cities as the occupants streamed into the street.

There were no immediate reports of casualties.

Grand Coulee Dam, in northeast Washington, reported the shock was felt for more than 45 seconds. Some circuits at the big hydroelectric dam were knocked out.

Reported Strong

Most damage appeared to be limited to cracked plaster, broken windows and dishes, and snapped wires.

The University of Washington seismologist said the quake was so strong it knocked the needle off the seismograph and he was unable to get a reading.

At Victoria, B.C., the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory said the same thing happened there.

At Olympia, the Stae Capitol Buildings shook for nearly a minute and state employes ran into the open.

The tremor was felt from the coast to eastern Washington and from Oregon into British Columbia.

At Ellensburg, 100 miles east of Seattle, streets were jammed with people who fled from downtown buildings. Some windows were broken and walls cracked.

At Aberdeen, on the coast, the quake was described as a rolling series of three shocks that

Attractions Are Crowding Lions Show at Armory

Almost 2,900 persons at the 2nd night of the Kingston Lions Show saw a banner series of programs at the 108 booths, and 22 different gifts, including appliances, jewelry and services, were given out during the evening.

Attendance, according to Lions Club officials, approached record levels as 2,885 persons saw the show Wednesday night. Opening night attendance was 2,915.

Among the special programs were an almost continuous organ concert, sponsored by Markles, and an accordion quartet playing the latest show tunes, provided by the Cliff Scholl Accordian Studio booth.

Two lions masquerading as Lions Club members provided a hit-and-run comic relief during the evening astonishing small children and keeping camera carrying parents with plenty to do.

The automobile dealers, holding a major part of the floor space, drew large crowds as persons gathered to see new models and the latest automotive accessories.

The Urban Renewal Agency scale model uptown project continued to attract many people, many of whom were vitally affected by the project itself.

More Crowds Expected

Thursday night, Lions Club officials stated, should be another evening of top attendance. Wednesday night, persons were reported buying tickets from the time the exposition opened at 7 p. m. until almost up to closing time at 10:30 p. m. Thursday will feature more gifts, and some exhibitors had added even more materials to an already ample program.

Funds gained by the Lions Club from the exposition go back to the community through various civic improvement projects.

Australia Plans To Send 800 Men For Viet Fighting

CANBERRA, Australia (AP) — Australia is preparing to send up to 800 army troops to South Viet Nam for combat duty with U.S. and South Vietnamese forces, government sources reported today.

The sources said the Cabinet has approved sending the battalion-sized unit and Prime Minister Sir Robert Menzies may make a statement later in the day. There was no indication how soon the troops may leave.

An Australian contingent of 800 men would be the second largest unit from any of America's allies in South Viet Nam. South Korea has 2,000 troops there, but they are primarily a work force to build and repair roads, bridges and railways.

Government sources said the decision to send Australian combat forces is not a result of the visit to Canberra last week by U.S. presidential envoy Henry Cabot Lodge. The Australian Cabinet had considered the idea of a more positive involvement in Viet Nam for some time before Lodge's visit, the sources said.

Lodge is touring friendly Far Eastern and Pacific nations to drum up support for U.S. policy in Viet Nam.

Australia already has in South Viet Nam about 100 jungle combat advisers and a Royal Australian Air Force transport unit. The jungle advisers, like their U.S. counterparts, are not classified as combat troops. But they have been in combat areas for months and have suffered casualties in action, including one killed.

The U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, Maxwell D. Taylor, told Italian newsmen earlier this month that "aside from the

More Marines Land To Save Americans

Evacuation Made From Dominican Republic as Bloody Fighting Flares

By LEWIS GULICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—Another 100 U.S. Marines were landed in the strife-torn Dominican Republic today to protect Americans, as bloody fighting engulfed Santo Domingo.

None of the some 2,000 U.S. citizens remaining in the Caribbean country have been harmed, according to the latest reports reaching Washington. Evacuation was proceeding by helicopter and ship.

Shooting Continues

Meanwhile, shooting among rival Dominican forces was reported continuing in the capital city, with at least 400 Dominican dead, 1,200 wounded, and armed mobs, up to several hundred strong, sacking and looting in residential areas.

President Johnson ordered the Marines ashore from a naval force late Wednesday, after getting word of the breakdown of local governmental authority in the Caribbean country. The Dominicans were unable to guarantee safety for the Americans, Johnson told the nation in an emergency radio-TV appearance.

Force Increases

About 400 Leathernecks landed by helicopter on the outskirts of Santo Domingo, under Johnson's order.

Another 100 from a U.S. naval force were landed early this morning.

There has been no exchange of fire between the American Marines and Dominican factions, the U.S. officials added.

As of the latest count, 215 Americans had been evacuated since the Marines landed. Another 1,100 Americans were evacuated Tuesday.

In Washington, the Council of the Organization of American States (OAS) was summoned into emergency session, at U.S. request, to get a report on the action and to consider possible peace making efforts to end the bloody civil war.

U.S. officials said the United States was taking no sides in the political turmoil engulfing the republic. They said the Marines will serve no cause except to protect Americans and will stay there until their mission is completed.

Johnson's order marked the first such use of Marines in Latin America in years. U.S. officials expected criticism from Latin Americans mindful of American "gunboat diplomacy" of a bygone era. But under international law, they said, a nation can send its forces to another land to protect its nationals when the local government breaks down.

Reports reaching the President told of gun battles in Santo Domingo, looting, Communist agitation, the collapse of local authority and word from the Dominicans that they could not guarantee the safety of the Americans there.

U.S. officials gave this account of the crisis action:

In attempts to return to democracy after 34 years of Trujillo dictatorship, Santo Domingo has had 8 governments in the last 4 years. The country also has been in deep economic trou-

40 of Reds Are Shot In Estuary

Offensive Aimed At Base for Ammo

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A force of more than 1,000 South Vietnamese troops was trying today to drive a key Viet Cong unit in the Mekong River Delta into the South China Sea.

Government commanders claimed at least 86 guerrillas were killed and 34 captured in the opening phase of the operation in Kien Hoa Province Wednesday. U.S. helicopter pilots caught about 60 Viet Cong trying to swim an estuary and machine-gunned them in the waters. The Americans estimated they killed about 40 of the swimmers.

Two Americans were killed in fighting elsewhere in the delta south of Saigon Wednesday. At least 18 Viet Cong dead were reported in that engagement. The American deaths brought the toll of U.S. combat fatalities in Viet Nam to 353 since December 1961.

In the Kien Hoa operation, the government force attacked in landing craft from the sea and in helicopters, hoping to catch the Viet Cong in a pincer. The offensive was aimed at the extreme eastern edge of the Thanh Phu district 60 miles south of Saigon, a seaside area of dense mangrove swamp.

The government suspects that arms and munitions from North Viet Nam are landed there by junks.

U.S. advisers said the operation was preceded a month ago by an intense bombardment by 41 U.S. Air Force jets. Then leaflets and loudspeaker broadcasts advised all civilians to leave the area to avoid being killed. Some 4,000 refugees, about half the population of the area, left the swamp for government-controlled areas nearby, advisers said.

More air strikes, an artillery barrage and shelling from 3-inch naval guns and 20mm cannon came Wednesday. Vietnamese army and ranger troops went ashore in landing craft and helicopters, accompanied by seven armored personnel carriers.

Ground fighting was comparatively minor. One government soldier was killed and six were wounded, one by a snake bite.

This morning the American pilot of an armed helicopter making a strike against a suspected Viet Cong position was

William Schiff Jr., 1965 fund drive chairman for Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, today congratulated John O'Leary of West Hurley, chairman of West Hurley Section for exceeding his campaign goal by more than $100. O'Leary and his workers had secured $505 with a goal of $400.

Schiff stressed that it is particularly important that contributions be as generous as possible this year in view of the great expense which the Red Cross has had in connection with the recent disasters in the Far-West and Midwest.

Provides For Victims

"When floods, hurricanes, tornadoes, fires, explosions, transportation accidents, and other disasters occur, Schiff points out, the Red Cross provides the victims with food, clothing, shelter, and medical and nursing or hospital care on the basis of evident need. Frequently assistance is given to large numbers of people on a mass care basis. However, soon as possible, the Red Cross deals directly with each family on an individual basis."

"While many people are aware of Red Cross disaster emergency assistance, not everyone understands that long after the emergency, the Red Cross stays on the job to help families and individuals meet other disaster-caused needs" Schiff continued. "The organization's rehabilitation program is designed to help a family get back on its feet and resume normal living."

"The Red Cross cannot replace

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — A force of more than 1,000 South Vietnamese troops was trying today to drive a key Viet Cong unit in the Mekong River Delta into the South China Sea.

Government commanders claimed at least 86 guerrillas were killed and 34 captured in the opening phase of the operation in Kien Hoa Province Wednesday. U.S. helicopter pilots caught about 60 Viet Cong trying to swim an estuary and machine-gunned them in the waters. The Americans estimated they killed about 40 of the swimmers.

Two Americans were killed in fighting elsewhere in the delta south of Saigon Wednesday. At least 18 Viet Cong dead were reported in that engagement. The American deaths brought the toll of U.S. combat fatalities in Viet Nam to 353 since December 1961.

In the Kien Hoa operation, the government force attacked in landing craft from the sea and in helicopters, hoping to catch the Viet Cong in a pincer. The offensive was aimed at the extreme eastern edge of the Thanh Phu district 60 miles south of Saigon, a seaside area of dense mangrove swamp.

The government suspects that arms and munitions from North Viet Nam are landed there by junks.

U.S. advisers said the operation was preceded a month ago by an intense bombardment by 41 U.S. Air Force jets. Then leaflets and loudspeaker broadcasts advised all civilians to leave the area to avoid being killed. Some 4,000 refugees, about half the population of the area, left the swamp for government-controlled areas nearby, advisers said.

More air strikes, an artillery barrage and shelling from 5-inch naval guns and 20mm cannon came Wednesday. Vietnamese army and ranger troops went ashore in landing craft and helicopters, accompanied by seven armored personnel carriers.

Ground fighting was comparatively minor. One government soldier was killed and six were wounded, one by a snake bite.

This morning the American pilot of an armed helicopter making a strike against a suspected Viet Cong position was

William Schiff Jr., 1965 fund drive chairman for Ulster County Chapter, American Red Cross, today congratulated John O'Leary of West Hurley, chairman of West Hurley Section for exceeding his campaign goal by more than $100. O'Leary and his workers had secured $505 with a goal of $400.

Schiff stressed that it is particularly important that contributions be as generous as possible this year in view of the great expense which the Red Cross has had in connection with the recent disasters in the Far-West and Midwest.

Provides For Victims

"When floods, hurricanes, tornadoes, fires, explosions, transportation accidents, and other disasters occur, Schiff points out, the Red Cross provides the victims with food, clothing, shelter, and medical and nursing or hospital care on the basis of evident need. Frequently assistance is given to large numbers of people on a mass care basis. However, soon as possible, the Red Cross deals directly with each family on an individual basis."

"While many people are aware of Red Cross disaster emergency assistance, not everyone understands that long after the emergency, the Red Cross stays on the job to help families and individuals meet other disaster-caused needs" Schiff continued. "The organization's rehabilitation program is designed to help a family get back on its feet and resume normal living."

"The Red Cross cannot replace

Friends Are Loyal To Escapee, Want Him to Stay Free

CHANDLER, Okla. (AP) — Jim Fleming's friends, trying to keep him out of a California prison from which he escaped nearly two years ago, have trapped him in another prison from which there can be no escape.

The new prison has no walls and there are no guards — except Fleming himself.

"If I run again now, too many people I love and respect will get hurt," said Fleming, 32, who until late March was just another car salesman to residents of this town of 3,000 persons.

Then a Federal Bureau of Investigation poster, identifying Fleming as an escapee from the Folsom State Prison, came to the attention of Sheriff L. P. Orr. Fingerprints established the wanted man's identity.

Fleming's wife, Lee Anne, fainted when Orr told her about her husband whom she met in West Virginia.

When she recovered she said, "A change in name doesn't change a person." Mrs. Fleming, mother of two daughters — three and six years old — by a previous marriage, said the girls "dearly love him. That's the man I know."

Fleming marveled at what has become a story-like battle to keep him from returning to Folsom, where he was serving a sentence of one year-to-life for robbery. He had been in prison for 30 months.

After his escape, he began a year-long journey through Nevada, Idaho, Canada, West Virginia, Kentucky and finally to Oklahoma. He obtained an Oklahoma driver's license, using the name "Jim Miller," a Social Security card, a fishing license, and then a marriage license for his wedding in July 1964. He came to Chandler in September.

After his true identity was disclosed, 100 Chandler residents signed a petition attesting to his good character and asked clemency from California authorities.

Fleming was released in custody of George Totten, his employer, and Curtis Walker, a minister who posted $2,500 bond.

Now he awaits Oklahoma Gov. Henry Bellmon's action on California's request that he be returned.

"I know that legally I've got no hope," Fleming said. "I hope Gov. Bellmon will give me a break. I put him on a spot, I know.

SOFIA, Burgaria (AP)—Alcoholism, especially among young people, is increasing in Communist Bulgaria, the party paper Rabotnichesko Delo reported.

The paper did not disclose figures, but said that more than 3,000 alcoholics had to be taken to hospitals in Sofia in the last two years.

Rabotnichesko Delo demanded closure of some of the bars and the help of police "to prevent that our youth falls prey to alcoholism."

New Buildings In Archdiocese To Be Dedicated

His Eminence Francis Cardinal Spellman will bless and dedicate two new schools in the Archdiocese this weekend.

The John S. Burke Catholic High School, convent and priests residence in Goshen will be dedicated in ceremonies 3:30 p. m. Saturday. The newly constructed buildings of the Lavelle School for the Blind in the Bronx will be dedicated Sunday 3:30 p. m.

The new diocesan regional high school, built as a result of the Cardinal's Education Campaign will serve the increasing Catholic population of high school youth in Orange County. It replaces the St. John's High School located on Murray Avenue in Goshen.

The new co-educational high school, on Fletcher Street and Minisink Trail, will ultimately accommodate between 600 and 700 boys and girls. It contains, in addition to 16 classrooms, biology, physics and chemistry labs, a language lab, an art room, a typing room, a homemaking room, a music room, a library providing for 10,000 volumes, a chapel seating 50, a cafeteria seating 280 and a gymnasium with a seating capacity for 900.

Included also in the construction are a Convent with complete facilities for 25 sisters and a Rectory to house the priest director. Overall cost of construction is $2,640,000.

The Presentation Sisters of Newburgh will staff the school with Sister Mary Stanislaus as principal. The Rev. Joseph G. Matthews is school director and assistant superintendent of schools for the Archdiocese.

The $2,300,000 enlargement and alteration of the Lavelle school contains 20 classrooms, a science room, reading room, cafeteria, kindergarten, exercise room, nurses' office and examination room, several music rooms and a 500 seat auditorium, and additional administrative and convent facilities.

Flasher Traffic Light At Cairo Intersection

A flasher type traffic light to be erected at the intersection of Routes 23 and 32 near Cairo, will be approved within a week by the State Traffic Commission, it was made known today. The light will cost $3,000 to purchase and install.

The intersection has long been considered a dangerous junction, and records show there have been about 15 traffic accidents, one a fatal mishap, at the intersection in the last three years.

The intersection is about a mile from the community of Cairo, Greene County, on a stretch of road known as the Cairo by-pass.

New Paving Method On Greene Co. Road

A new method of paving will be used by the contractor when the eight-mile strip of Route 23 in Greene County gets underway. The State Department of Public Works said the first major use of slip-form paving in the state highway program is provided for in the $11.9 million Greene County contract which is scheduled for letting May 20.

Specifications for reconstructing the eight miles of road calls for a large slip-form paving machine that can place a 24-foot-wide concrete pavement at the rate of six feet per minute.

The project calls for replacing the present two-lane road with a four-lane divided facility from the east end of the recently constructed Cairo by-pass easterly 8.11 miles to Route 9-W near the Rip Van Winkle Bridge at Catskill.

Jurors Ass'n Is To Vote Monday, Plan for Banquet

Final arrangements will be made for the annual banquet and testimonial dinner for Attorney N. LeVan Haver Wednesday, May 19 at 7 p. m. in Reggie's Inn, New Paltz. Ticket reservations should be made before May 15 with Miss Anne Ashdown, secretary.

The board of dircetors will meet following the regular meeting.

Poughkeepsie UR Designates Sponsor

Poughkeepsie Common Council Wednesday night, unanimously designated a preferred sponsor for the city's initial urban renewal project known as Project 1-A Riverfront. The award went to Roger H. Corbetta, Dutchess county developer.

Alderman Forrest L. Cousens, head of the city's urban renewal commission, said the city should be ready to start buying and razing houses and business establishments in the UR Project 1-A by October.

The project area is bounded by Main Street, the north-south arterial highway, Pine Street and the Hudson River.

Mayor Christophe. Atkinson, who is serving the unexpired term of former Mayor Victor C. Waryas, now a state assemblyman, made it emphatic at a Common Council meeting last night that he definitely will be a candidate for mayor in the November election.

New Paving Method On Greene Co. Road

A new method of paving will be used by the contractor when the eight-mile strip of Route 23 in Greene County gets underway. The State Department of Public Works said the first major use of slip-form paving in the state highway program is provided for in the $11.9 million Greene County contract which is scheduled for letting May 20.

Specifications for reconstructing the eight miles of road calls for a large slip-form paving machine that can place a 24-foot-wide concrete pavement at the rate of six feet per minute.

The project calls for replacing the present two-lane road with a four-lane divided facility from the east end of the recently constructed Cairo by-pass easterly 8.11 miles to Route 9-W near the Rip Van Winkle Bridge at Catskill.

Poughkeepsie UR Designates Sponsor

Poughkeepsie Common Council Wednesday night, unanimously designated a preferred sponsor for the city's initial urban renewal project known as Project 1-A Riverfront. The award went to Roger H. Corbetta, Dutchess county developer.

Alderman Forrest L. Cousens, head of the city's urban renewal commission, said the city should be ready to start buying and razing houses and business establishments in the UR Project 1-A by October.

The project area is bounded by Main Street, the north-south arterial highway, Pine Street and the Hudson River.

Mayor Christophe. Atkinson, who is serving the unexpired term of former Mayor Victor C. Waryas, now a state assemblyman, made it emphatic at a Common Council meeting last night that he definitely will be a candidate for mayor in the November election.

TOO MUCH HORSEPOWER

The so-called economy car is now all but ignored by American auto makers. The 1965 U.S. models are bigger and have more horsepower than those of the past. Horsepower, though briefly decried a few years back, has more than ever become a status symbol for the driver.

This senseless horsepower race seems to be one of the factors Secretary of Commerce Connor had in mind when he arranged a meeting with representatives of the auto industry. He said he would discuss with them the problem of "built-in speed" and its implications for highway safety.

This is a gratifying development. For though Connor did not say whether he felt there should be a reduction in the speeds autos are capable of reaching, there is little doubt that this is an important factor. Traffic experts say that excessive speed is involved in 37 per cent of the fatal accidents.

There is significant dissent from this conclusion. A recent poll of truck drivers is noteworthy, for example. They listed failure to signal properly as the top driving error. Failure to dim lights was regarded as the second worst violation of rules, and "tailgating" — that is, following the car ahead too closely—as the third. Excessive speed was only in fifth place in the truck drivers' view, behind "failure to pass a slow-moving car."

Let not the speeder be solaced by this. Statistical analysis of accidents keeps him in the spotlight as a higway killer. Secretary Connor should not let the horsepower-happy auto manufacturers forget it.

CLOSING IN ON A VIRUS

The broad, many-faceted yet in large degree coordinated drive against cancer provides one of the most fascinating dramas in medical history. The drama is a complex one, with developments here or there on the stage momentarily highlighted by reports in the press.

A particularly significant highlighting occurred recently in Philadelphia, where a private meeting of specialists heard a report on experiments related to the possibility that viruses are among the causes of human cancer. The work suggests that researchers may be a step closer to proof of such a cause.

The particular cancer involved in these experiments is called Burkitt's lymphoma. Material from a culture of tissue taken from a victim of this disease was injected into hamsters, which soon died of an inflammation of the brain. Over several hamster generations, the virulence of the material greatly increased, and masses of proliferating cells were found in the brains of some of the animals.

It has not yet been firmly established that these cells are true cancer growths. There are other as yet unanswered questions. The results do not constitute proof of the hypothesis that Burkitt's lymphoma is caused by a virus. But the drama lies in the slow, steady progress toward answers to such questions, with flashes of excitement as new insights are gained. All of us have a stake in seeing to it that the intensity of the fight against cancer does not weaken for lack of our support.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

There is a somber irony in the fact that this year marks the 20th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations and that commemorative medals are to be sold to observe what is called International Cooperation Year 1965.

That brave phrase brings back the high hopes that were held the world over when the UN came into being in San Francisco. Once again, there was the feeling that was born in 1918—that the war to end wars had been fought. From now on the nations, meeting together, would see that reason, justice, truth and understanding prevailed.

We all know what has happened. How much of this may have been the fault of the UN is a matter of opinion and interpretation, and there is no profit in raking over tortured ground. But the world was never more disordered and that, tragically, is true at a time when its resources and incredible scope of knowledge are more than sufficient to make possible a civilization brilliant almost beyond imagining. The UN medal is a tribute to what might have been—not what is.

It's spring, and the voice of the dove is heard in the land. Just in time, too: the hawks were beginning to get the upper hand in Washington.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

THE DEVILISHLY CLEVER FARMER

A little over a month ago I sat in the living room of a wise Indiana farmer who had been head of the Indiana Farm Bureau for years. He detailed his cure for our chronic overproduction of crops. It had an arithmetical exactitude: take so many marginal acres out of production by one means or another, chiefly by soil bank-type retirement payments, and the supply and demand of grains would come into balance at a point acceptable to almost everybody. The surpluses would disappear, prices would remain firm, and the taxpayer would not have to support the Rube Goldbergian bureaucratic rigs that are now being used to keep the farmer happy.

The realism that lies behind acreage retirement proposals, however, is for the short term only. It does not reckon with the almost devilish ingenuity of America's farmers, who year by year do the impossible in conjuring more crops out of fewer acres. Admittedly it will never be possible to raise enough food in a single flower pot to nourish the whole U.S. population, but the American farmer acts as though he refused to believe it. He doesn't seem to know that there is such a thing in the orthodox economic textbooks as the law of diminishing returns. And, so far, he has been right: American agriculture in the Twentieth Century has forged a new law of continually increasing returns.

Look at any farm magazine and you will get a forecast of the surprises that await the Department of Agriculture crop limitation planners. "Here come those 30-inch corn rows," so the May issue of the Farm Journal exults. The purchase orders are going in to the agricultural equipment companies — International Harvester, Allis-Chalmers, Massey-Ferguson, John Deere — for new planting and harvesting machines that will take care of three and even four 30-inch rows of corn at a clip. Not satisfied with this, some farmers are asking for machinery that will enable them to switch to 24-inch and even 20-inch spacings. It used to be a good farm rule of thumb that corn required forty inches between the rows.

The trick involved in getting a bigger corn — or soybean — crop out of the new-style narrow rows is to plow in enough fertilizer to support the thicker plantings. Given the necessary application of plant foods, 30-inch corn rows will increase the corn yield by a significant amount.

The switch to narrow rows favors the rich farmer, of course. He is the one who can afford the new machinery. The small farmer is as always, the one big victim of the race between Secretary of Agriculture Freeman's urge to reduce acreage and the rich farmer's ability to circumvent crop control.

Since the American farmer is so ingenious, a mere city fella may wonder just why farmers need all the concern they get from Secretary Freeman. Wouldn't it be simpler to let the good farmer take care of himself with his new machinery, his new hybrid seeds, his new moisture control methods, and his sophisticated fertilizers, meanwhile buying out the less efficient husbandmen who can't make it under the natural laws of supply and demand? But this, politically speaking, is a silly question. The human race has never solved its social and political problems by application of simple logic.

If logic would do it, there is a man in Illinois who has one answer to the problem of the crop surplus. This man would have the federal government pass a law making it a crime to use more than a stated amount of fertilizer to the acre. If you could control both the fertilizer applications and the acreage, so my Illinois correspondent writes, you could control the production.

This is just as true as the proposition that two plus two equals four. But such logic offends the creative element in the soul of man. What would be the fun in farming if you couldn't hope, some day, to get enough out of a flower pot to feed your whole family? Moreover, all those starving populations in India, China, and Africa need the demonstration that food for additional billions can be conjured out of the limited amount of arable land that exists in a finite world.

So let the ingenious American farmer continue to make life miserable for Secretary Freeman's planners. Better an unwieldy plenty than a frustrated and uninventive farm community.

The DOCTOR SAYS

Lightning Looks Lovely But Keep Your Distance

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

So, if you are outdoors during a thunderstorm, seek shelter in a building. Avoid taking shelter under a beach umbrella or a lone tree but, if there is a grove of trees, take shelter under one of the shorter ones because lightning always strikes the highest point available. If you are in open country the highest point may be you. Your best chance would be to lie flat, preferably in a ditch.

Shun wire fences. Such fences are especially dangerous if they touch a tall tree. If the tree is hit the electricity may travel along the wire for a great distance.

A golfer's metal clubs are an added hazard and should be dropped and picked up after the storm. Fishing is hazardous because a pole and line, regardless of the material they are made of, conduct electricity.

If you are in a boat head for shore. If you are in a rowboat, lie down on the bottom. If you own a motorboat or sailboat be sure it is "grounded" by having a metal pathway leading from the tallest point to a point about 2 feet below the water line. You should get below deck.

It is not safe to swim during a storm because lightning striking the water will electrify a wide area and stun or electrocute fish or any other creatures in the vicinity.

Although trains and planes are struck, they are designed to eliminate hazards to passengers and crew. If you are driving a car you are safe unless the rainfall is so heavy that it limits visibility or a sudden flash blinds you.

If you pull off the road, don't park under a tree or telegraph pole. They might be struck by lightning and fall on your car. Don't park under power lines or in an area that may become flooded.

Indoors it is best not to handle any electrical appliances or metal faucets during a storm. This means you should make no phone calls until the storm is over. If you have an outside antenna for your TV, make sure it is grounded. Fireplaces should be avoided because the chimney is a favorite target and the soot is a good conductor.

Anything so beautiful as lightning can't be all bad. Lightning is the chief means by which the nitrogen in the air is combined with oxygen. This nitric oxide is then washed into the soil to form nitrates which are necessary for the growth of crops.

Can Spring Be Far Behind?

Washington News

BY BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There was crusty old Rep. Howard Smith, the walking roadblock, introducing Lt. Gov. Mills Godwin, who proceeded to make an all-out bid for Virginia's Negro votes in his 1965 drive for the governorship.

Godwin gained earlier fame as a prime advocate of massive resistence to desegregation of Virginia's schools.

Today he has the support of the badly aging machine of Sen. Harry Byrd, but many public indications suggest he is gearing his campaign to rising, more liberal, anti-Byrd elements in his party.

THE INCREASED NEGRO vote potential in Virginia is far from the whole story but is an important part. The signs that both parties recognize this change are all about.

At Winchester, hard by Byrd's home baliwick, both Democratic and Republican leaders appeared at the invitation of an all-Negro group devoted to stepping up Negro registration. The two parties' spokesmen plainly were competing hard for support.

Republicans have named a Richmond Negro, Clarence Townes as assistant state chairman in charge of organization. He will also be a candidate for Virginia's House of Delegates.

Several Negroes are expected to be delegates to this year's GOP state convention at Norfolk May 15, and some are due to be added at various city and county committees.

Both parties plan intensive organizational efforts among Virginia's Negroes, who in 1964 were said to have represented some 15 per cent of the state's total vote. The percenta is regarded as sure to climb in the general elections ahead.

IN THE VIEW OF MORE than one Virginia politician, these and other factors — reapportionment is an example—are steadily reducing the power and influence of the celebrated Byrd organization.

Some argue that Byrd and his lieutenants have "read" the changed situation and are trying for a more moderate image in both economic and racial matters.

They see Byrd's support of Godwin as part of this enterprise. Basically a strong conservative, Godwin makes a good "bridge" candidate, since his wooing of Negroes and active 1964 support for President Johnson mark him acceptable to most liberal Democrats.

The next time out Byrd power in Virginia may be cut almost to the vanishing point. The organization largely lost its grip on Virginia politics in 1964. Anti-Byrd elements ran the campaign, and helped produce a 77,000 vote plurality for Johnson over Barry Goldwater. Republican presidential nominees previously had won the state three successive times, with Byrd lending silent assent.

The new Democratic blood is clearly bent on leading the party toward a more moderate course. The Byrd stamp on Godwin is thus deceptive. From 1966 on, others may be unmistakably calling the turn. It is probably too late for the Byrd machine to "go modern."

REPUBLICAN LEADERS in Virginia also assert their intent to move to the moderate middle on racial and other issues. Their likely governorship candidate this year, Linwood Holton, a youngish Roanoke lawyer, is said to fit the pattern.

Republicans are given little chance for state offices in 1965. But the 1966 general elections may provide a sharp test. All-out assault on the Byrd machine by GOP Rep. Joel Broyhill and others who have co-habited with the senator would prove his decline is real and that, in one Republican's words, "the day of 'living with Byrd' is over."

Campus Demonstrations: The Communist Factor

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Communist influence on the campus in American universities and colleges has increased so substantially in recent months that it now has become an important factor in the organizing of student demonstrations.

The Communists have actually profited by the "free speech" doctrine which, through Supreme Court decisions, has been given preference over the right of the American people to be protected against such speeches on the campus inspired by members of alien organizations that are financed directly or indirectly by the Soviet government or its agents in this country.

The most outspoken comment on the whole subject from the educational world has just come from Dr. James M. Nabrit Jr., president of Howard University here, which is one of the leading Negro institutions in the country. He explicitly blamed on "external disruptive forces" the recent unrest at the Howard campus. He said in a statement:

"They are people who cloak themselves in the mantle of civil righters and plot and plan in secret to disrupt our fight for justice and full citizenship. They must be unmasked for the frauds they are. They must be fought in every arena, and they must not be permitted to prevail."

At a news conference later, Dr. Nabrit said he was referring to an organzation which had backed a campus demonstration. Dr. Nabrit stated that on one occason he saw two known Communists in the student group's picket lines. He noted that the demonstration thus far have been within university regulations, but he warned that he would not "sit by and see the university become a place of lawlessness and disorder."

It is surprising that the House Committee on Un-American Activities has not exposed Communist participation in varous demonstrations. Maybe this is due to sensitivity about possible criticism that the committee was perhaps trying to discredit the movement for civil rights. Actually, it is fully understood that the Communists are by no means the originators of the civil rights controversy or of the use of street demonstrations of protest. Yet there have been instances in which these same demonstrations have been pushed to extremes through Communist influence. And it is this which can hurt the cause of civil rights, especially when idealistic students are brainwashed by Communist organizers.

The Communist party in this country is beginning to work more and more out in the open. Originally its members were ordered to register with the Attorney General under the Internal Security Act of 1950, but court decisions during 1964 on some sections of the law were considered so favorable by the Communist party that its leaders now feel there is a good possibility that all the provisions of this act will be nullified. For this reason, the Communists are optimistic of the future of their party and are beginning to speak out with the same defiance that was characteristic of them in the past.

Although the Communist party has for years been trying to hide its connection with the Soviet Union, it nevertheless announced that it would send a delegation this year to Moscow to participate in an editorial conference there on the international Communist movement.

Leading members of the Communist party are encouraged by the vast number of invitations they are receiving to speak at universities and colleges throughout the country. These give them the opportunity to spread the party line, obtain recruits, and promote their claim that the Communist party is just another political party on the American scene. The Communist leaders say they are receiving from colleges more requests to speak than they can possibly fulfill.

Congress can, of course, revise the existing statute and make it more specific, as certainly a legal distinction can be drawn between political parties which operate solely within this country without aid from abroad and those which have a direct connection with a foreign government.

Leaders of Negro organizations have repeatedly said that, while there may be Communist groups active in the racial controversy, they are not in any way influential. But information reaching government sources here indicate that the tactics and techniques of the Communists are not always apparent even to Negro leaders, and that the real purpose of the Communists is to force the demonstrations into extremes so as either to provoke violence or to plunge the whole racial question into more and more bitter controversy.

More than a year ago, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, warned college presidents throughout the country of "an organized attempt by foreign money to disrupt the universities of America." He also has said that many colleges have provided some avowed Communists with "a platform from which to espouse their godless ideology of chicanery, deceit and treachery."

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Sometimes it seems strange going back into history some 100 years or so, like peeking into a forbidden closet. I have before me "Collections of The Ulster Historical Society, Vol. 1—Part 2—printed in Kingston by the Society in 1860. At that time they were writing and collecting the history of the part Kingston took in the Revolution. One item reads: "By a resolution of the Convention passed Dec. 21, 1775, the Ulster County Jail was made the Jail of Congress." These items are from old letters and original documents, "The Convention, or rather the Committee of Society, first met at the court house in Kingston. The Convention may have changed its place of meeting for a time in consequence of the annoyances arising from the crowded state of the jail below the chamber in the court house. Indeed, we find that on motion of Governeur Morris, on the 18th of March, 1777, the following resolution was passed."

It reads in part: "Where from the past want of care of the prisoners now confined in the jail immediately underneath the Convention Chamber, the same is supposed to have become unwholesome...and disagreeable... which may endanger the health of the members of this Convention-Resolved, That for the preservation of their health, the members of this Convention be at liberty at their pleasure to smoke in the Convention Chamber while the house is sitting and proceeding on business." Surprising to relate, this smoking resolution met with great opposition among a community of Dutchmen, and it only passed by a majority of three votes, the representatives of two counties not having been able to agree upon this momentous question. A letter of Bryan Leffertse, a state prisoner in Kingston is preserved in the New York Mercantile Library, which told about conditions in the Kingston jail in April of 1776.

Further from this 1860 Ulster Historical Society records, as taken from these two large volumes of which they say 25 were printed. "The Senate sat at the house of Abraham Van Gaasbeck, a stone building, constructed after the then Esopus Fashion, the last one on the west side of East Front Street, near the junction of that street with North Front. The Governor resided, during his stay in Kingston at the house of his brother-in-law, Christopher Tappen, Esq., situated on the southwest corner of Wall and North Front Streets. It was immediately rebuilt after the fire, and of late (1860) has been occupied as a drug store by Peter E. Jansen. At this house Gov. Clinton received the address of the Legislature."

"In order to secure the state prisoners, a large number of whom were confined in Kingston jail, as well as on board two or three vessels moored at the mouth of the creek, and termed the Fleet Prison, The Council directed them to be removed to Hartford, Conn. Cornelius C. Elmendorph was the Commissary for supplying these prisoners, and Doctor Luke Kiersted the attending physician. They seemed to have been guarded by a company from Col. Pawling's regiment of militia, under the command of Capt. Frederick Schoonmaker, and the armed sloop Hudson, Capt. Benson, was anchored near the prison vessels. On the 11th the Council ordered the militia from the vicinity of Shawangunk to join the Governor's army, and all the rest of the Ulster County force to assemble at Kingston. The order to Capt. Benson to land his arms and munitions of war and take provisions to Albany, saved the sloop Hudson, from the fate of the other vessels lying off the point." Also "The old saying, "there are no Sundays in war" applies to the affairs of State, for the Council remained in session all day Sunday."

TOO MUCH HORSEPOWER

The so-called economy car is now all but ignored by American auto makers. The 1965 U.S. models are bigger and have more horsepower than those of the past. Horsepower, though briefly decried a few years back, has more than ever become a status symbol for the driver.

This senseless horsepower race seems to be one of the factors Secretary of Commerce Connor had in mind when he arranged a meeting with representatives of the auto industry. He said he would discuss with them the problem of "built-in speed" and its implications for highway safety.

This is a gratifying development. For though Connor did not say whether he felt there should be a reduction in the speeds autos are capable of reaching, there is little doubt that this is an important factor. Traffic experts say that excessive speed is involved in 37 per cent of the fatal accidents.

There is significant dissent from this conclusion. A recent poll of truck drivers is noteworthy, for example. They listed failure to signal properly as the top driving error. Failure to dim lights was regarded as the second worst violation of rules, and "tailgating" — that is, following the car ahead too closely—as the third. Excessive speed was only in fifth place in the truck drivers' view, behind "failure to pass a slow-moving car."

Let not the speeder be solaced by this. Statistical analysis of accidents keeps him in the spotlight as a higway killer. Secretary Connor should not let the horsepower-happy auto manufacturers forget it.

CLOSING IN ON A VIRUS

The broad, many-faceted yet in large degree coordinated drive against cancer provides one of the most fascinating dramas in medical history. The drama is a complex one, with developments here or there on the stage momentarily highlighted by reports in the press.

A particularly significant highlighting occurred recently in Philadelphia, where a private meeting of specialists heard a report on experiments related to the possibility that viruses are among the causes of human cancer. The work suggests that researchers may be a step closer to proof of such a cause.

The particular cancer involved in these experiments is called Burkitt's lymphoma. Material from a culture of tissue taken from a victim of this disease was injected into hamsters, which soon died of an inflammation of the brain. Over several hamster generations, the virulence of the material greatly increased, and masses of proliferating cells were found in the brains of some of the animals.

It has not yet been firmly established that these cells are true cancer growths. There are other as yet unanswered questions. The results do not constitute proof of the hypothesis that Burkitt's lymphoma is caused by a virus. But the drama lies in the slow, steady progress toward answers to such questions, with flashes of excitement as new insights are gained. All of us have a stake in seeing to it that the intensity of the fight against cancer does not weaken for lack of our support.

WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN

There is a somber irony in the fact that this year marks the 20th anniversary of the founding of the United Nations and that commemorative medals are to be sold to observe what is called International Cooperation Year 1965.

That brave phrase brings back the high hopes that were held the world over when the UN came into being in San Francisco. Once again, there was the feeling that was born in 1918—that the war to end wars had been fought. From now on the nations, meeting together, would see that reason, justice, truth and understanding prevailed.

We all know what has happened. How much of this may have been the fault of the UN is a matter of opinion and interpretation, and there is no profit in raking over tortured ground. But the world was never more disordered and that, tragically, is true at a time when its resources and incredible scope of knowledge are more than sufficient to make possible a civilization brilliant almost beyond imagining. The UN medal is a tribute to what might have been—not what is.

It's spring, and the voice of the dove is heard in the land. Just in time, too: the hawks were beginning to get the upper hand in Washington.

'These Days'

THE DEVILISHLY CLEVER FARMER

A little over a month ago I sat in the living room of a wise Indiana farmer who had been head of the Indiana Farm Bureau for years. He detailed his cure for our chronic overproduction of crops. It had an arithmetical exactitude: take so many marginal acres out of production by one means or another, chiefly by soil bank-type retirement payments, and the supply and demand of grains would come into balance at a point acceptable to almost everybody. The surpluses would disappear, prices would remain firm, and the taxpayer would not have to support the Rube Goldbergian bureaucratic rigs that are now being used to keep the farmer happy.

The realism that lies behind acreage retirement proposals, however, is for the short term only. It does not reckon with the almost devilish ingenuity of America's farmers, who year by year do the impossible in conjuring more crops out of fewer acres. Admittedly it will never be possible to raise enough food in a single flower pot to nourish the whole U.S. population, but the American farmer acts as though he refused to believe it. He doesn't seem to know that there is such a thing in the orthodox economic textbooks as the law of diminishing returns. And, so far, he has been right: American agriculture in the Twentieth Century has forged a new law of continually increasing returns.

Look at any farm magazine and you will get a forecast of the surprises that await the Department of Agriculture crop limitation planners. "Here come those 30-inch corn rows," so the May issue of the Farm Journal exults. The purchase orders are going in to the agricultural equipment companies — International Harvester, Allis-Chalmers, Massey-Ferguson, John Deere — for new planting and harvesting machines that will take care of three and even four 30-inch rows of corn at a clip. Not satisfied with this, some farmers are asking for machinery that will enable them to switch to 24-inch and even 20-inch spacings. It used to be a good farm rule of thumb that corn required forty inches between the rows.

The trick involved in getting a bigger corn — or soybean — crop out of the new-style narrow rows is to plow in enough fertilizer to support the thicker plantings. Given the necessary application of plant foods, 30-inch corn rows will increase the corn yield by a significant amount.

The switch to narrow rows favors the rich farmer, of course. He is the one who can afford the new machinery. The small farmer is as always, the one big victim of the race between Secretary of Agriculture Freeman's urge to reduce acreage and the rich farmer's ability to circumvent crop control.

Since the American farmer is so ingenious, a mere city fella may wonder just why farmers need all the concern they get from Secretary Freeman. Wouldn't it be simpler to let the good farmer take care of himself with his new machinery, his new hybrid seeds, his new moisture control methods, and his sophisticated fertilizers, meanwhile buying out the less efficient husbandmen who can't make it under the natural laws of supply and demand? But this, politically speaking, is a silly question. The human race has never solved its social and political problems by application of simple logic.

If logic would do it, there is a man in Illinois who has one answer to the problem of the crop surplus. This man would have the federal government pass a law making it a crime to use more than a stated amount of fertilizer to the acre. If you could control both the fertilizer applications and the acreage, so my Illinois correspondent writes, you could control the production.

This is just as true as the proposition that two plus two equals four. But such logic offends the creative element in the soul of man. What would be the fun in farming if you couldn't hope, some day, to get enough out of a flower pot to feed your whole family? Moreover, all those starving populations in India, China, and Africa need the demonstration that food for additional billions can be conjured out of the limited amount of arable land that exists in a finite world.

So let the ingenious American farmer continue to make life miserable for Secretary Freeman's planners. Better an unwieldy plenty than a frustrated and uninventive farm community.

Lightning Looks Lovely But Keep Your Distance

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

So, if you are outdoors during a thunderstorm, seek shelter in a building. Avoid taking shelter under a beach umbrella or a lone tree but, if there is a grove of trees, take shelter under one of the shorter ones because lightning always strikes the highest point available. If you are in open country the highest point may be you. Your best chance would be to lie flat, preferably in a ditch.

Shun wire fences. Such fences are especially dangerous if they touch a tall tree. If the tree is hit the electricity may travel along the wire for a great distance.

A golfer's metal clubs are an added hazard and should be dropped and picked up after the storm. Fishing is hazardous because a pole and line, regardless of the material they are made of, conduct electricity.

If you are in a boat head for shore. If you are in a rowboat, lie down on the bottom. If you own a motorboat or sailboat be sure it is "grounded" by having a metal pathway leading from the tallest point to a point about 2 feet below the water line. You should get below deck.

It is not safe to swim during a storm because lightning striking the water will electrify a wide area and stun or electrocute fish or any other creatures in the vicinity.

Although trains and planes are struck, they are designed to eliminate hazards to passengers and crew. If you are driving a car you are safe unless the rainfall is so heavy that it limits visibility or a sudden flash blinds you.

If you pull off the road, don't park under a tree or telegraph pole. They might be struck by lightning and fall on your car. Don't park under power lines or in an area that may become flooded.

Indoors it is best not to handle any electrical appliances or metal faucets during a storm. This means you should make no phone calls until the storm is over. If you have an outside antenna for your TV, make sure it is grounded. Fireplaces should be avoided because the chimney is a favorite target and the soot is a good conductor.

Anything so beautiful as lightning can't be all bad. Lightning is the chief means by which the nitrogen in the air is combined with oxygen. This nitric oxide is then washed into the soil to form nitrates which are necessary for the growth of crops.

Can Spring Be Far Behind?

Washington News

BY BRUCE BIOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

There was crusty old Rep. Howard Smith, the walking roadblock, introducing Lt. Gov. Mills Godwin, who proceeded to make an all-out bid for Virginia's Negro votes in his 1965 drive for the governorship.

Godwin gained earlier fame as a prime advocate of massive resistence to desegregation of Virginia's schools.

Today he has the support of the badly aging machine of Sen. Harry Byrd, but many public indications suggest he is gearing his campaign to rising, more liberal, anti-Byrd elements in his party.

THE INCREASED NEGRO vote potential in Virginia is far from the whole story but is an important part. The signs that both parties recognize this change are all about.

At Winchester, hard by Byrd's home baliwick, both Democratic and Republican leaders appeared at the invitation of an all-Negro group devoted to stepping up Negro registration. The two parties' spokesmen plainly were competing hard for support.

Republicans have named a Richmond Negro, Clarence Townes as assistant state chairman in charge of organization. He will also be a candidate for Virginia's House of Delegates.

Several Negroes are expected to be delegates to this year's GOP state convention at Norfolk May 15, and some are due to be added at various city and county committees.

Both parties plan intensive organizational efforts among Virginia's Negroes, who in 1964 were said to have represented some 15 per cent of the state's total vote. The percenta is regarded as sure to climb in the general elections ahead.

IN THE VIEW OF MORE than one Virginia politician, these and other factors — reapportionment is an example—are steadily reducing the power and influence of the celebrated Byrd organization.

"The old mold is gone," says one man.

Some argue that Byrd and his lieutenants have "read" the changed situation and are trying for a more moderate image in both economic and racial matters.

They see Byrd's support of Godwin as part of this enterprise. Basically a strong conservative, Godwin makes a good "bridge" candidate, since his wooing of Negroes and active 1964 support for President Johnson mark him acceptable to most liberal Democrats.

The next time out Byrd power in Virginia may be cut almost to the vanishing point. The organization largely lost its grip on Virginia politics in 1964. Anti-Byrd elements ran the campaign, and helped produce a 77,000 vote plurality for Johnson over Barry Goldwater. Republican presidential nominees previously had won the state three successive times, with Byrd lending silent assent.

The new Democratic blood is clearly bent on leading the party toward a more moderate course. The Byrd stamp on Godwin is thus deceptive. From 1966 on, others may be unmistakably calling the turn. It is probably too late for the Byrd machine to "go modern."

REPUBLICAN LEADERS in Virginia also assert their intent to move to the moderate middle on racial and other issues. Their likely governorship candidate this year, Linwood Holton, a youngish Roanoke lawyer, is said to fit the pattern.

Republicans are given little chance for state offices in 1965. But the 1966 general elections may provide a sharp test. All-out assault on the Byrd machine by GOP Rep. Joel Broyhill and others who have co-habited with the senator would prove his decline is real and that, in one Republican's words, "the day of 'living with Byrd' is over."

Campus Demonstrations: The Communist Factor

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — The Communist influence on the campus in American universities and colleges has increased so substantially in recent months that it now has become an important factor in the organizing of student demonstrations.

The Communists have actually profited by the "free speech" doctrine which, through Supreme Court decisions, has been given preference over the right of the American people to be protected against such speeches on the campus inspired by members of alien organizations that are financed directly or indirectly by the Soviet government or its agents in this country.

The most outspoken comment on the whole subject from the educational world has just come from Dr. James M. Nabrit Jr., president of Howard University here, which is one of the leading Negro institutions in the country. He explicitly blamed on "external disruptive forces" the recent unrest at the Howard campus. He said in a statement:

"They are people who cloak themselves in the mantle of civil righters and plot and plan in secret to disrupt our fight for justice and full citizenship. They must be unmasked for the frauds they are. They must be fought in every arena, and they must not be permitted to prevail."

At a news conference later, Dr. Nabrit said he was referring to an organzation which had backed a campus demonstration. Dr. Nabrit stated that on one occason he saw two known Communists in the student group's picket lines. He noted that the demonstration thus far have been within university regulations, but he warned that he would not "sit by and see the university become a place of lawlessness and disorder."

It is surprising that the House Committee on Un-American Activities has not exposed Communist participation in varous demonstrations. Maybe this is due to sensitivity about possible criticism that the committee was perhaps trying to discredit the movement for civil rights. Actually, it is fully understood that the Communists are by no means the originators of the civil rights controversy or of the use of street demonstrations of protest. Yet there have been instances in which these same demonstrations have been pushed to extremes through Communist influence. And it is this which can hurt the cause of civil rights, especially when idealistic students are brainwashed by Communist organizers.

The Communist party in this country is beginning to work more and more out in the open. Originally its members were ordered to register with the Attorney General under the Internal Security Act of 1950, but court decisions during 1964 on some sections of the law were considered so favorable by the Communist party that its leaders now feel there is a good possibility that all the provisions of this act will be nullified. For this reason, the Communists are optimistic of the future of their party and are beginning to speak out with the same defiance that was characteristic of them in the past.

Although the Communist party has for years been trying to hide its connection with the Soviet Union, it nevertheless announced that it would send a delegation this year to Moscow to participate in an editorial conference there on the international Communist movement.

Leading members of the Communist party are encouraged by the vast number of invitations they are receiving to speak at universities and colleges throughout the country. These give them the opportunity to spread the party line, obtain recruits, and promote their claim that the Communist party is just another political party on the American scene. The Communist leaders say they are receiving from colleges more requests to speak than they can possibly fulfill.

Congress can, of course, revise the existing statute and make it more specific, as certainly a legal distinction can be drawn between political parties which operate solely within this country without aid from abroad and those which have a direct connection with a foreign government.

Leaders of Negro organizations have repeatedly said that, while there may be Communist groups active in the racial controversy, they are not in any way influential. But information reaching government sources here indicate that the tactics and techniques of the Communists are not always apparent even to Negro leaders, and that the real purpose of the Communists is to force the demonstrations into extremes so as either to provoke violence or to plunge the whole racial question into more and more bitter controversy.

More than a year ago, J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, warned college presidents throughout the country of "an organized attempt by foreign money to disrupt the universities of America." He also has said that many colleges have provided some avowed Communists with "a platform from which to espouse their godless ideology of chicanery, deceit and treachery."

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Sometimes it seems strange going back into history some 100 years or so, like peeking into a forbidden closet. I have before me "Collections of The Ulster Historical Society, Vol. 1—Part 2—printed in Kingston by the Society in 1860. At that time they were writing and collecting the history of the part Kingston took in the Revolution. One item reads: "By a resolution of the Convention passed Dec. 21, 1775, the Ulster County Jail was made the Jail of Congress." These items are from old letters and original documents, "The Convention, or rather the Committee of Society, first met at the court house in Kingston. The Convention may have changed its place of meeting for a time in consequence of the annoyances arising from the crowded state of the jail below the chamber in the court house. Indeed, we find that on motion of Governeur Morris, on the 18th of March, 1777, the following resolution was passed."

It reads in part: "Where from the past want of care of the prisoners now confined in the jail immediately underneath the Convention Chamber, the same is supposed to have become unwholesome...and disagreeable... which may endanger the health of the members of this Convention-Resolved, That for the preservation of their health, the members of this Convention be at liberty at their pleasure to smoke in the Convention Chamber while the house is sitting and proceeding on business." Surprising to relate, this smoking resolution met with great opposition among a community of Dutchmen, and it only passed by a majority of three votes, the representatives of two counties not having been able to agree upon this momentous question. A letter of Bryan Lefferse, a state prisoner in Kingston is preserved in the New York Mercantile Library, which told about conditions in the Kingston jail in April of 1776.

Further from this 1860 Ulster Historical Society records, as taken from these two large volumes of which they say 25 were printed. "The Senate sat at the house of Abraham Van Gaasbeck, a stone building, constructed after the then Esopus Fashion, the last one on the west side of East Front Street, near the junction of that street with North Front. The Governor resided, during his stay in Kingston at the house of his brother-in-law, Christopher Tappen, Esq., situated on the southwest corner of Wall and North Front Streets. It was immediately rebuilt after the fire, and of late (1860) has been occupied as a drug store by Peter E. Jansen. At this house Gov. Clinton received the address of the Legislature."

"In order to secure the state prisoners, a large number of whom were confined in Kingston jail, as well as on board two or three vessels moored at the mouth of the creek, and termed the Fleet Prison, The Council directed them to be removed to Hartford, Conn. Cornelius C. Elmendorph was the Commissary for supplying these prisoners, and Doctor Luke Kiersted the attending physician. They seemed to have been guarded by a company from Col. Pawling's regiment of militia, under the command of Capt. Frederick Schoonmaker, and the armed sloop Hudson, Capt. Benson, was anchored near the prison vessels. On the 11th the Council ordered the militia from the vicinity of Shawangunk to join the Governor's army, and all the rest of the Ulster County force to assemble at Kingston. The order to Capt. Benson to land his arms and munitions of war and take provisions to Albany, saved the sloop Hudson, from the fate of the other vessels lying off the point." Also "The old saying, "there are no Sundays in war" applies to the affairs of State, for the Council remained in session all day Sunday."

Ellenville Youths Face Burglary Charges

Three 16-year-old youths were arrested Wednesday by Ellenville village police on charges of burglary third degree in connection with a burglary April 16 at the Shawangunk Country Club golfhouse in that community.

Police Chief Abe Rand, who made the arrests with Assistant Chief Arthur Mantone, said the accused youths were Lawrence Tucker, Henry Weathers and his cousin, Jerome Weathers, all of Ellenville.

The chief reported the defendants are accused of taking 33 sport shirts, two jackets and several pairs of sox valued at about $150. Entry was gained by breaking a window in the building, Rand said.

Arraigned before Acting Police Judge Charles J. Piluco, the youths waived preliminary examination and the case was referred to the grand jury, police said. The defendants were ordered committed to the county jail.

Mexico Spending More on Schools Than on Defense

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's nationwide "revolution through education" is being pushed hard by the administration, which hopes to eliminate illiteracy by 1970. Even if the goal is not reached, the drive is paying off.

Mexico spends four times as much on education as it does on defense and efforts to educate the masses are massive, although the stork is a major problem.

Illiteracy, running almost 80 per cent of the population at one time, is down to around 32 per cent. But Mexico's population has jumped from 15 million to around 40 million in half a century, and is growing at the rate of a million a year. So the percentage looks good, but the actual numbers don't.

Consequently, Prof. Ramon Bonfil, newly appointed director of the government's anti-illiteracy campaign, is pushing education in all fields — new schools, more teachers, radio and television programs, a national drive for more students, and even new teaching concepts.

Newspapers, television, radio, private industrial and fraternal groups, all are helping. School children ring doorbells looking for illiterates to enroll in a new 10-month course.

When the 1910 revolution ended, Mexican peasants wanted schools for their children almost as badly as they wanted land for themselves. President Alvaro Obregon launched Mexico's first major program for education in the early 1920s. He named Jose Vasconcelos education minister.

Vasconcelos organized missionary teachers to visit rural areas by rail, car, horseback, canoe and on foot, surveying educational and health needs and recruiting the help of rural teachers. By the end of Obregon's term in 1924 there were more than 1,000 federal rural schools operating, with about 65,000 students, despite many handicaps.

The latest figures show there are 37,576 primary city schools with 6,605,751 students, and 28,931 primary rural schools with 2,694,191 students. In addition, there are secondary schools, many universities, including the huge National University, with more than 75,000 enrolled, and other centers.

But Mexico's battle has been complicated by the tremendous increase in population, about 3.1 per cent a year. In 1930 Mexico had 16.6 million people, today an estimated 40 million.

Although the government has set up a five-year program hoping to educate all by 1970, officials acknowledge it may take a decade to provide adequate education for this ever-swelling tide of school-age children.

The Question:

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is an ABC on a hot dispute.

The Senate, now debating a bill to protect Ngeroes' voting rights, is in knots over one section which would outlaw the poll tax as a requirement for voting in state elections.

The Constitution's 24th Amendment, adopted Jan. 23, 1964, bars the poll tax in federal elections, says nothing about state elections. Since the Constitution is silent on that, the question is:

Does Congress have the right to forbid poll taxes in state elections since these are state matters?

President Johnson himself this week, although he demanded a voting rights bill, expressed concern that if it passes with the antipoll-tax provision as it now stands there may be long court fights over it.

The attempt to keep certain groups of people from voting at all is an old story in American history. Negroes are just the latest target.

Divided in 1787

The Constitution's framers in 1787 were divided on whether poor men should be permitted to vote. The Constitution was left blank on this, thus allowing states to fix their own voting qualifications.

All the states imposed property qualifications. One by one the states abandoned them. After the 15th Amendment was adopted in 1870 to protect the voting rights of newly freed Negroes, Southern states thought up the poll tax.

That amendment said a citizen couldn't be deprived of his right to vote — by federal or state governments — because of race or color. Eleven Southern states adopted poll taxes. Only four still have them: Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, Virginia.

In a test case from Georgia in 1937 the Supreme Court upheld the validity of the poll tax as a voting requirement, reasoning it didn't abridge the right to vote. The court considered the tax just an ordinary revenue measure.

Under Attack Since

And up until now — or at least until this week — that has been the position of federal courts. But that 1937 court blithely ignored the fact that in the Georgia case the state made no attempt to collect the tax from those who did not try to vote. Yet, the court said it was a revenue measure.

But the poll tax has been under attack ever since. In 1938 the Southern Conference of Human Welfare condemned it as a device to keep Negroes from voting. And in 1947 President Truman's Committee on Civil Rights called for outlawing it, saying "it simply places the payment of a fee between the voter and the ballot box."

Bills to ban it were offered in every session of Congress after 1939. Five times the House passed antipoll-tax bills. But Southern Democrats in the Senate were always able to block them there.

Just for Federal

It remained such a sore subject that finally both houses, and three-quarters of the states, approved the 24th Amendment. But — this amendment only banned payment of a poll tax for voting in federal elections.

It said nothing about the constitutionality of the poll tax requirement in state elections.

Virginia tried a clumsy gimmick to get around the 24th Amendment even in federal elections by passing a 1963 law which said. If Virginians wanted to vote in federal elections they didn't have to pay a poll tax if — it was quite an if — they filed a certificate of residence six months before the election and had it notarized.

This week the Supreme Court declared that law unconstitutional, contrary to the 24th Amendment, for the certificate, so clearly linked to the poll tax, was exacting a "price" for the right to vote.

No Ruling on State

And, the court said, the Virginia poll tax "was born of a desire to disenfranchise the Negro." Nevertheless, the court here was only barring the poll tax or the alternative of a certificate in federal elections. It still didn't rule on state elections.

But, from the language used, there doesn't seem much doubt, if confronted with the problem, that the court would declare poll taxes in state elections unconstitutional, too, because they required a "price" to vote.

Actually, no matter what kind of voting bill Congress passes, the court has agreed to hear next fall a case arguing against Virginia's constitutional right to impose a poll tax in state elections.

One of this country's top constitutional authorities, Prof. Paul Freund of Harvard Law School, said he thought the voting bill ban on poll taxes in state elections would be upheld by the Supreme Court.

Ellenville Youths Face Burglary Charges

Three 16-year-old youths were arrested Wednesday by Ellenville village police on charges of burglary third degree in connection with a burglary April 16 at the Shawangunk Country Club golfhouse in that community.

Police Chief Abe Rand, who made the arrests with Assistant Chief Arthur Mantone, said the accused youths were Lawrence Tucker, Henry Weathers and his cousin, Jerome Weathers, all of Ellenville.

The chief reported the defendants are accused of taking 33 sport shirts, two jackets and several pairs of sox valued at about $150. Entry was gained by breaking a window in the building, Rand said.

Arraigned before Acting Police Judge Charles J. Piluco, the youths waived preliminary examination and the case was referred to the grand jury, police said. The defendants were ordered committed to the county jail.

Mexico Spending More on Schools Than on Defense

By JACK RUTLEDGE

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Mexico's nationwide "revolution through education" is being pushed hard by the administration, which hopes to eliminate illiteracy by 1970. Even if the goal is not reached, the drive is paying off.

Mexico spends four times as much on education as it does on defense and efforts to educate the masses are massive, although the stork is a major problem.

Illiteracy, running almost 80 per cent of the population at one time, is down to around 32 per cent. But Mexico's population has jumped from 15 million to around 40 million in half a century, and is growing at the rate of a million a year. So the percentage looks good, but the actual numbers don't.

Consequently, Prof. Ramon Bonfil, newly appointed director of the government's anti-illiteracy campaign, is pushing education in all fields — new schools, more teachers, radio and television programs, a national drive for more students, and even new teaching concepts.

Newspapers, television, radio, private industrial and fraternal groups, all are helping. School children ring doorbells looking for illiterates to enroll in a new 10-month course.

When the 1910 revolution ended, Mexican peasants wanted schools for their children almost as badly as they wanted land for themselves. President Alvaro Obregon launched Mexico's first major program for education in the early 1920s. He named Jose Vasconcelos education minister.

Vasconcelos organized missionary teachers to visit rural areas by rail, car, horseback, canoe and on foot, surveying educational and health needs and recruiting the help of rural teachers. By the end of Obregon's term in 1924 there were more than 1,000 federal rural schools operating, with about 65,000 students, despite many handicaps.

The latest figures show there are 37,576 primary city schools with 6,605,751 students, and 28,931 primary rural schools with 2,694,191 students. In addition, there are secondary schools, many universities, including the huge National University, with more than 75,000 enrolled, and other centers.

But Mexico's battle has been complicated by the tremendous increase in population, about 3.1 per cent a year. In 1930 Mexico had 16.6 million people, today an estimated 40 million.

Although the government has set up a five-year program hoping to educate all by 1970, officials acknowledge it may take a decade to provide adequate education for this ever-swelling tide of school-age children.

The Question:

By JAMES MARLOW
AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is an ABC on a hot dispute.

The Senate, now debating a bill to protect Ngeroes' voting rights, is in knots over one section which would outlaw the poll tax as a requirement for voting in state elections.

The Constitution's 24th Amendment, adopted Jan. 23, 1964, bars the poll tax in federal elections, says nothing about state elections. Since the Constitution is silent on that, the question is:

Does Congress have the right to forbid poll taxes in state elections since these are state matters?

President Johnson himself this week, although he demanded a voting rights bill, expressed concern that if it passes with the antipoll-tax provision as it now stands there may be long court fights over it.

The attempt to keep certain groups of people from voting at all is an old story in American history. Negroes are just the latest target.

Divided in 1787

The Constitution's framers in 1787 were divided on whether poor men should be permitted to vote. The Constitution was left blank on this, thus allowing states to fix their own voting qualifications.

All the states imposed property qualifications. One by one the states abandoned them. After the 15th Amendment was adopted in 1870 to protect the voting rights of newly freed Negroes, Southern states thought up the poll tax.

That amendment said a citizen couldn't be deprived of his right to vote — by federal or state governments — because of race or color. Eleven Southern states adopted poll taxes. Only four still have them: Alabama, Mississippi, Texas, Virginia.

In a test case from Georgia in 1937 the Supreme Court upheld the validity of the poll tax as a voting requirement, reasoning it didn't abridge the right to vote. The court considered the tax just an ordinary revenue measure.

Under Attack Since

And up until now — or at least until this week — that has been the position of federal courts. But that 1937 court blithely ignored the fact that in the Georgia case the state made no attempt to collect the tax from those who did not try to vote. Yet, the court said it was a revenue measure.

But the poll tax has been under attack ever since. In 1938 the Southern Conference of Human Welfare condemned it as a device to keep Negroes from voting. And in 1947 President Truman's Committee on Civil Rights called for outlawing it, saying "it simply places the payment of a fee between the voter and the ballot box."

Bills to ban it were offered in every session of Congress after 1939. Five times the House passed antipoll-tax bills. But Southern Democrats in the Senate were always able to block them there.

Just for Federal

It remained such a sore subject that finally both houses, and three-quarters of the states, approved the 24th Amendment. But — this amendment only banned payment of a poll tax for voting in federal elections.

It said nothing about the constitutionality of the poll tax requirement in state elections.

Virginia tried a clumsy gimmick to get around the 24th Amendment even in federal elections by passing a 1963 law which said. If Virginians wanted to vote in federal elections they didn't have to pay a poll tax if — it was quite an if — they filed a certificate of residence six months before the election and had it notarized.

This week the Supreme Court declared that law unconstitutional, contrary to the 24th Amendment, for the certificate, so clearly linked to the poll tax, was exacting a "price" for the right to vote.

No Ruling on State

And, the court said, the Virginia poll tax "was born of a desire to disenfranchise the Negro." Nevertheless, the court here was only barring the poll tax or the alternative of a certificate in federal elections. It still didn't rule on state elections.

But, from the language used, there doesn't seem much doubt, if confronted with the problem, that the court would declare poll taxes in state elections unconstitutional, too, because they required a "price" to vote.

Actually, no matter what kind of voting bill Congress passes, the court has agreed to hear next fall a case arguing against Virginia's constitutional right to impose a poll tax in state elections.

One of this country's top constitutional authorities, Prof. Paul Freund of Harvard Law School, said he thought the voting bill ban on poll taxes in state elections would be upheld by the Supreme Court.

Along Capitol Corridors

By ROBERT GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The question of whether Gov. Rockefeller can lead New York Republicans back to the dominant position they once held is bothering many rank-and-file GOP legislators these days.

In private conversations, those lawmakers express doubt that Rockefeller could win a third term.

The governor has not said whether he will run for one, but most observers believe that is his present intention.

While a Democratic-controlled Legislature enacted the sales tax, Rockefeller appears to be the focal point of the public criticism against it.

Talk New Candidate

They say that a new candidate for governor next year—a fresh figure not associated with the fiscal and other political problems surrounding Rockefeller — would be better equipped to lead a Republican comeback effort.

From another quarter comes the complaint that the governor, as leader of the party, has not served the party's best interests in preparing for the New York City's mayoral race this year.

The GOP has yet to come up with a candidate. The governor was accused of counseling a delay in beginning the mayoral fight until passage of his 1965 fiscal program.

He was aligned with New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner and the Legislature's Democratic majorities in the successful move to win passage of a statewide sales tax as part of a new budget that will bring greatly increased financial benefits to the Wagner administration.

The governor was said to have been reluctant to mount a campaign against Wagner, seeking a new term, at the same time he was banking on the Democratic mayor's support for the sales tax.

Consider LBJ Sweep

Upstate, many Republican legislators objected to the governor's raising the sales tax issue in the same year the party will try to regain control of the Legislature from the Democrats.

The Republican state organization suffered a major setback last November when President Johnson swept the state, Democrats took control of the Legislature, took a majority of the state's seats in the U.S. House of Representatives and lost a U.S. Senate seat.

Aloof From Press

Rockefeller has remained aloof from the press during most of the current, tumultuous legislative session.

His last news conference in Albany was on March 15 and he turned down a request from newsmen to meet with him during the prolonged budget crisis that ended April 14.

Thus, there has been no opportunity for eliciting his views on the cross-currents of political comment and speculation surrounding him.

With other GOP leaders, the governor has been encouraged by the many problems Democrats have had as the majority party of the Legislature.

Their inability to choose legislative leaders or to enact a fiscal program without Republican help will be ammunition for GOP campaigns this year and next.

But the Republicans are well aware they have their own problems and doubts about the governor's future political appeal appears to be one of them.

Employers Must File Form 941 by April 30

ALBANY — Employers were reminded today that April 30, is an important tax date.

By ROBERT GRAY

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The question of whether Gov. Rockefeller can lead New York Republicans back to the dominant position they once held is bothering many rank-and-file GOP legislators these days.

In private conversations, those lawmakers express doubt that Rockefeller could win a third term.

The governor has not said whether he will run for one, but most observers believe that is his present intention.

While a Democratic-controlled Legislature enacted the sales tax, Rockefeller appears to be the focal point of the public criticism against it.

Talk New Candidate

They say that a new candidate for governor next year—a fresh figure not associated with the fiscal and other political problems surrounding Rockefeller — would be better equipped to lead a Republican comeback effort.

From another quarter comes the complaint that the governor, as leader of the party, has not served the party's best interests in preparing for the New York City's mayoral race this year.

The GOP has yet to come up with a candidate. The governor was accused of counseling a delay in beginning the mayoral fight until passage of his 1965 fiscal program.

He was aligned with New York City Mayor Robert F. Wagner and the Legislature's Democratic majorities in the successful move to win passage of a statewide sales tax as part of a new budget that will bring greatly increased financial benefits to the Wagner administration.

The governor was said to have been reluctant to mount a campaign against Wagner, seeking a new term, at the same time he was banking on the Democratic mayor's support for the sales tax.

Consider LBJ Sweep

Upstate, many Republican legislators objected to the governor's raising the sales tax issue in the same year the party will try to regain control of the Legislature from the Democrats.

The Republican state organization suffered a major setback last November when President Johnson swept the state. Democrats took control of the Legislature, took a majority of the state's seats in the U.S. House of Representatives and lost a U.S. Senate seat.

Aloof From Press

Rockefeller has remained aloof from the press during most of the current, tumultuous legislative session.

His last news conference in Albany was on March 15 and he turned down a request from newsmen to meet with him during the prolonged budget crisis that ended April 14.

Thus, there has been no opportunity for eliciting his views on the cross-currents of political comment and speculation surrounding him.

With other GOP leaders, the governor has been encouraged by the many problems Democrats have had as the majority party of the Legislature.

Their inability to choose legislative leaders or to enact a fiscal program without Republican help will be ammunition for GOP campaigns this year and next.

But the Republicans are well aware they have their own problems and doubts about the governor's future political appeal appears to be one of them.

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—A stack of copies 30 stories high has been produced in three months by a new (Xerox Corp.) copy machine in a series of field tests.

The machine, which can do 2,400 copies an hour, is described as "too fast to be a copier and too simple to use to be anything else."

Off the Boat Some Way

ATHENS (AP) — Greek customs officials are checking closely into whisky imports. The investigation was started when British export figures showed Greece had imported 40,000 cases of whisky last year but Greek customs records showed only 22,000 cases listed as entering the country.

Plan Competition For Junior Drum Corps August 28

An organizational meeting was held at the Old Dutch Church recently for the purpose of promoting a championship junior drum and bugle corps marching and maneuvering competition at Dietz Stadium in Kingston on the evening of August 28.

Alex Macdonald, scout executive, Rip Van Winkle Council, and Ralph Shapiro, scoutmaster Troop 12 BSA and director of the "Indians," announced the joint sponsorship of the event to be known as the "Pow Wow of Junior Champions." The selection of Shapiro as general chairman and Herbert Greenwald as co-chairman was announced.

Those in attendance from the Rip Van Winkle Council and Troop 12 included Macdonald, Hurley; Sherwood Lasher, William Sill, Greenwald, James Dugan, Alfred Townsend, Shapiro, Gilbert Sampson, John Lebherz, Richard White, Harry Re, Clifford Bell, William Klein, Harold Harrison, Kenneth Malchow, all of Kingston; Harry Hoffman, Raymond Quackenbush and Harold Wilsey, Saugerties and John Bach, Port Ewen.

Committees were announced and a general informational program followed. A general Pow Wow Committee meeting will be held on May 5 at which time all committees will be formed and subcommittee chairmen announced.

Big Haul

KALI, Yugoslavia (AP) — Fishermen of this Adriatic island pulled happily at their big net which was so heavily laden that it promised a good catch. Then they saw what they had hauled in—a 1,100 pound World War II aerial bomb. Experts were rushed to the scene to disarm it.

Employers Must File Form 941 by April 30

ALBANY — Employers were reminded today that April 30, is an important tax date.

William E. Williams, Albany District director of Internal Revenue whch services Northeastern New York State, said it is the deadline for reporting and paying income tax withheld and social security taxes for the calendar quarter ended March 31, 1965.

Williams said employers should use Form 941 to report their tax liability for that period. They should mail it, along with depositary receipts and full payment of taxes due to their local District Director of Internal Revenue, 161 Washington Avenue, Albany, 12210.

Williams said that taxpayers, who make full and timely deposits of the taxes due for each month of the quarter at a Federal Reserve Bank or an authorized commercial bank, have until May 10, 1965 to file returns.

Circular E, "Employer's Tax Guide," which furnishes detailed information on this subject is available upon request from the Internal Revenue Service District Office, 161 Washington Avenue, Albany, 12210.

That Grass-Covered Mound

East German Guards Use Hitler Bunker to Observe

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — If you stand atop a wooden platform at Potsdamer Platz in downtown Berlin and look slightly to your left across the concrete and barbed wire of the Red wall, you will see a grass-covered mound.

Occasionally East German Communist border guards walk past the gently sloping, 15-foot mound. Sometimes the guards walk up on it and observe the area around them, watching for refugees.

It is a macabre spectacle, considering that under their feet, beneath this mound, lies the tomb of Adolf Hitler's Third Reich — the bunker where history's murderous madman gave his last orders, before shooting himself.

20 Years Ago Friday

It will be 20 years ago Friday that the fuehrer's suicide ushered in the Goetterdaemmerung of Nazi Germany and was the climax of Berlin's collapse in flames.

The guns of the Red army were pounding the city and Soviet infantrymen were less than a mile from the Reich Chancellery.

Rather than fall into the hands of the Russians, who probably would have marched him through the streets of Moscow, he killed himself. Eva Braun, his mistress of many years and wife of a day, swallowed cyanide. The dog was poisoned.

Survivors in the bunker wrapped the bodies in blankets and tossed the bundles into a huge bomb crater outside — Adolf and Eva lying side by side with the dog on top of both.

Gasoline was poured over the bodies, a match was struck and, as the flames shot up, the burial party left the scene.

'Death of Hero'

Next day, the Nazi radio broadcast that the fuehrer died "the death of a hero at the head of his troops defending the Reich capital.

But when the war ended, the story of his death was pieced together from testimony of those who survived.

Over the years rumors bubbled through the world that Hitler had survived; had escaped in a submarine to South America; had holed up in the Alps.

Until recently, the Russians kept silent about what they found.

They finally talked, they said, because a West Berlin prosecutor had filed charges against Hitler to assure his prosecution for crimes against humanity if he should ever turn up, after the expiration of the statute of limitations.

Yelena Rshevskaya, a member of a Soviet army intelligence team charged with arresting top-ranking Nazis, said in a radio report there was irrefutable evidence that Hitler had died.

Miss Rshevskaya described in detail how the bodies of Hitler and Eva Braun were found in the bomb crater but did not say where the remains eventually were buried.

Arlington School District Salaries

Salary increases of $300 to all teaching personnel in the Arlington Central School District have been granted by the Board of Education in that district.

The new starting salary for a teacher with a master's degree becomes $6,000 with top salary of $10,400. The starting salary for teachers with a bachelor of arts degree becomes $5,500 and the top salary after 19 steps on the salary scale becomes $9,900.

At a meeting of the Board of Education of the Kingston School District Consolidated on April 22, new salary schedules for teachers with master's degrees and bachelor of arts degrees, were granted by a 7-1 vote.

The new starting salary for teachers with a master's degree in the Kingston Consolidated district will be $5,900, up $200, and the maximum salary after 15 years, will be $9,900, up $600. The starting salary for teachers with a bachelor of arts degree in this district will be $5,300, up $100, and the top salary after 15 years will be $9,200, up $500.

The Hyde Park Central School District Board of Education at a meeting earlier this month set a starting salary of $5,400 for teachers with bachelor of arts degrees and put the starting salary for teachers with a master's degree at $6,100.

Maurice C. Walsh, public relations chairman for the Arlington board, said the board is aiming at keeping the district tax rate unchanged, in spite of added expenses, with state aid making up the major share of added costs. He noted that varying pay increases were approved for some non-teaching personnel.

India Makes Charge

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India opened a campaign today against the U.S. military aid program to Pakistan, claiming Indian troops have had to fight off American-made tanks spearheading Pakistani attacks.

Photographs of tanks, said to have been taken by an Indian air force plane, were distributed to the press as "documentary evidence" that Pakistan has been illegally using its U.S. military aid against India in the Rann of Kutch area on the western frontier.

That Grass-Covered Mound

East German Guards Use Hitler Bunker to Observe

By JOHN O. KOEHLER

BERLIN (AP) — If you stand atop a wooden platform at Potsdamer Platz in downtown Berlin and look slightly to your left across the concrete and barbed wire of the Red wall, you will see a grass-covered mound.

Occasionally East German Communist border guards walk past the gently sloping, 15-foot mound. Sometimes the guards walk up on it and observe the area around them, watching for refugees.

It is a macabre spectacle, considering that under their feet, beneath this mound, lies the tomb of Adolf Hitler's Third Reich — the bunker where history's murderous madman gave his last orders, before shooting himself.

20 Years Ago Friday

It will be 20 years ago Friday that the fuehrer's suicide ushered in the Goetterdaemmerung of Nazi Germany and was the climax of Berlin's collapse in flames.

The guns of the Red army were pounding the city and Soviet infantrymen were less than a mile from the Reich Chancellery.

Rather than fall into the hands of the Russians, who probably would have marched him through the streets of Moscow, he killed himself. Eva Braun, his mistress of many years and wife of a day, swallowed cyanide. The dog was poisoned.

Survivors in the bunker wrapped the bodies in blankets and tossed the bundles into a huge bomb crater outside — Adolf and Eva lying side by side with the dog on top of both.

Gasoline was poured over the bodies, a match was struck and, as the flames shot up, the burial party left the scene.

'Death of Hero'

Next day, the Nazi radio broadcast that the fuehrer died "the death of a hero at the head of his troops defending the Reich capital.

But when the war ended, the story of his death was pieced together from testimony of those who survived.

Over the years rumors bubbled through the world that Hitler had survived; had escaped in a submarine to South America; had holed up in the Alps.

Until recently, the Russians kept silent about what they found.

They finally talked, they said, because a West Berlin prosecutor had filed charges against Hitler to assure his prosecution for crimes against humanity if he should ever turn up, after the expiration of the statute of limitations.

Yelena Rshevskaya, a member of a Soviet army intelligence team charged with arresting top-ranking Nazis, said in a radio report there was irrefutable evidence that Hitler had died.

Miss Rshevskaya described in detail how the bodies of Hitler and Eva Braun were found in the bomb crater but did not say where the remains eventually were buried.

Arlington School District Salaries

Salary increases of $300 to all teaching personnel in the Arlington Central School District have been granted by the Board of Education in that district.

The new starting salary for a teacher with a master's degree becomes $6,000 with top salary of $10,400. The starting salary for teachers with a bachelor of arts degree becomes $5,500 and the top salary after 19 steps on the salary scale becomes $9,900.

At a meeting of the Board of Education of the Kingston School District Consolidated on April 22, new salary schedules for teachers with master's degrees and bachelor of arts degrees, were granted by a 7-1 vote.

The new starting salary for teachers with a master's degree in the Kingston Consolidated district will be $5,900, up $200, and the maximum salary after 15 years, will be $9,900, up $600. The starting salary for teachers with a bachelor of arts degree in this district will be $5,300, up $100, and the top salary after 15 years will be $9,200, up $500.

The Hyde Park Central School District Board of Education at a meeting earlier this month set a starting salary of $5,400 for teachers with bachelor of arts degrees and put the starting salary for teachers with a master's degree at $6,100.

Maurice C. Walsh, public relations chairman for the Arlington board, said the board is aiming at keeping the district tax rate unchanged, in spite of added expenses, with state aid making up the major share of added costs. He noted that varying pay increases were approved for some non-teaching personnel.

India Makes Charge

NEW DELHI, India (AP) — India opened a campaign today against the U.S. military aid program to Pakistan, claiming Indian troops have had to fight off American-made tanks spearheading Pakistani attacks.

Photographs of tanks, said to have been taken by an Indian air force plane, were distributed to the press as "documentary evidence" that Pakistan has been illegally using its U.S. military aid against India in the Rann of Kutch area on the western frontier.

Newest Senator Discusses:

LBJ in South, Segregation And Future of Negro Vote

EDITOR'S NOTE—South Carolina's Democratic Sen. Donald Russell is the newest member of the Senate. After less than a week on Capitol Hill, he gives his views in this exclusive interview on subjects ranging from segregation to President Johnson's present political strength in the South and the future of the Negro vote.

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Donald Russell, D-S.C., who has been called a civil rights moderate, said today he feels racial segregation "in many areas is necessary and it's for the best interest of both races."

Russell, who resigned last week as governor of South Carolina and was appointed to the Senate vacancy created by the death of Sen. Olin D. Johnston, D-S.C., called for compliance with the 1964 Civil Rights Act but said he opposes the pending Negro voting rights bill.

Some Thoughts

In an interview with The Associated Press, Russell:

—Said he believes President Johnson has lost political support in the South by his advocacy of the voting rights measure but has "gained immeasurably in esteem" by his firm policy in Viet Nam.

—Said Negroes are moving out of the Southern states and the proportion of white population is gaining, thus offsetting increases in the Negro vote.

—Said the South seems to be moving toward a two-party status politically.

Here, in answers to questions, are some of his views:

Q. You're a moderate on civil rights and represent what is called the new South. How do you define your role?

A. I don't know where you got the characterization. I have attempted in my policies as governor to be fair and just to all. I do feel that there are areas in which it is better for both races that we follow the policy of some segregation. On the other hand we have observed punctually and very carefully any court orders and we have tried to comply with the law.

I think that is in keeping with the feeling of the majority of the people of South Carolina, and I think we have made quite a record in that regard. I think, as a result of it, it has contributed to a spirit of racial peace that has aided in the growth and development of our state.

For Limited Segregation

Q. You're still in favor of limited segregation?

A. Yes, I think that there are many proposed acts that I don't think would be justified at the moment, and I certainly am opposed to the voting rights bill that is now pending. I do not think there is any need for it as far as South Carolina is concerned.

I was governor for two and a half years approximately and so far as I know there was never a complaint at any time during that period that the literacy test had been used to discriminate against anyone on account of his race, color or creed. We have attempted to be fair and just and I think the registration would show that.

Q. In what specific areas do you think segregation is the best policy?

A. Well, I do not believe that immediate integration of schools, faculties — and here I'm speaking about the public schools — would be in the interest of either Negroes or whites.

Q. Yet, you put the first Negro into a white public school in your state, isn't that true?

A. That is true. There was an order of court that provided for it. We observed that order of court.

Q. But you're still not for general school integration?

A. Right.

Points to Law

Q. Are you for integration in public facilities, such as theaters, bowling alleys, restaurants and things like that?

A. Most of, practically all of, your restaurants and your theaters are covered by the Civil Rights Act of '64. So, it's not a question of whether we think it's right or not, it's a matter that it is the law and we have to observe it.

Q. You campaigned for President Johnson in your state and the Republicans carried it. How does Johnson stand there now?

A. I think there are two crosscurrents and what effect the two of them may have, I don't know. One, I think the President has gained immeasurably in the esteem of the people of our state by his firm policy in Viet Nam. I think on the contrary he has undoubtedly lost support on account of his support of the voting rights bill. Now to what extent they'll be pluses and minuses this year — to what extent it balances out, I wouldn't want to try to say.

Q. Do you think the Negro vote eventually will become a decisive factor in Southern states?

A. Of course the size of the Negro vote has been increasing. On the other hand the Negro population has been moving out of many of the Southern states in heavy numbers, and that's true in our state. The proportion of white population in South Carolina has been constantly increasing over a period of the last 30 or 40 years. We are increasing in population, but we are increasing because of migration of whites, despite heavy out-migration of Negroes. I assume that same pattern might be occurring in most of the other Southern states.

To Banish Speeding Foreign Officials

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—New Jersey Turnpike authorities have ordered foreign officials who speed to be banished from the busy superhighway.

William J. Flanagan, the turnpike's executive director, has ordered state troopers to usher off the road speeders protected by diplomatic immunity.

There have been 44 speeding violations by diplomatic cars on the 118-mile turnpike in the past nine years, and in five cases the cars were going more than 100 miles an hour, Flanagan said. The speed limit is 60 m.p.h.

Study of Russian Is Compulsory in German Schools

A leading personality in Germany's education is Karl Heinz, Senator for School Affairs in Berlin. He says: "A school system whch has become historic and no longer up to date here in Germany, cannot simply be papered over with reforms.

The so-called Observation Stage, which means prolonging the primary school education from four to six years, was, after years of experimenting introduced into the school system of Lower Saxony and North Rhine-Westphalia.

The teaching of Russian as a secondary compulsory foreign language instead of, or as a third language in addition to French or Latn, is another major adaptation of the curriculum to conditions dictated by historical developments.

"We must show ourselves equally receptive to the culture of East and West, Lessons in at least one of the Slavonic languages should have been introduced even before the two World Wars. We have suffered for this neglect," said Evers.

Optional Basis

On an optional basis many students already study Russian as the third language, from fifth grammar school year onward. Professor Mikat, Minister of Education of North Rhine-Westphalia, notices an astounding increase of interest in the study of Russian. Members of the German armed forces have been offered language courses in Russian in adition to English and French. One out of every five Germans has a knowledge of English, one in ten speaks French. At present only three per cent of the German population speaks Russian. This is generally considered an inadequate percentage.

At their Stuttgart conference in December 1964, the German ministers of education approved of a so-called "educational crash program." Some of the principal points are the raising of the school-leaving age by one year (already effective in five states); foreign languages to be taught in all schools from the fifth grade on; in some schools on an experimental basis from the fourth and third grade on.

Berlin may be numbered among these German cities with the highest proportion of success in the certificate of maturity (10 per cent of each year group). This might be due to permanent educational experiments as, for example, carried out in the promising "Educational Workshop of Berlin" which is proud of what is called "horizontal structure."

Gets Invitation

This writer, following a suggestion and invitation extended to him by some educational authorities, plans to visit some special schools such as the Odenwald School, the Otto Barning School, the Robert Bloom School, which takes only students who have had ten years of education. Another experimental type of school is the Insel Scharfenberg School which emphasizes music and art.

Some schools will be "all day schools" where students will spend all day instead of a half day only. In this case all "homework" will be done in school under the supervision of the teach-

Forest Fire Fighting Policy Burning Permits, Elections Hot Issues for Volunteers

Proposals to clarify forest fire fighting and use of equipment, and the desire to hold elections of department officers in December rather then April, were items on the agenda of the quarterly four-company meeting of the Woodstock Fire Department held in Wittenberg this week.

The forest fire fighting item has been the subject of discussion for sometime, particularly in view of an incident which happened last fall when most of the available firemen in the town were called to fight two forest fires in one day and thus left little protection in their respective districts.

It was decided to propose to the Conservation Department and the coming county fire meeting the idea of each company having four volunteers to send to forest fires outside of its district. The lack of equipment from the Conservation Department for the fighting of forest fires was also emphasized, and an attempt will be made to secure equipment for this purpose.

New Election Procedure

The present practice of electing line officers of the entire department in April, when all of the four companes held their individual elections in December or January, was subject to debate. This resulted in the unanimous opinion of the four companies that departmental line officers should be elected in December to coincide with individual company elections.

Other business included the announcement of the county fire meeting in Woodstock on May 18, the arrival of the gated suctions for all pumpers in the department, and the completion of the color-coding of equipment in order to eliminate confusion and loss of equipment at fires where more than one company was operating.

Firemen of the department will parade Memorial Day in Woodstock, on the invitation of Company No. 1.

The next meetng of the four companies will be held at Woodstock Fire Co. No. 4 in Zena on Monday, July 26 at 8 p. m.

Woodstock Permits

Burning permits in the Town of Woodstock was also an item aired at the four - company meeting. It was stated that difficulty had been encountered in securing permits due to the correct person not being available to issue such a permit. A suggestion to offset this trouble was to be offered to the Conservation Department in the form of a man in each of the four districts being designated to issue burning permits. Further troubles were mentioned concerning burning permits in that people who had obtained such permits had not used them with discretion, thus creating situations which could become dangerous fires and make the calling of apparatus from the districts mandatory. Fire Chief George Haythorne again emphasized that absolutely no burning was allowed on Sundays in the Town of Woodstock, and that burning on weekdays required a permit.

Also, the number of the Dual Language Schools has increased. There, some of the subjects in the curriculum are taught in two languages, for example: German and English and German and French. One of these Dual Language Schools is the John F. Kennedy School which was founded four years ago—H. A. SCHIMMERLING.

Syracuse Names Britting of OCS For Fellowship

CHARLES R. BRITTING

Syracuse University has announced the selection of Charles R. Britting of Woodstock, Guidance Counselor in the Onteora Central Schools, as a fellowship winner in its Guidance and Counseling Training Institute from June 28 through August 20.

Britting is one of 30 recipients to receive a fellowship. Applications were received from more than 400 counselors and guidance directors in the state.

The broad purposes of the institute are to help the enrollees in the development of a deeper understanding of human behavior and to assist them in sharpening their skills used to translate this understanding into effective guidance and counseling practices.

The areas of competence which are to be emphasized are knowledge of personality development, understanding of human motivation, the process of career choice, individual counseling and group procedures. Pertinent research, theories and ideas presented will be integrated and their relation to the counselors' everyday work will be emphasized.

BRASS SECTION: Pictured above is a rehearsal of part of the brass section of the Onteora High school band which appears in annual concert with the high school chorus Tuesday, May 4, at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium at Boiceville. The band is conducted by Harry Simon and the choir is under the direction of Earl Proper.

Proceeds from this concert will go toward the Summer Music Scholarship Fund which each year enables deserving music students to attend the Music School at the University of Vermont in Burlington, Vt. Tickets will be available at the door the evening of the concert.

Meyer, Noted Conservative Next Speaker for GOP Club

Frank S. Meyer of Woodstock, treasurer of the newly formed American Conservative Union, will address the May 10 meeting of the Woodstock Republican Club at Deanie's at 8 p. m.

A dominant figure in the conservative political movement in the United States, Meyer is also a nationally known author, editor, lecturer and critic of the political scene.

Meyer's topic will be "Conservatism in America and New York State."

Through his column, "Principles and Heresies" which appears regularly in the arch conservative magazines National Review, edited by William F. Buckley, Meyer has become one of the most influential and formidable forces in contemporary conservative thought. His hard hitting conservatism is also reflected in his many books, such as In Defense of Freedom: A Conservative Credo.

Has New Book

His latest work, The African Nettle, which deals with the dilemmas of the emerging nations on the African continent was released in early April, 1965.

Audiences throughout the nation have found him an impressive speaker, at once exhilarating and profound. He has spoken at more than 20 of the nation's leading universities and frequently appears on radio and television.

Meyer is not only a conservative theorist and author, but also an active practicing conservative. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the Conservative Party of New York State and chairman of its Committee on International Relations.

Republican club president H. Clark Bell, Jr. urges all citizens, regardless of political belief or party affiliation to hear Meyer and participate in the question and answer period which follows his speech.

"The Woodstock Republican Club is indeed fortunate and proud to present to the community a nationally known lecturer who is certainly an acknowledged expert in his field and an articulate and accomplished speaker," said Bell. "Such a combination will provide both an informative and entertaining evening."

Pakistani Forces Claim Easy Win Over Indian Units

BIAR-BET, Kutch (AP) — Pakistani forces claim they scored an easy victory over Indian troops in a four-day battle that ended with Pakistani occupation of this oasis in the baked, barren Rann of Kutch.

It is one of the most unlikely and desolate battlegrounds on earth. Soon the heat-scorched wastes will become marshy tideland, covered by water from the Arabian Sea whipped up by monsoon rains.

Pakistani field commanders said almost all fighting takes place at night, when the heat subsides. The darkness also allows more freedom of movement across the empty flats where during the day one can see for miles.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP)—New Jersey Turnpike authorities have ordered foreign officials who speed to be banished from the busy superhighway.

William J. Flanagan, the turnpike's executive director, has ordered state troopers to usher off the road speeders protected by diplomatic immunity.

There have been 44 speeding violations by diplomatic cars on the 118-mile turnpike in the past nine years, and in five cases the cars were going more than 100 miles an hour, Flanagan said. The speed limit is 60 m.p.h.

Forest Fire Fighting Policy Burning Permits, Elections Hot Issues for Volunteers

Proposals to clarify forest fire fighting and use of equipment, and the desire to hold elections of department officers in December rather then April, were items on the agenda of the quarterly four-company meeting of the Woodstock Fire Department held in Wittenberg this week.

The forest fire fighting item has been the subject of discussion for sometime, particularly in view of an incident which happened last fall when most of the available firemen in the town were called to fight two forest fires in one day and thus left little protection in their respective districts.

It was decided to propose to the Conservation Department and the coming county fire meeting the idea of each company having four volunteers to send to forest fires outside of its district. The lack of equipment from the Conservation Department for the fighting of forest fires was also emphasized, and an attempt will be made to secure equipment for this purpose.

New Election Procedure

The present practice of electing line officers of the entire department in April, when all of the four companes held their individual elections in December or January, was subject to debate. This resulted in the unanimous opinion of the four companies that departmental line officers should be elected in December to coincide with individual company elections.

Other business included the announcement of the county fire meeting in Woodstock on May 18, the arrival of the gated suctions for all pumpers in the department, and the completion of the color-coding of equipment in order to eliminate confusion and loss of equipment at fires where more than one company was operating.

Firemen of the department will parade Memorial Day in Woodstock, on the invitation of Company No. 1.

The next meetng of the four companies will be held at Woodstock Fire Co. No. 4 in Zena on Monday, July 26 at 8 p. m.

Woodstock Permits

Burning permits in the Town of Woodstock was also an item aired at the four - company meeting. It was stated that difficulty had been encountered in securing permits due to the correct person not being available to issue such a permit. A suggestion to offset this trouble was to be offered to the Conservation Department in the form of a man in each of the four districts being designated to issue burning permits. Further troubles were mentioned concerning burning permits in that people who had obtained such permits had not used them with discretion, thus creating situations which could become dangerous fires and make the calling of apparatus from the districts mandatory. Fire Chief George Haythorne again emphasized that absolutely no burning was allowed on Sundays in the Town of Woodstock, and that burning on weekdays required a permit.

CHARLES R. BRITTING

Syracuse University has announced the selection of Charles R. Britting of Woodstock, Guidance Counselor in the Onteora Central Schools, as a fellowship winner in its Guidance and Counseling Training Institute from June 28 through August 20.

Britting is one of 30 recipients to receive a fellowship. Applications were received from more than 400 counselors and guidance directors in the state.

The broad purposes of the institute are to help the enrollees in the development of a deeper understanding of human behavior and to assist them in sharpening their skills used to translate this understanding into effective guidance and counseling practices.

The areas of competence which are to be emphasized are knowledge of personality development, understanding of human motivation, the process of career choice, individual counseling and group procedures. Pertinent research, theories and ideas presented will be integrated and their relation to the counselors' everyday work will be emphasized.

BRASS SECTION: Pictured above is a rehearsal of part of the brass section of the Onteora High school band which appears in annual concert with the high school chorus Tuesday, May 4, at 8 p. m. in the high school auditorium at Boiceville. The band is conducted by Harry Simon and the choir is under the direction of Earl Proper.

Proceeds from this concert will go toward the Summer Music Scholarship Fund which each year enables deserving music students to attend the Music School at the University of Vermont in Burlington, Vt. Tickets will be available at the door the evening of the concert.

Meyer, Noted Conservative Next Speaker for GOP Club

Frank S. Meyer of Woodstock, treasurer of the newly formed American Conservative Union, will address the May 10 meeting of the Woodstock Republican Club at Deanie's at 8 p. m.

A dominant figure in the conservative political movement in the United States, Meyer is also a nationally known author, editor, lecturer and critic of the political scene.

Meyer's topic will be "Conservatism in America and New York State."

Through his column, "Principles and Heresies" which appears regularly in the arch conservative magazines National Review, edited by William F. Buckley, Meyer has become one of the most influential and formidable forces in contemporary conservative thought. His hard hitting conservatism is also reflected in his many books, such as In Defense of Freedom: A Conservative Credo.

Has New Book

His latest work, The African Nettle, which deals with the dilemmas of the emerging nations on the African continent was released in early April, 1965.

Audiences throughout the nation have found him an impressive speaker, at once exhilarating and profound. He has spoken at more than 20 of the nation's leading universities and frequently appears on radio and television.

Meyer is not only a conservative theorist and author, but also an active practicing conservative. He is a member of the Executive Committee of the Conservative Party of New York State and chairman of its Committee on International Relations.

Republican club president H. Clark Bell, Jr. urges all citizens, regardless of political belief or party affiliation to hear Meyer and participate in the question and answer period which follows his speech.

"The Woodstock Republican Club is indeed fortunate and proud to present to the community a nationally known lecturer who is certainly an acknowledged expert in his field and an articulate and accomplished speaker," said Bell. "Such a combination will provide both an informative and entertaining evening."

Pakistani Forces Claim Easy Win Over Indian Units

BIAR-BET, Kutch (AP) — Pakistani forces claim they scored an easy victory over Indian troops in a four-day battle that ended with Pakistani occupation of this oasis in the baked, barren Rann of Kutch.

It is one of the most unlikely and desolate battlegrounds on earth. Soon the heat-scorched wastes will become marshy tideland, covered by water from the Arabian Sea whipped up by monsoon rains.

Pakistani field commanders said almost all fighting takes place at night, when the heat subsides. The darkness also allows more freedom of movement across the empty flats where during the day one can see for miles.

Injury Didn't Show

GETTING AWAY FROM IT ALL?—The annual spring migration of college students to southern beaches has been deplored as a sign of their going to the dogs. But to one enterprising firm, Systems Engineering Laboratories, Inc., it's an opportunity to do a little off-campus recruiting. Plane-towed banner above these vacationing students at Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., urges electrical engineering majors to call the company for job information.

Dear Abby . . .

Repeat Request

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: We have three daughters, 11, 15 and 17, who can't wait until they reach the age when they will be their "own boss." In your opinion is there such an age? I believe you once said there was not, and you listed a few accomplishments a girl had to achieve before she could be her own "boss." I would appreciate your reviewing that list.

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In order to be one's own boss (in my opinion) a girl must be able to leave her parents' home, pay for her own clothing, insurance, and medical and dental care and pay for the continuance of her own education, transportation and recreation. Then she has the privilege of choosing her own company, making her own decisions and being her own "boss."

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: In your column you stated that the widow who removed her wedding ring is thereby telling the world that she is "looking." I cannot speak for other widows but, in my case, nothing could be further from the truth. When my husband died a year ago, after 30 years of happiness, I placed MY wedding ring on HIS finger as a token of my undying love for him. My wedding ring had never been removed from the time he placed it on my finger during our wedding ceremony. We are both of Irish descent, and it is an old Irish custom. It has been observed by all the women in both our families as far back as we can remember. And there is no record of any woman in either family having remarried. Personally, I could no more marry again than I could have been unfaithful to him while he was still living. And I know many ringless widows who share my feeling. Furthermore I resent such sweeping generalities.

RINGGLESS BUT NOT LOOKING

DEAR RINGLESS: No offense intended. I should have used the word "available." You are not, but other widows without rings possibly are. Thank you for your enlightening letter.

• • • •

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for telling that mother whose 23-year-old son wanted to marry a 33-year-old widow that the marriage could work. If that "older" woman loves her 23-year-old husband half as much as I love MY husband, the mother should be grateful. My husband is 20 and I am 31. We've been married ten months and my young husband has taught me more about living and being a mature woman, wife and mother, than anyone in my life. He proudly refers to his 12-year-old stepson as "my son." The children adore him and I worship him. He has done more for us than either of my two former husbands. (You see, I was no prize package.) I would go to the ends of the earth and back again for this man.

PROUD TO BE HIS WIFE

DEAR PROUD: Congratulations but, in my book, you are still on your honeymoon. If, after ten YEARS, you can write the above letter, I would say you had it made. It's not difficult to understand why a twice-married, 31-year-old divorcee with three children would worship a young man who would marry her and adopt her children. Be good to him. He's one in a million.

$60,826 Contracts Awarded on Paltz School Addition

Contracts totaling $60,826 for the construction of a four-room addition to the Duzine Elementary School of New Paltz Central School District were awarded by the Board of Education Tuesday night.

Work on the addition is expected to start on Monday with a target date for completion, September of this year.

The general contract for $47,726 was awarded to Neuss Construction Co., Newburgh. Neuss constructed the Duzine school. The electric contract for $4,400 was awarded to Era Electrical Company, Kingston. The plumbing, heating and ventilating contract went to Barton Bros., Newburgh including $2,000 for plumbing and $7,000 for heating and ventilating. Thirteen bids were received.

A $65,000 bond issue for construction of the addition was approved on February 23.

June 1 has been set for a public hearing on the construction of a new high school with voting on a bond issue set for June 10 at the high school. If the program is approved Grades 4 through 8 will be moved into the old high school building.

It was reported at the meeting that the central school budget although increased over last year, will not reflect an increase in the tax rate and it is quite possible there might be a decrease due to increased state aid.

Beef, pork and broiler-fryers will top the specials at meat counters of many supermarkets and neighborhood stores this weekend.

There will be abundant supplies of beef and pork roasts.

Broiler-fryers also are in good supply. Fyers will be a particular bargain. One big Eastern supermarket chain is offering them at 27 cents a pound, down 12 cents from last week.

The outlook is for lower supplies of beef and pork. The number of cattle on feed April 1 was 2 per cent fewer than a year earlier. An 8 to 10 per cent decline in pork production is expected.

Veal and broiler output continue to outstrip last year at this season.

Other good main dish buys will be canned pink salmon, fish sticks and fish portions.

Produce counters will be laden with plenty of carrots, celery, corn, lettuce, onions, potatoes, radishes and spinach.

Fruit selections will include apples, cantaloupes, grapefruit, oranges and strawberries.

The price of orange juice has been reduced this month because of larger-than-expected orange production. Florida's 1964-65 crop totals 85.2 million boxes, 46 per cent above last season.

In the Northeast, meat shoppers will find a wide assortment of beef round and boneless chuck roasts and chuck steaks and pork loin roasts and canned and smoked hams.

OES Will Host Official Visit On Monday Night

ELLENVILLE—At the recent meeting of the Ellenville Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, presided over by Worthy Matron Christine Gobel, Easter observance was the theme of the meeting. The worthy matron greeted the assembly with a poem and a special prayer was made by the Chaplain, Sister Mabel C. Schoonmaker.

The points of the Star then presented an Easter theme degree entitled, Wreath of Love. Following the meeting refreshments were served in the dining area under the direction of Associate Matron, Gertrude Phillips. The tables were decorated in keeping with Easter. The committee assisting her were Dorothy Schonher, Vira Slater, Mina Goldsmith, Joyce Grey, Ruth Weeks and Mary Anderson.

The next meeting will be held on Monday 8 p. m., at the Undercroft of the Episcopal Church, Market Street. This meeting will feature the official visit of District Deputy Grand Matron, Right Worthy Evelyn H. Mackey accompanied by Right Worthy, Robert B. Greene, District Grand Lecturer of the Greene-Ulster District of the Order of the Eastern Star of the State of New York.

All members and Master Masons may attend this official visitation.

There will be rehearsal for all officers Thursday at 8 p. m.

Holds Up Buffalo Loan Association for $1,322

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—A 53-year-old retired lineoleum salesman was in the custody of police today on a charge of robbing the Jefferson Savings and Loan Association of $1,322.

Daniel M. Cawl of Buffalo was apprehended by police Wednesday 30 minutes after the Savings and Loan Association had been held up. He was charged with first-degree robbery.

The holdup was the second at the bank in three days. In both instances, the holdup man used a taxicab to escape.

Cawl however, has not been charged with the $747 robbery on Monday.

Why We Say--

STOOL PIGEON 4-29

A SNARE: This expression came into popular usage when there used to be wild pigeons at large. Hunters would catch one and tie it by the foot to a stool near a wire net. The other pigeons would see the fluttering and be attracted into the net . . . giving rise to the popular expression "stool pigeon," one who gets others caught.

Street Bankers Friendly, But. . .

Strangers in Viet Nam City Don't Even Pass Time of Day

By HAL BOYLE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Beseiged and somnolent Saigon is between seasons now.

The season for political coups appears over, at least for the time being, and the monsoon season hasn't begun.

A newcomer in town has the creepy feeling he is walking through a role in a grade B movie thriller for which there is no script.

He also feels isolated and alone in a sea of general conspiracy. Everybody seems to have a secret but him. He is left out.

There is an almost furtive air of close-mouthedness here that is curiously unnerving. Nobody speaks out loud. They carry on discussions in semiwhispers, as if the very walls had ears—and I suppose they well may have.

All the white men you meet are carrying leather brief cases, and you can't help wondering whether they are bulging with terribly secret war papers—or just dirty laundry. But if you nod to someone you don't know, he merely stares at you suspiciously, grips his briefcase a little tighter, and marches on past. Strangers here don't even have the time of day for each other.

The Friendly One

The first friendly approach to me came from a slender, dark-skinned fellow who looked like an illegitimate son of Mata Hari.

Giving me an ingratiating, 24-karat smile, he whispered: "Changee money?"

He was one of the street bankers who infest the city. The official rate for American money here is 73 piastres to the dollar, but these itinerant financiers offer from 140 to 150.

"No, thankee," I told him. Then, realizing that I was whispering, just like everybody else in town, I raised my voice and said real loud:

"I prefer to do my business with banks that have a corporate address."

"No changee?" he said dolefully, and slunk away.

Sidewalk Stands

Half the population seems to exist by selling sunglasses and black market cigarettes. The other half appears to make its income by peddling jackknives and cotton undershirts.

At every corner and before every important building stand white - uniformed police packing black leather gun holsters. Americans call them "the white mice" and sometimes make jokes about them. But the bravery they showed at the scene of the recent bombing of the U.S. Embassy won them a new respect.

There is an air of fatalism about the periodic grenade and plastic bomb attacks by Communist terrorists. Some cars and restaurants are protected by wire grids.

Shrug It Off

But many public places take no protective measures whatever. The Americans who patronize them simply shrug and say, "What if they should toss a bomb in here sometime? I probably won't be here when it happens."

This surface calm vanishes, however, if a passing truck suddenly backfires, the natives on the sidewalk skitter a few steps toward shelter like alarmed deer. And inside the crowded restaurants the well-fed Americans look up from their plates and gaze silently into each other's eyes. Nobody voices the quick-felt fear.

The moment passes, they return to their food, and the war seems far away again.

Bishop's Fund Appeal Sunday

Catholic Churches throughout the New York Archdiocese will conclude the annual Bishops' Fund Appeal Sunday, May 2 with an envelope collection at all Masses to support the overseas operations of Catholic Relief Services which has ongoing relief programs in over 70 countries. Nationally the appeal has a goal of five million.

Francis Cardinal Spellman is honorary chairman of the Archdiocesan appeal which is being directed by Right Rev. Msgr. Henry A. Cauley. He states that an estimated 40 million persons will benefit from this year's national appeal through the distribution of food, medical supplies and clothing by Catholic Relief Services and its programs of socio-economic development, rural education, leadership training, medicare and refugee resettlement.

All supplies and services he adds, are given to the destitute without regard to race, color or creed in the name of the American people. Catholic Relief Services maintains 96 regional offices overseas where it has a supervisory staff of 135 American, some 500 local employes and several thousand volunteer workers.

The philosophy of the organization is voiced by its executive director, Bishop Edward E. Swanstrom, who says, "It becomes increasingly evident that we, as a people, cannot hope to preserve our freedoms and our standard of living without striving mightily and constantly to narrow the gap between the way we live and the way the vast majority of the world's people live." He points out that 16 per cent of the world's population own an estimated 70 per cent of the world's wealth and this places a moral responsibility on those who "have" to help those who "have not."

Area Arsenal's Armed Forces Day Program Listed

Displays of uncanny accuracy with one of man's oldest weapons will alternate with demonstrations of the U.S. Army's newest small arms at Watervliet Arsenal on May 15.

Champion archers of the Bear Archery Co. product research advisory staff, will amaze Armed Forces Day visitors with their bow and arrow markmanship, while the famed Springfield Armory "Rifles" will demonstrate the devastating firepower of the M-14 rifle and M-60 machine gun.

By special arrangement, the national outdoor field archery champion John Rudy of Syracuse, will demonstrate the precision shooting which won the 1964 national competition at Watkins Glen.

The modern Robin Hoods' program includes shooting balloons off the heads of manikins, candle snuffing, and games of tic tac toe, shooting arrows through the holes in 45 RPM records, and many other examples of their pinpoint accuracy, including audience participation features.

The "Rifles", a hit of the arsenal's 1964 Open House, has conducted more than 550 clinics and shows throughout the nation, demonstrating the M-14 and the M-60, both of which were developed at Springfield Armory, U.S. Army small arms headquarters.

The team of Ray Mizejewski and Jim Murphy, both of the Armory's test branch, and Chris Dvarecka, information officer, will show how the M-14 provides aimed fire, cover fire and volley fire. The M-60 presentation will highlight the machine gun's defensive and assault capabilities in hip and shoulder firing.

The rifle team and the archers exhibitions are set to follow one another at 10:30 a. m., 12:45 and 2:30 p. m.

The open house begins at 10 a. m., and closes at 4 p. m., following a military retreat ceremony by the Army ROTC unit of Siena College.

Street Bankers Friendly, But. . .

Strangers in Viet Nam City Don't Even Pass Time of Day

By HAL BOYLE

The season for political coups appears over, at least for the time being, and the monsoon season hasn't begun.

A newcomer in town has the creepy feeling he is walking through a role in a grade B movie thriller for which there is no script.

He also feels isolated and alone in a sea of general conspiracy. Everybody seems to have a secret but him. He is left out.

There is an almost furtive air of close-mouthedness here that is curiously unnerving. Nobody speaks out loud. They carry on discussions in semiwhispers, as if the very walls had ears—and I suppose they well may have.

All the white men you meet are carrying leather brief cases, and you can't help wondering whether they are bulging with terribly secret war papers—or just dirty laundry. But if you nod to someone you don't know, he merely stares at you suspiciously, grips his briefcase a little tighter, and marches on past. Strangers here don't even have the time of day for each other.

The Friendly One

The first friendly approach to me came from a slender, dark-skinned fellow who looked like an illegitimate son of Mata Hari.

He was one of the street bankers who infest the city. The official rate for American money here is 73 piastres to the dollar, but these itinerant financiers offer from 140 to 150.

"No, thankee," I told him. Then, realizing that I was whispering, just like everybody else in town, I raised my voice and said real loud:

"I prefer to do my business with banks that have a corporate address."

"No changee?" he said dolefully, and slunk away.

Sidewalk Stands

Half the population seems to exist by selling sunglasses and black market cigarettes. The other half appears to make its income by peddling jackknives and cotton undershirts.

At every corner and before every important building stand white-uniformed police packing black leather gun holsters. Americans call them, "the white mice" and sometimes make jokes about them. But the bravery they showed at the scene of the recent bombing of the U.S. Embassy won them a new respect.

There is an air of fatalism about the periodic grenade and plastic bomb attacks by Communist terrorists. Some cars and restaurants are protected by wire grids.

Shrug It Off

But many public places take no protective measures whatever. The Americans who patronize them simply shrug and say, "What if they should toss a bomb in here sometime? I probably won't be here when it happens."

This surface calm vanishes, however, if a passing truck suddenly backfires, the natives on the sidewalk skitter a few steps toward shelter like alarmed deer. And inside the crowded restaurants the well-fed Americans look up from their plates and gaze silently into each other's eyes. Nobody voices the quick-felt fear.

The moment passes, they return to their food, and the war seems far away again.

Top Democrats Sharply Split on Drinking Age Bill

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Democrats controlling the Legislature were sharply split today on the issue of raising the minimum drinking age from 18 to 21.

The Democratic majority leaders, Sen. Joseph Zaretzki and Assemblyman Anthony J. Travia, were opposed on how aggressively the issue should be pushed. Its future was uncertain.

A pledge to raise the minimum drinking age to 21 was part of the Democratic state platform in the 1962 election.

In a fast-moving series of events Wednesday, Travia rejected the decision of the Assembly's excise committee to kill the measure and ordered a new bill drafted immediately.

Zaretzki, on the other hand, had said the Assembly committee's decision was "the kiss of death" for any prospect of raising the drinking age at this session.

He later conceded that, in view of Travia's action, that the issue still was to be decided.

Observers reported, however, that there was a deep division between the leaders, that Zaretzki had wanted the legislation to die and was caught by surprise by Travia's action to revive it.

These were other developments:

—The Legislature approved and sent to Gov. Rockefeller for his signature a bill to extend the State Investigation Commission for two years, to April 30, 1967.

— A proposed constitutional amendment to extend the terms of legislators from two to four years, beginning with those elected in 1966, was given final approval in the Senate. It will appear on the November election ballot for a final decision by voters.

— The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate a bill to outlaw the use of "professional strikebreakers" as replacements for workers on strike.

Here are additional details:

Drinking Age — New York State has been under strong pressure for years from officials of neighboring states, in which the minimum is 21, to raise the drinking age in this state. They maintain that teenagers from their states drive to New York to drink and get into accidents on the way home.

Bills to raise the age to 21 died in committees of Republican-controlled Legislatures for several years.

Democrats, in an apparent move to win favor with voters in Upstate counties, where support for the 21-year minimum is strongest, promised they would raise the age.

But Democrats hesitated on the issue when they took control of the Legislature. While the Assembly committee killed the legislation, Sen. Abraham Bernstein, D-Bronx, chairman of the Senate Excise Committee, announced it was still alive in the Senate.

Assemblyman George Cincotta, D-Brooklyn chairman of the Assembly committee, said the vote to kill the bill was unanimous. He said raising the drinking age would only create "teenage speakeasies" and "force teenage drinkers underground."

Strikes—Bills to outlaw use of replacements for striking workers have been killed for several years in committees of the Republican - controlled Legislature. Assemblyman Paul Taylor, R-Penn Yan, asserted in debate that the measure "shrieks that the Democrats hate business."

SILO SANDWICH—A technique for storing feed in layers developed on Ohio dairy farms is producing prize-winning forage. The system, such as employed here on the Baumann brothers' farm near Amherst, calls for a base of first-cut alfalfa in a horizontal bunker silo. Layers of corn silage and additional alfalfa are added. Old tires are used to weight the covering tarp. The mixture yields a high-protein balanced forage.

YMCA Announces Expansion Of Program for Community

The YMCA Executive Secretary Louis H. Schafer with his Y staff and members of the board of directors are planning one of the largest and most far reaching programs ever promoted in the local YMCA for the benefit of the people of this community.

The latest of projects will be the newly constructed Ladies Health Club, in the space at the Y that was normally occupied by the bowling alleys. The latest type Sauna Bath (similar to steam bath) will be installed with interior wall panelling of redwood. The new health club will also have installed a special type modest showers constructed with individual stalls for complete privacy. New lavatory facilities will be installed along with dressing tables, mirrors, hair dryers and all other facilities necessary for a complete ladies dressing room.

To Install Lockers

Forty new lockers will be placed on either side of the space and chairs and tables will be added. The new room will be equipped with new fluorscent lights, making the YMCA ladies health club the most modern in the Hudson Valley. For privacy in the swimming pool, the wire caging near the spring board will be removed and a solid wall erected in its place.

Schafer, along with his physical recreation director, Charles Sims are planning on an accelerated spring boys program of athletics, including baseball coaching and competition. Swimming will also be given much consideration. The new summer boys and girls program usually promoted will be larger than ever because of the new quarters for girls.

Many YMCA's in the United States are promoting this family program and secretary Schafer wants to do the same for the people of this community of Kingston and surrounding area.

The YMCA Day Camp, that was started in 1943 by Schafer at DeWitt Lake, and since 1959 has been operated at Shokan at the foot of Ticetonky Mountain in the heart of the Catskill Mountains, is making big preparations, in cooperation with camp director Leon I. Van Heusen for an accelerated program for the 1965 season.

The 35 acres in Shokan when purchased in 1959 had only one small building and a body of water. Today it has many buildings all newly constructed, along with many cleared spaces for adequate playgrounds. The baseball field, this past fall had new top soil added and reseeded for new grass.

The watertront had to be constructed and over 300 cubic yards of cleaned sand has made the waterfront one of the finest in this area. Schafer has seen to it that new piers were added and life rafts and life ropes placed at convenient places for safety of all campers.

Through his camp committee he has added rowboats and last year he saw to it that sailboats and a canoe was added to the waterfront facilities.

When asked about safety of children bathing, Schafer stated: "All counsellors have life savings instructions and are members of the National Life Saving Service. Also there is a buddy system and a special roll call system." Schafer also stated that plans are being made to take care of approximately 170 boys and girls every day for eight weeks at camp this summer. To give better service and protection at camp a special camp counsellor training course was initiated this past winter.

This class was for 10 weeks, one hour a week, conducted by Van Heusen, camp director. Special instructors were brought in to teach water safety, craft and first aid and all are expected to have passed their life saving before applying for a camp position.

The YMCA Health Club for men has undergone many improvements. The membership in this department has grown and club space is at a premium. The steam bath room on Saturdays which is the day of largest attendance, from 3:30 to 8:30 p. m. accommodates between 65 and 85, many of which use the swimming pool and showers following their steam bath. Through enlarging many existing facilities at the YMCA, Schafer hopes to be of better service to the people of the community through the YMCA.

Schafer is a 21-year member of the Kingston Kiwanis Club, the last nine years he has had perfect weekly attendance. He has been for the past two years chairman of the Kiwanis Boys and Girls Work Committee. He with other committee members have reached many boys and girls as follows: Financial service to the following: The Boy Scouts, The YMCA, The Children's Home, The Boy's Club, the YMCA Camp, The Cerebral Palsy Clinic, the Babe Ruth Baseball league, the High School Award dinners and other groups that work with children.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Democrats controlling the Legislature were sharply split today on the issue of raising the minimum drinking age from 18 to 21.

The Democratic majority leaders, Sen. Joseph Zaretzki and Assemblyman Anthony J. Travia, were opposed on how aggressively the issue should be pushed. Its future was uncertain.

A pledge to raise the minimum drinking age to 21 was part of the Democratic state platform in the 1962 election.

In a fast-moving series of events Wednesday, Travia rejected the decision of the Assembly's excise committee to kill the measure and ordered a new bill drafted immediately.

Zaretzki, on the other hand, had said the Assembly committee's decision was "the kiss of death" for any prospect of raising the drinking age at this session.

He later conceded that, in view of Travia's action, that the issue still was to be decided.

Observers reported, however, that there was a deep division between the leaders, that Zaretzki had wanted the legislation to die and was caught by surprise by Travia's action to revive it.

These were other developments:

—The Legislature approved and sent to Gov. Rockefeller for his signature a bill to extend the State Investigation Commission for two years, to April 30, 1967.

— A proposed constitutional amendment to extend the terms of legislators from two to four years, beginning with those elected in 1966, was given final approval in the Senate. It will appear on the November election ballot for a final decision by voters.

— The Assembly passed and sent to the Senate a bill to outlaw the use of "professional strikebreakers" as replacements for workers on strike.

Here are additional details:

Drinking Age — New York State has been under strong pressure for years from officials of neighboring states, in which the minimum is 21, to raise the drinking age in this state. They maintain that teenagers from their states drive to New York to drink and get into accidents on the way home.

Bills to raise the age to 21 died in committees of Republican-controlled Legislatures for several years.

Democrats, in an apparent move to win favor with voters in Upstate counties, where support for the 21-year minimum is strongest, promised they would raise the age.

But Democrats hesitated on the issue when they took control of the Legislature. While the Assembly committee killed the legislation, Sen. Abraham Bernstein, D-Bronx, chairman of the Senate Excise Committee, announced it was still alive in the Senate.

Assemblyman George Cincotta, D-Brooklyn chairman of the Assembly committee, said the vote to kill the bill was unanimous. He said raising the drinking age would only create "teenage speakeasies" and "force teenage drinkers underground."

Strikes—Bills to outlaw use of replacements for striking workers have been killed for several years in committees of the Republican - controlled Legislature. Assemblyman Paul Taylor, R-Penn Yan, asserted in debate that the measure "shrieks that the Democrats hate business."

SILO SANDWICH—A technique for storing feed in layers developed on Ohio dairy farms is producing prize-winning forage. The system, such as employed here on the Baumann brothers' farm near Amherst, calls for a base of first-cut alfalfa in a horizontal bunker silo. Layers of corn silage and additional alfalfa are added. Old tires are used to weight the covering tarp. The mixture yields a high-protein balanced forage.

YMCA Announces Expansion Of Program for Community

The YMCA Executive Secretary Louis H. Schafer with his Y staff and members of the board of directors are planning one of the largest and most far reaching programs ever promoted in the local YMCA for the benefit of the people of this community.

The latest of projects will be the newly constructed Ladies Health Club, in the space at the Y that was normally occupied by the bowling alleys. The latest type Sauna Bath (similar to steam bath) will be installed with interior wall panelling of redwood. The new health club will also have installed a special type modest showers constructed with individual stalls for complete privacy. New lavatory facilities will be installed along with dressing tables, mirrors, hair dryers and all other facilities necessary for a complete ladies dressing room.

To Install Lockers

Forty new lockers will be placed on either side of the space and chairs and tables will be added. The new room will be equipped with new fluorscent lights, making the YMCA ladies health club the most modern in the Hudson Valley. For privacy in the swimming pool, the wire caging near the spring board will be removed and a solid wall erected in its place.

Schafer, along with his physical recreation director, Charles Sims are planning on an accelerated spring boys program of athletics, including baseball coaching and competition. Swimming will also be given much consideration. The new summer boys and girls program usually promoted will be larger than ever because of the new quarters for girls.

Many YMCA's in the United States are promoting this family program and secretary Schafer wants to do the same for the people of this community of Kingston and surrounding area.

The YMCA Day Camp, that was started in 1943 by Schafer at DeWitt Lake, and since 1959 has been operated at Shokan at the foot of Ticetonky Mountain in the heart of the Catskill Mountains, is making big preparations, in cooperation with camp director Leon I. Van Heusen for an accelerated program for the 1965 season.

The 35 acres in Shokan when purchased in 1959 had only one small building and a body of water. Today it has many buildings all newly constructed, along with many cleared spaces for adequate playgrounds. The baseball field, this past fall had new top soil added and reseeded for new grass.

The waterfront had to be constructed and over 300 cubic yards of cleaned sand has made the waterfront one of the finest in this area. Schafer has seen to it that new piers were added and life rafts and life ropes placed at convenient places for safety of all campers.

Through his camp committee he has added rowboats and last year he saw to it that sailboats and a canoe was added to the waterfront facilities.

When asked about safety of children bathing, Schafer stated: "All counsellors have life savings instructions and are members of the National Life Saving Service. Also there is a buddy system and a special roll call system." Schafer also stated that plans are being made to take care of approximately 170 boys and girls every day for eight weeks at camp this summer. To give better service and protection at camp a special camp counsellor training course was initiated this past winter.

This class was for 10 weeks, one hour a week, conducted by Van Heusen, camp director. Special instructors were brought in to teach water safety, craft and first aid and all are expected to have passed their life saving before applying for a camp position.

The YMCA Health Club for men has undergone many improvements. The membership in this department has grown and club space is at a premium. The steam bath room on Saturdays which is the day of largest attendance, from 3:30 to 8:30 p. m. accommodates between 65 and 85, many of which use the swimming pool and showers following their steam bath. Through enlarging many existing facilities at the YMCA, Schafer hopes to be of better service to the people of the community through the YMCA.

Schafer is a 21-year member of the Kingston Kiwanis Club, the last nine years he has had perfect weekly attendance. He has been for the past two years chairman of the Kiwanis Boys and Girls Work Committee. He with other committee members have reached many boys and girls as follows: Financial service to the following: The Boy Scouts, The YMCA, The Children's Home, The Boy's Club, the YMCA Camp, The Cerebral Palsy Clinic, the Babe Ruth Baseball league, the High School Award dinners and other groups that work with children.

Work Is Halted At Green Haven By Picketing

Demonstrations by employes at state prisons and other correctional institutions throughout the state were conducted this morning protesting against the failure of Director of the Budget T. Norman Hurd to provide funds to carry out the upgrading in salaries for employes, approved in 1962 by the State Civil Service Commission.

Supt. Charles L. McKendrick of the Eastern Correctional Institution, Napanoch, told The Freeman that "a few employes" were demonstrating at the end of the bridge leading to the institution property. He noted that the men were orderly.

Outside Prison

Warden Walter M. Wallack of Wallkill Prison, Wallkill, told a reporter before 11 a. m. that no demonstrators had appeared outside the prison property.

Warden Edward M. Fay of Green Haven Prison, told a Freeman reporter that correction officers were demonstrating at two gates of the prison in eastern Dutchess County. He said union workers on the cell construction project refused to cross the demonstrators line and work on the cell project had halted

Fay said the project underway at the prison will provide a cell block to accomodate 200 additional inmates.

"I have no idea how long the demonstration will continue," Fay said, "and there is no way of knowing how long the cell construction project will be delayed." The warden said he would wait for possible action by the state or the Correction Department. He noted that under the Condon-Wadlin Act state employes cannot strike.

Not Picketing . .

Union officials emphasied the men were demonstrating and not picketing.

According to reports from Dutchess County, Donald Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of Local 152, Council 50, AFL-CIO, of the State and County Municipal Employes, told newsmen the members of the Teamsters, Labor, Electrical Workers and maintenance workers unions had refused to cross the demonstrators line this morning. Sullivan said the demonstrations would continue indefinitely until the penal institution employes receive higher wages and a higher pension plan.

It was reported that more than 40 correction officers took part in today's demonstration at Green Haven.

Charge U.S. Interfernece

MOSCOW (AP)—The official Soviet news agency Tass charged the United States today with grossly interferring in the internal affairs of the Dominican Republic by landing Marines there.

SHIPSHEWANA, Ind. (AP) — A barn a day has become the byword of scores of Amish and Mennonite volunteers who streamed into northern Indiana to aid victims of Palm Sunday tornadoes.

Amish around Lancaster, Pa., organized a 150-man force to come to Amish communities in Lagrange, Elkhart and St. Joseph counties to repair and replace homes and farm buildings.

The first group of 50 arrived this week and started the priority work of rebuilding the huge, two-story barns characteristic of the sect. An advance survey crew set the goal of one barn restored a day.

Other volunteers of both the Amish and Mennonite faiths have come from Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Michigan, Virginia, Maryland and Canada.

Identified by their strict codes of conduct and plain dress, followers frown on modern labor-saving machinery. Nevertheless, the complete devastation in some communities has lessened compliance. The bearded volunteers are manning power saws to get the job done more quickly. They welcome the friendly neighbor farmer who supplies a bulldozer.

The Lancaster volunteers are living with Amish families who escaped the vicious storms that left 134 persons dead and hundreds injured in Indiana. They stay through the week, returning home on Friday. Leaders plan to shuttle alternating groups of about 50 workers by bus each week until the reconstruction is complete.

The Amish do not subscribe to commercial insurance institutions, But maintain their own, based mainly on muscle. Families contribute small sums to a central committee for purchasing supplies when destruction hits. The principal ingredient is the labor which is volunteered.

Another relief agency is the Mennonite Disaster Service. Its volunteers put in 6,342 man days of labor in the first nine days after the April 11 disaster. They have worked on about 200 houses and farms.

Negro Response Poor in Buffalo Area Employment

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Negroes apparently are not interested in seeking employment in Western New York's construction industry, a labor-management committee said today.

The group was formed by the Construction Industry Employers Association and the Building Trades Council of Buffalo and Vicinity (AFL-CIO) to promote equal employment opportunity in commercial construction.

Forms asking persons who believed they possessed kualifications as apprentices or journeymen in building crafts were distributed months ago in Erie and other nearby counties.

"No encouraging response has been received by the committee from any minority group," said Robert R. Logan, executive vice president of the employers' group, and Charles H. Pillard, president of the labor council.

Pillard said no Negroes had returned the forms.

Probing Burglaries

Three area burglaries were under investigation this afternoon by State Police BCI of the Kingston substation.

Bernal Sales Co. Inc., on East Chester Street Extension, was ransacked some time during the night and a quantity of speed equipment and accessories was taken. A spokesman at the establishment said two doors were forced and the intruders took "quite a bit." An inventory is under way.

Minervini's Restaurant at Boiceville was entered by prying a steel sash window bar. It was reported an undetermined amount of change and a radio was taken, and a cigarette machine was pried open and the contents stolen.

Curry Bros. Gulf Service Station on Route 9W at Barclay Heights also was entered.

Northwest . . .

caused buildings to sway. Most were evacuated.

In Seattle, the two-story, concrete Seattle Times Building jiggled like an electric vibrator. Plaster sifted down in the Associated Press rooms and Teletype printers stopped briefly. Telelphone service also was interrupted for a few moments.

Murlin Spencer, Seattle bureau chief who directed coverage of the historic March 27, 1964 earthquake in Alaska, said the shock "has the feel of the second quake which hit Anchorage exactly one week after the first destructive one."

The second Alaska quake was rated at an intensity above 7 on the Richter scale.

A Seattle woman was reported to have suffered a heart attack when the temblor knocked down the trolley of the electric transit bus on which she was riding.

Closed to Traffic

Eastbound lanes of a drawbridge over the Duwamish Waterway in Seattle were closed to all traffic except transit coaches because of a drop in the road level.

Women prisoners in Seattle's City Jail began screaming, "Let us out of here," as the building shook.

In Tacoma, 30 miles to the south, one of the main downtown streets, Pacific Avenue, was littered with bricks and debris.

At Everett, 26 miles north, the state patrol radio tower toppled, streets buckled and some water lines broke. Boulders came rolling down onto the Stevens Pass Highway from Mt. Persis east of Everett, causing some damage.

County National, started in 1934, will have 10 branches in Orange County and one in South Fallsburgh, Sullivan County. Its main office is located here.

Chow Named Ambassador

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The Nationalist Chinese Cabinet named Chou Shu-kai ambassador to Washington today. He succeeds Tingfu F. Tsiang.

Formosa's largest newspaper, the United Daily News, said Tuesday that Tsiang had resigned.

Ohio State Students Wan'OpenSpeakerPolicy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 200 Ohio State University students who want the school to adopt an "open door" campus speakers policy, stayed behind the Administration Building's locked doors Wednesday night in protest of a current rule barring controversial speakers.

The sit-in, sleep-in demonstration was held despite indications that university officials will change the speakers rule. Student leaders said the demonstrators would leave at noon today, after a 24-hour stay.

University President Novice G. Fawcett met with some student leaders Wednesday in an attempt to head off the sit-in. He asked them to be patient until the board of trustees meets in July to consider the speakers rule.

"I believe we can write a better rule," Fawcett said.

Students say other state colleges and universities in Ohio are permitted to hear controversial speakers. Ohio State, Enrollment 37,000, is the biggest of the state schools.

The plane returned to Yokota Air Force Base in Japan and no injuries were suffered by the crew, the Pentagon said.

Urey said Dr. Klaus Fuchs, convicted British atomic spy, evidently trannmitted the technique which the Chinese used to develop the gaseous diffusion plant used to produce the bomb.

"If the Chinese are able to make a gaseous diffusion plant," the University of California physicist said, "they would have no difficulty making rockets to deliver nuclear weapons."

Work Is Halted At Green Haven By Picketing

A demonstration by state correctional officers in front of two gates at the Green Haven State Prison, Stormville, today halted work on a $2,000,000 cell construction job at the prison.

Demonstrations by employes at state prisons and other correctional institutions throughout the state were conducted this morning protesting against the failure of Director of the Budget T. Norman Hurd to provide funds to carry out the upgrading in salaries for employes, approved in 1962 by the State Civil Service Commission.

Supt. Charles L. McKendrick of the Eastern Correctional Institution, Napanoch, told The Freeman that "a few employes" were demonstrating at the end of the bridge leading to the institution property. He noted that the men were orderly.

Outside Prison

Warden Walter M. Wallack of Wallkill Prison, Wallkill, told a reporter before 11 a. m. that no demonstrators had appeared outside the prison property.

Warden Edward M. Fay of Green Haven Prison, told a Freeman reporter that correction officers were demonstrating at two gates of the prison in eastern Dutchess County. He said union workers on the cell construction project refused to cross the demonstrators line and work on the cell project had halted.

Fay said the project underway at the prison will provide a cell block to accomodate 200 additional inmates.

"I have no idea how long the demonstration will continue," Fay said, "and there is no way of knowing how long the cell construction project will be delayed." The warden said he would wait for possible action by the state or the Correction Department. He noted that under the Condon-Wadlin Act state employes cannot strike.

Not Picketing . .

Union officials emphasied the men were demonstrating and not picketing.

According to reports from Dutchess County, Donald Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of Local 152, Council 50, AFL-CIO, of the State and County Municipal Employes, told newsmen the members of the Teamsters, Labor, Electrical Workers and maintenance workers unions had refused to cross the demonstrators line this morning. Sullivan said the demonstrations would continue indefinitely until the penal institution employes receive higher wages and a higher pension plan.

It was reported that more than 40 correction officers took part in today's demonstration at Green Haven.

Charge U.S. Interfernece

MOSCOW (AP)—The official Soviet news agency Tass charged the United States today with grossly interferring in the internal affairs of the Dominican Republic by landing Marines there.

SHIPSHEWANA, Ind. (AP) — A barn a day has become the byword of scores of Amish and Mennonite volunteers who streamed into northern Indiana to aid victims of Palm Sunday tornadoes.

Amish around Lancaster, Pa., organized a 150-man force to come to Amish communities in Lagrange, Elkhart and St. Joseph counties to repair and replace homes and farm buildings.

The first group of 50 arrived this week and started the priority work of rebuilding the huge, two-story barns characteristic of the sect. An advance survey crew set the goal of one barn restored a day.

Other volunteers of both the Amish and Mennonite faiths have come from Illinois, Iowa, Ohio, Michigan, Virginia, Maryland and Canada.

Identified by their strict codes of conduct and plain dress, followers frown on modern labor-saving machinery. Nevertheless, the complete devastation in some communities has lessened compliance. The bearded volunteers are manning power saws to get the job done more quickly. They welcome the friendly neighbor farmer who supplies a bulldozer.

The Lancaster volunteers are living with Amish families who escaped the vicious storms that left 134 persons dead and hundreds injured in Indiana. They stay through the week, returning home on Friday. Leaders plan to shuttle alternating groups of about 50 workers by bus each week until the reconstruction is complete.

The Amish do not subscribe to commercial insurance institutions. But maintain their own, based mainly on muscle. Families contribute small sums to a central committee for purchasing supplies when destruction hits. The principal ingredient is the labor which is volunteered.

Another relief agency is the Mennonite Disaster Service. Its volunteers put in 6,342 man days of labor in the first nine days after the April 11 disaster. They have worked on about 200 houses and farms.

Negro Response Poor in Buffalo Area Employment

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Negroes apparently are not interested in seeking employment in Western New York's construction industry, a labor-management committee said today.

The group was formed by the Construction Industry Employers Association and the Building Trades Council of Buffalo and Vicinity (AFL-CIO) to promote equal employment opportunity in commercial construction.

Forms asking persons who believed they possessed kualifications as apprentices or journeymen in building crafts were distributed months ago in Erie and other nearby counties.

"No encouraging response has been received by the committee from any minority group," said Robert R. Logan, executive vice president of the employers' group, and Charles H. Pillard, president of the labor council.

Pillard said no Negroes had returned the forms.

Probing Burglaries

Three area burglaries were under investigation this afternoon by State Police BCI of the Kingston substation.

Bernal Sales Co. Inc., on East Chester Street Extension, was ransacked some time during the night and a quantity of speed equipment and accessories was taken. A spokesman at the establishment said two doors were forced and the intruders took "quite a bit." An inventory is under way.

Minervini's Restaurant at Bolceville was entered by prying a steel sash window bar. It was reported an undetermined amount of change and a radio was taken, and a cigarette machine was pried open and the contents stolen.

Curry Bros. Gulf Service Station on Route 9W at Barclay Heights also was entered.

Northwest . . .

caused buildings to sway. Most were evacuated.

In Seattle, the two-story, concrete Seattle Times Building jiggled like an electric vibrator. Plaster sifted down in the Associated Press rooms and Teletype printers stopped briefly. Telelphone service also was interrupted for a few moments.

Murlin Spencer, Seattle bureau chief who directed coverage of the historic March 27, 1964 earthquake in Alaska, said the shock "has the feel of the second quake which hit Anchorage exactly one week after the first destructive one."

The second Alaska quake was rated at an intensity above 7 on the Richter scale.

A Seattle woman was reported to have suffered a heart attack when the temblor knocked down the trolley of the electric transit bus on which she was riding.

Closed to Traffic

Eastbound lanes of a drawbridge over the Duwamish Waterway in Seattle were closed to all traffic except transit coaches because of a drop in the road level.

Women prisoners in Seattle's City Jail began screaming, "Let us out of here," as the building shook.

In Tacoma, 30 miles to the south, one of the main downtown streets, Pacific Avenue, was littered with bricks and debris.

At Everett, 26 miles north, the state patrol radio tower toppled, streets buckled and some water lines broke. Boulders came rolling down onto the Stevens Pass Highway from Mt. Persis east of Everett, causing some damage.

Ohio State Students Wan'OpenSpeakerPolicy

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 200 Ohio State University students who want the school to adopt an "open door" campus speakers policy, stayed behind the Administration Building's locked doors Wednesday night in protest of a current rule barring controversial speakers.

The sit-in, sleep-in demonstration was held despite indications that university officials will change the speakers rule. Student leaders said the demonstrators would leave at noon today, after a 24-hour stay.

University President Novice G. Fawcett met with some student leaders Wednesday in an attempt to head off the sit-in. He asked them to be patient until the board of trustees meets in July to consider the speakers rule.

"I believe we can write a better rule," Fawcett said.

Students say other state colleges and universities in Ohio are permitted to hear controversial speakers. Ohio State, Enrollment 37,000, is the biggest of the state schools.

Fire Inspections In Village Start Saturday, May 1

Fire inspections of Village of Saugerties properties by the fire wardens will start Saturday and continue to May 31, according to arrangements announced at a recent meeting of village fire officials.

Those attending were Fire Chief LeRoy Snyder, First Assistant August Fellows, Second Assistant Homer Van Voorhis, line officers from the three companies of the village and Fire Commissioner Donald McCaig.

Chief Snyder distributed to the line officers the new fire inspection pads to be used by the wardens, also fire prevention pamphlets, stickers to be used for homes with handicapped people living in them, and stickers with the fire department phone number.

He complimented the Village Board in regards to the Village Clean Up Week held the past two weeks.

Fire Commissioner McCaig asked cooperation of all fire companies in regards to the inspection procedures of the wardens.

McCaig also asked the cooperation of the people in the village when these inspections start. He stated that the wardens are making these inspections to insure the safety of all homes and properties in our village. McCaig stressed once again, the importance of these fire inspections, and urged that all property owners and occupants take advantage of this service provided by the Saugerties Fire Department.

The fire wardens in each company include:

R. A. Snyder Company—William Wolven Charles Fous, Karl Cook, Daniel Boccardi.

C. A. Lynch Company—Edward Haines, Barry Fellows, Donald Sullivan and Donald Westergard.

Four Firemen Hurt At Poughkeepsie Blaze

Four firemen were injured early today as Poughkeepsie firefighters battled more than two hours to control a two-alarm fire that swept a three-garage complex frame building and threatened homes and other garages at the rear of 216 Mansion Street.

Officials reported none of the injuries was serious.

The fire broke out shortly before 2:30 a. m. and the first alarm was sounded at 2:35 a. m. Fire Chief Irving D. Merrick, who commanded the city's full force of firemen at the scene, ordered the second alarm nine minutes later.

When firemen arrived at the scene, flames were shooting high in the air. Exploding gasoline tanks of 10 cars housed in the garages added to the hazards faced by the firefighters.

Firemen managed to prevent the flames from spreading to the house at 216 Mansion Street and nearby garages and other structures. The origin of the fire was not immediately determined and no estimate of the loss was reported by fire officials.

TV Reviews, Best Bets

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television audiences had an hour-long introduction Wednesday night to the current singing sensation, Barbra Streisand, at 23 the star of a Broadway hit.

CBS' "My Name is Barbra" was a flashy and imaginative demonstration of her talents, literally a one-woman show in which she sang, by actual count, 25 songs, engaged in an outrageous spoof of the high fashion business and even tried a comedy monologue.

We met many different Streisands in moods ranging from serious to silly.

She has an exciting voice, a highly individual style, interesting looks and a glossy sophistication of style that may be a little hard to take by music conservatives who prefer "Lover Come Back to Me" sung as Sigmund Romberg wrote it.

The sleek production of the program was reminiscent of that which surrounded Judy Garland in her earlier specials. But in spite of everything, the hour seemed a little long.

ABC's "King Family" hour will continue through the summer with new programs, only to be chopped in half when the fall season starts in September.

There was a vast outpouring of sympathy notes recently when the senior member of the clan, William King Driggs, died at 79.

Driggs, a veteran vaudevillian, was the father of the six sisters and two brothers who are the parents of all the youthful Kings.

CBS will pre-empt "Great Adventure" Friday night for a memorial program, "An Hour with Ed Murrow." Eric Sevareid and Charles Collingwood, former colleagues of the newscaster who died of cancer on Tuesday, will narrate the program. It will consist primarily of excerpts from his radio and television broadcasts.

Four Firemen Hurt At Poughkeepsie Blaze

Four firemen were injured early today as Poughkeepsie firefighters battled more than two hours to control a two-alarm fire that swept a three-garage complex frame building and threatened homes and other garages at the rear of 216 Mansion Street.

Officials reported none of the injuries was serious.

The fire broke out shortly before 2:30 a. m. and the first alarm was sounded at 2:35 a. m. Fire Chief Irving D. Merrick, who commanded the city's full force of firemen at the scene, ordered the second alarm nine minutes later.

When firemen arrived at the scene, flames were shooting high in the air. Exploding gasoline tanks of 10 cars housed in the garages added to the hazards faced by the firefighters.

Firemen managed to prevent the flames from spreading to the house at 216 Mansion Street and nearby garages and other structures. The origin of the fire was not immediately determined and no estimate of the loss was reported by fire officials.

TV Reviews, Best Bets

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Television audiences had an hour-long introduction Wednesday night to the current singing sensation, Barbra Streisand, at 23 the star of a Broadway hit.

CBS' "My Name is Barbra" was a flashy and imaginative demonstration of her talents, literally a one-woman show in which she sang, by actual count, 25 songs, engaged in an outrageous spoof of the high fashion business and even tried a comedy monologue.

She has an exciting voice, a highly individual style, interesting looks and a glossy sophistication of style that may be a little hard to take by music conservatives who prefer "Lover Come Back to Me" sung as Sigmund Romberg wrote it.

The sleek production of the program was reminiscent of that which surrounded Judy Garland in her earlier specials. But in spite of everything, the hour seemed a little long.

ABC's "King Family" hour will continue through the summer with new programs, only to be chopped in half when the fall season starts in September.

There was a vast outpouring of sympathy notes recently when the senior member of the clan, William King Driggs, died at 79.

Driggs, a veteran vaudevillian, was the father of the six sisters and two brothers who are the parents of all the youthful Kings.

CBS will pre-empt "Great Adventure" Friday night for a memorial program, "An Hour with Ed Murrow." Eric Sevareid and Charles Collingwood, former colleagues of the newscaster who died of cancer on Tuesday, will narrate the program. It will consist primarily of excerpts from his radio and television broadcasts.

Steel Producers Earn Big Profits In First Quarter

NEW YORK (AP)—The Big Three steelmakers earned the highest profits in several years in the first quarter of 1965.

Steel producers operated at capacity during the period to meet heavy demand for current use and for stockpiling in the event of a May 1 strike.

The strike deadline was extended four months this week.

U.S. Steel Corp., No. 1 steelmaker, earned $73,772,849, or $1.25 a share, in the first quarter, up 43 per cent from $51,546,002, or 84 cents a share, a year earlier. This was the highest since income of $80.9 million in the second quarter of 1960. Sales rose 29 per cent to $1,150,375,259 from $888,994,392.

Second-ranking Bethlehem Steel Corp. enjoyed its best period since the fourth quarter of 1961. It earned $44,132,000, or 97 cents a share, against $28,505,000, from $506,593,000. Steel shipments of 5,704,000 tons were the highest for any quarter.

Don't Shift Properly

He recommended the city begin using automatic transmissions in police patrol cars.

Stephens explained to the city council: "The officers get to shift down into lower gears without using the clutch. I don't know how many standard transmissions I've had to replace."

Doctor Cancels Fishing to Help Cure the Blind

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Like many vacationbound Californians Dr. Frank C. Winter thought of Baja California, Mexico, two years ago when he set out for some deep-sea fishing.

But instead of marlin, the Stanford Medical School ophthalmologist found an appalling number of blind and near-blind villagers when he set down in San Jose del Cabo.

He set aside his tackle.

In six visits Dr. Winter performed more than 100 operations for cataracts and other disorders. For hundreds of villagers he prescribed glasses — all donated by the Parsons Optical Co. of Palo Alto, Calif.

On each visit the word was spread by Dr. Eduardo Rodriguez, district medical officer.

By mule, truck and on foot the people came to the village's 40-bed hospital.

"In the United States he would have had an emergency operation immediately but the general practitioners in Baja have not had the chance to specialize in eye work," Dr. Winter said.

"Since there were no fresh corneas available for transplant when I first saw the boy last year, I fashioned a temporary patch by using tissue from his blind eye."

From the eye bank in Palo Alto a fresh cornea was flown in and Dr. Winter performed a successful operation.

There was no charge to the impoverished family or to any of the families of those he treated.

But the villagers collected some money and had a medal made.

May Beat Pollen Effects by New Current Clues

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—With the aid of an airplane, a physician says he's found clues to help victims of hay fever and asthma.

The clues involve the way warm air currents and cool air carry around the pollen grains and mold spores triggering these ailments.

Atomic fallout is apparently moved about in much the same way, so "we are not helpless in our control of fallout" or of pollen, Dr. Herman A. Heise of Milwaukee, Wis., said today.

"We can avoid much of it by staying in the warmer city rather than in the cooler country. Smoke screens and the resulting clouds prevent radiation of heat, thus minimizing fallout," he told the Aerospace Medical Association.

"Our findings indicate we can prophesy pollen counts as accurately as we can prophesy the weather," he said. "Yesterday's (pollen) counts may be interesting, but tomorrow's estimate has practical value" for victims of hay fever.

Heise and associates, in a private plane, trapped and counted pollen grains and mold spores at heights up to 20,000 feet.

"When the earth is heated by the sun, the lighter warmer air at the surface balloons upward through the cooler air, causing instability, and the upward currents carry the tiny solid particles into the clouds and haze layer," Heise said.

"At night with clear skies, conditions are reversed. The earth cools by radiation, so that the air above now is warmer than the air near the ground. Upward currents cease, and the now-stable air allows the particles to settle. The haze layer actually drifts earthward, carrying the particles with it."

Don't Shift Properly

He recommended the city begin using automatic transmissions in police patrol cars.

Stephens explained to the city council: "The officers get to shift down into lower gears without using the clutch. I don't know how many standard transmissions I've had to replace."

Doctor Cancels Fishing to Help Cure the Blind

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Like many vacationbound Californians Dr. Frank C. Winter thought of Baja California, Mexico, two years ago when he set out for some deep-sea fishing.

But instead of marlin, the Stanford Medical School ophthaimologist found an appalling number of blind and near-blind villagers when he set down in San Jose del Cabo.

He set aside his tackle.

In six visits Dr. Winter performed more than 100 operations for cataracts and other disorders. For hundreds of villagers he prescribed glasses — all donated by the Parsons Optical Co. of Palo Alto, Calif.

On each visit the word was spread by Dr. Eduardo Rodriguez, district medical officer.

By mule, truck and on foot the people came to the village's 40-bed hospital.

"In the United States he would have had an emergency operation immediately but the general practitioners in Baja have not had the chance to specialize in eye work," Dr. Winter said.

"Since there were no fresh corneas available for transplant when I first saw the boy last year, I fashioned a temporary patch by using tissue from his blind eye."

From the eye bank in Palo Alto a fresh cornea was flown in and Dr. Winter performed a successful operation.

There was no charge to the impoverished family or to any of the families of those he treated.

But the villagers collected some money and had a medal made.

May Beat Pollen Effects by New Current Clues

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—With the aid of an airplane, a physician says he's found clues to help victims of hay fever and asthma.

The clues involve the way warm air currents and cool air carry around the pollen grains and mold spores triggering these ailments.

Atomic fallout is apparently moved about in much the same way, so "we are not helpless in our control of fallout" or of pollen, Dr. Herman A. Heise of Milwaukee, Wis., said today.

"We can avoid much of it by staying in the warmer city rather than in the cooler country. Smoke screens and the resulting clouds prevent radiation of heat, thus minimizing fallout," he told the Aerospace Medical Association.

"Our findings indicate we can prophesy pollen counts as accurately as we can prophesy the weather," he said. "Yesterday's (pollen) counts may be interesting, but tomorrow's estimate has practical value" for victims of hay fever.

Heise and associates, in a private plane, trapped and counted pollen grains and mold spores at heights up to 20,000 feet.

"When the earth is heated by the sun, the lighter warmer air at the surface balloons upward through the cooler air, causing instability, and the upward currents carry the tiny solid particles into the clouds and haze layer," Heise said.

"At night with clear skies, conditions are reversed. The earth cools by radiation, so that the air above now is warmer than the air near the ground. Upward currents cease, and the now-stable air allows the particles to settle. The haze layer actually drifts earthward, carrying the particles with it."

Bandit Gets $6,000 In Quiet Bank Stickup

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Barbara Coffman, a teller at the Suburban National Bank, said she was so excited she couldn't find the switch to turn on the automatic camera which is supposed to take pictures of bank robbers.

A lone bandit got about $6,000 from Mrs. Coffman in a quiet stickup at the bank Wednesday.

Mrs. Coffman said, "He came up to the booth, threw a paper sack on the counter, and said: 'Keep smiling lady, and keep filling that up with the green stuff.' "

Mrs. Coffman said he told her he had a gun, but she didn't see it. About 15 other employes were unaware of the robbery until the man left by the front door and disappeared.

Withall Notes School Progress, Meeting Tonight

Arthur Withall, candidate for re-election to the Kingston City Schools (Consolidated) Board of Education today commented on the progress made during recent years by the Board of Education

With respect to the building program, Withall, who has served for the past two years on the building committee, noted the good achievements which the Board has made throughout the district, allowing equal opportunity for all the children of the district. Just last month, Withall noted, the new John F. Kennedy School brought adequate replacement downtown for older schools. The new elementary school which is planned to open in September, 1966 on the J. Watson Bailey campus will also greatly relieve overcrowding in many area schools.

In the area of finance, in which Withall had actively participated, Withall explained that despite rising costs, of which we are all cognizant, the tax rate on true value has progressed at a minimum rate. Even recent salary schedule changes for teachers, Withall stated, will have next to no effect on this rate.

Withall noted that reinvestment of funds brought about additional revenues of $25,000, which is money for education not derived from citizens by taxation. He explained Board has constantly searched for ways to economize wisely. This has only been possible through careful examination and years of experience. These methods include close scrutiny of state bids and cooperation with other districts.

Interested citizens will have an opportunity to hear and question Withall, as well as the other three candidates at the next "Meet the Candidates" meeting at the Hurley School tonight at 8.

Two Volunteer Firemen Killed

PLATTSBURGH, N.Y. (AP)—Two volunteer firemen were killed Wednesday when their truck smashed into two locomotives pulling a Delaware Hudson freight train.

Investigators said Harry Webber, 42, and Donald Gagnier, 38, of the Beekmantown Fire Department, were enroute to a grass fire when the accident occurred on a single set of tracks about four miles north of here.

Webber, a second assistant fire chief, and Gagnier were the only ones on the truck. Glare from the sun, investigators said, may have prevented the men from seeing that the crossing signal was flashing.

Voters to Decide On 4-Year Terms Next November

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New Yorkers will vote next November on a constitutional amendment to increase the terms of legislators from two to four years.

If approved, the four - year terms would apply to lawmakers elected in 1966 and thereafter.

Action by Gov. Rockefeller is not required.

In other action on bills:

— The Assembly approved and sent to the Senate a measure to grant partial exemptions from school taxes to home-owners who are 65 years old or older. The exemption, 50 per cent of the assessed valuation of property for school tax purposes, would apply to home-owners with incomes of less than $2,400 a year.

— Senators approved and sent to Assemblymen a measure to prohibit persons from wearing the uniform of any past or present foreign political party. Sen. Thomas MacKell, D-Queens, said his measure was aimed at such groups as the American Nazi Party.

Initially, the amendment on lawmakers' terms was aimed at that part of the constitution governing legislative elections.

Since then, however, the U.S. Supreme Court has voided substantial portions of the election provisions because they did not provide for distributing seats on the basis of population alone.

The amendment's sponsor, Assemblyman Joseph R. Corso, D-Bronx, said he did not believe the court action affected the part of the constitution covered by his proposal.

As a result of the Supreme Court decision, a special legislative election is scheduled this November for one-year terms.

Draft dodging was common in both the North and the South during the Civil War. At first a drafted man could hire a substitute or buy exemption from military service. When universal conscription went into effect 98 federal registrars were killed during the first four months of the law. While approximately 1,120,000 men were drafted in the north, a mere 42,000 were actually inducted.

10th of Per Cent Noted in Buyer Costs for March

WASHINGTON (AP) — Higher prices for fresh vegetables and medical services caused consumer costs to rise one tenth of one per cent in March, the Labor Department said today.

Costs also were slightly higher for rent, furniture, clothing and recreation during the month.

The government's index of consumer prices — the cost of living index — in March was 109 per cent of the 1957-59 average. That meant it cost $10.90 last month to buy goods and services which cost $10 during the base period.

Increases in food prices accounted for about half of the monthly price rise. A Labor Department official said most of the food price rise could be traced to unseasonably cold and windy weather conditions in Florida early this year.

The unusual weather retarded the growth of tomatoes, cucumbers, peppers, and celery. Potatoes already were in short supply because of a small crop last year.

Medical costs rose faster than they have been, with higher fees for doctors and dentists, higher hospital costs and increased costs of hospital insurance showing up in March. Prices of drugs and prescriptions were stable.

The consumer price index has gone up two-tenths of 1 per cent since December and this will result in a wage increase of one cent an hour for about 14,000 workers, mostly bus drivers.

The quarterly change in New York City prices will mean an automatic wage increase for 7,000 electronics workers in that area.

However, 1,800 transit workers in Baltimore will have their pay reduced by 1 cent an hour because of a drop in the Baltimore price index in the three-month period.

The average pay of factory workers reached a record $96.65 per week during March. This figure, computed as the take-home pay for a worker with three dependents, was $1.22 higher than February.

Officials said another slight increase in the consumer price index is expected this month. Prices of used cars usually advance in the spring, and further increases in the costs of food and clothing are expected.

Tactical Bid Is Disastrous

North's one heart opening was one of those tactical rubber bridge bids that usually turn out to be tactically unsatisfactory.

This one should have succeeded, but unfortunately for North, South decided to bid too much and the result was a minor disaster.

South, should have been delighted with his partner's two-club bid but South looked at his good diamonds and decided to bid two no-trump. He overlooked the fact that the good diamonds were just about his whole hand.

West made the killing opening lead of the seven of spades and the defense ran off five spade tricks. South had to make five discards from dummy and his choice of discards was far worse than his choice of bids. He shed four diamonds and the eight of hearts while East simply let the four and eight of diamonds go.

Now West led the deuce of hearts and East let dummy's king hold the trick.

At this point South had forced himself into a corner where a club lead appeared necessary. Actually, a heart return here would have saved one trick but South appeared to be embarked on a career of losing whatever he could.

South led a low club to his queen. This put West in with the king and West promptly led a second heart whereupon East cashed three heart tricks and the ace of diamonds. South had managed to hold himself to only three tricks at his two no-trump contract.

Says Democrats' Action Shows Hate for Business

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Democrats have pushed through the Assembly an "anti-strikebreaker" bill that, a Republican charged, "shrieks that Democrats hate business."

The measure, approved 88-52 Wednesday, would prohibit New York employers from hiring "professional strikebreakers" to replace employes on strike.

Under the bill, employers would be subject to a $1,000 fine or a year's imprisonment if they recruited or hired persons who customarily substitute for striking workers.

It was uncertain whether Republican Gov. Rockefeller would sign the measure if it also were approved by the Senate.

The sponsor of the legislation is Assemblyman Frank Cox, D-Albany, a member of the International Typographers' Union.

Cox declared that his measure, blocked in previous years by GOP-controlled Legislatures, would assure job-protection for "thousands of hard-working people."

Republicans contended, however, that the bill was a tangible sign of what they termed the Democratic party's hostility toward business in New York State.

Republican Paul Taylor of Penn Yan said that Cox had produced the "worst trouble-making bill I've ever seen." He charged:

"It shrieks that Democrats hate business."..

Five Republicans supported the measure.

LehmanMemorial Plans Approved

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Senators have joined Assemblymen in approving plans to establish college fellowships as memorials to the late Herbert H. Lehman, former New York governor and U.S. Senator.

The proposal, initiated by an advisory committee to Gov. Rockefeller, was approved unanimously by the Senate Wednesday.

Because the Assembly previously had passed a separate bill, the Senate measure will be sent to the Assembly for concurrence.

Rockefeller's signature is assured. He recommended approval of the measure, which would provide 100 annual fellowships for graduate study in social science and public affairs.

The grants, for use at New York schools, will provide $3,000 for single persons and $4,000 for married students, who qualify on the basis of competitive examinations given by the State Education Department.

System Obsolete as Quill Pen

Reorganization May Get Another Whirl in Congress

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress, frustrated and unhappy over creaky procedures many members feel are more suited to horse and buggy days, is going to give reorganization another whirl.

One expert in the field, Sen. A.S. Mike Monroney, D-Okla., put it this way:

"We in Congress now are attempting to run a business 10 times as large as AT&T, the Santa Fe Railroad and General Motors combined, with machinery as obsolete as a quill pen, a slanting bookkeeper's desk, and an old-fashioned high stool."

Both Senate and House have voted unanimously to set up a joint committee to conduct hearings and make recommendations on ways to improve the organization and operation of Congress.

Monroney, cochairman of the joint committee, is approaching the reorganization job with enthusiasm although he concedes "there is not much glamor in it."

About Reforms

"There is very little that can be done in a grand-slam spectacular way to improve the functioning of democracy," he said in an interview.

"Reform will come through 25 or 50 changes, each contributing its share to modernization."

Monroney is an old-timer in this field. As a House member 20 years ago, he joined in setting up a similar Senate-House committee whose work led to the 1946 Lafollette-Monroney Act.

That reorganization law was widely praised but Monroney now says it is evident that the law had its failures as well as its successes.

Lists Some Things

Out of his analysis of the experience with the 1946 law and his observation of new problems, Monroney believes these are some of the areas in which the new committee can make a contribution:

1. Organization of more effective procedures for Congress to meet its responsibility for acting on federal budgets that have now reached the $100-billion level.

2. Development of a system to start Congress to work earlier in each session, so that the members can complete their work annually by August.

3. Overhauling of the committee structure to distribute the workload more evenly and bring under control the dozens of subcommittees which have sprung up in recent years.

Sessions Too Long

4. Authorization for additional experts to work for members of Congress and the committees, such as certified public accountants for the appropriations committees.

Pressure for the new reorganization effort was strongest from members disgusted with the increasing length of annual sessions. In 1963, for example, adjournament did not come until after Christimas.

The Lafollette-Monroney law fixed a July 31 adjournment date but that is disregarded.

One of the principal accomplishments of the 1946 law was the reduction of standing committees in both branches from 81 to 34. But this has been largely frustrated by a growth of subcommittees so that there now are more units of all types in existence than there were 20 years ago.

In general, Monroney would like to see Congress vote to eliminate some of these subcommittees.

Monroney agrees that the joint committee can not meet the hopes of some members since it is unable to deal with such things as the Senate's filibuster rule.

But, as he sees it, to inject this and other emotion-charged issues would mean that the committee probably would end up with nothing at all done.

However, members long interested in congressional reform still bemoan the extent of the areas which they believe will be outside the fields of action by the joint committee.

They cite codes of ethics, conflict of interest of members, financing of election campaigns, and the seniority system.

Monroney emphasizes that the joint committee can take testimony on all these. It is only when it comes to drafting recommendations that its powers are limited.

Study Proposal Of Shopping Mart In Catskill Area

A Saugerties housing and shopping center developer is studying a proposal to establish a shopping center in Catskill, it was reported Wednesday.

Austin T. Simmons of Barclay Heights, Saugerties, who has developed shopping plazas in Barclay Heights and Greenport in the Hudson area, indicated he has a site and ultimate development will depend on rezoning of the property and assurances that a number of firms wish to lease stores in the project.

One chain operator has indicated his interest in opening an outlet in Catskill. Victory Food Stores and Grants Department Stores are tenants in both shopping marts now in operation.

Hospital Forces To Hear Speakers On Union Data

A mass meeting of non-professional hospital workers has been called for today and Friday, at the Kingston YMCA 507 Broadway, by the Hudson Valley Hospital Workers Organizing Committee AFL-CIO.

Labor and community leaders will be speakers, who will outline new labor laws relating to wages, hours and working conditions and union organization.

Non-professional hospital workers in Kingston, Poughkeepsie, Newburgh and other Hudson Valley communities will attend. A session for day shift workers will be held at 8 p. m. today, and a meeting of night shift workers will be held Friday starting at 12 noon.

Hopefuls Appear In Bids to Get GOP Nominations

At a meeting of Republican city committeemen held Wednesday evening at the Hotel Stuyvesant, five of the prospective candidates for the Republican nomination for surrrogate appeared and presented qualifications. Also appearing before the 26 Republican city committeemen was Attorney Frank Campochiaro, who although not an announnced candidate for the office of State Senator, has been prominently mentioned by many supporters.

Following the talks by the five prospective candidates for the office of Ulster County surrogate, there was a discussion but no decision was made or endorsement announced. Those who appeared before the city committeemen were County Attorney Arthur A. Davis Jr., Louis Francello of Saugerties, former Assistant Attorney General Maurice Goldberg of Woodstock, Richard Overbagh of Saugerties and City Judge Joseph D. Saccoman.

The meeting held by the city chairmen was called as an information meeting to hear the prospective candidates. City Chairman Joseph F. Carroll Jr., presided.

Another meeting will be held in the near future at which time prospective candidates for the Republican nomination for sheriff will be heard. The date will be announced by the chairman.

Former Surrogate Judge John B. Sterley also attended.

'No Sock' Bill Gets Approval Of Magistrates

Dutchess County's Magistrates Association has endorsed a proposed "no sock" bill in the State Legislature, which would make it a crime for a person to assault a policeman regardless of whether an arrest is legal.

The endorsement was proposed by Poughkeepsie City Judge Milton Haven, who called the measure "imperative." He noted that 325 policemen in New York City were injured as a result of assaults last year, and added that some policemen in Poughkeepsie had been injured in similar incidents, and one was injured last night making an arrest.

Dutchess County Judge John R. Schwartz opposed the measure, and said he feels most persons accused of resisting arrest are intoxicated, and in assaulting policemen they are doing something they would not do if they were sober.

Family Court Judge Joseph Jiudice in opposing the proposed legislation said he feels it is wrong for the proposed bill to be endorsed by judges who might have to hear cases involving assaults on policemen.

"Since the judges have passed a resolution endorsing the measure and condemning such assaults." Judge Jiudice said, "I don't see how they could be impartial in handling cases concerning such assaults."

District Attorney Raymond C. Baratta endorsed the bill. He said he feels there is a definite need for such legislation and he does not see any difficulty in judges in the association endorsing the proposal."

Baratta added, "I think Judge Schwartz in opposing the bill belives that a policeman should be man enough to take care of himself and anyone who gets out of order. But, the policeman today, as a result of court interpretations, doesn't have the same disciplinary powers a policeman had when Judge Schwartz served as district attorney."

Congressman Is Scheduled Speaker May 1st For Democratic Political-Education Day

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick of the 28th District, New York, will give the Washington Report on the Great Society at the Ulster County Democratic Women's "Day of Political Education," Saturday, May 1 at Ski-Minne Restaurant, Route 44-55, Town of Rochester.

Joining him in discussing "Women in the Great Society" will be Mrs. Mae Gurevich, vice-chairman of the New York State Democratic Committee, and Dr. Edna C. Macmahon, Vassar College professor of economics.

The first Democrat to be elected to Congress for many years from the 28th District, which includes Ulster County, Congressman Resnick, even before taking his oath of office, began to fulfill his pledge to give his district the active and effective representation he and his party believe it deserves. To serve his constituents, he maintains offices in both Kingston and Poughkeepsie.

As a member of the House Agriculture and Veterans' Affairs Committees, he has studied conditions in his district and has called for action in matters directly affecting it. Noting the rapid decline of the Mid-Hudson egg industry, he has introduced legislation to establish a Federal Egg Marketing order in an effort to save it from unfair competition and ruin. He has arranged for the area fruit farmers to present their case for importation of West Indian labor to help this fall's apple harvest. He called attention to the possible loss of the important collections of Persian Art at the Hudson home of artist Frederick Church. He has led the fight to save the Veterans' Administration Hospital at Castle Point.

Congressman Resnick has been equally active in national affairs, particularly in the Civil Rights movement. Besides challenging the seating of the Mississippi Delegation in the House of Representatives because Negroes were systematically deprived of their right to vote in that State, he went to Selma, Ala., to examine for himself the voting malpractices in that racially troubled city. He has introduced a bill in the House of Representatives (H.R. 4509) to establish a Federal Voting Registration and Election Commission to make certain that eligible voters will not be denied their Constitutional rights on account of their color.

Mr. Resnick is married, and is the father of 4 children.

The particular place of "Democratic Women in the Great Society" will be Mrs. Gurevich's topic.

Now serving her third term as vice-chairman of the Democratic State Committee, she has been a leader in county, state, and national civic and political affairs for the past 20 years.

DR. EDNA C. MACMAHON

JOSEPH Y. RESNICK

Quimby, supervisor of the Town of Marlborough will outline issues of special interest in Ulster County government; Peter W. Rakov, president of the Woodstock Democratic Club, will describe some of the activities and techniques that club has found of particular value; and Miss Rose M. Onteora Student Speaks Out Against High School Dress Codes in Teenage Magazine

"We're old enough. . .to decide for ourselves what to put on in the morning. I don't believe dress codes improve anyone's taste or self respect, but rather, they squash individuality."

So says Joyce Wadler, 17, of Pine Hill, N. Y., guest author of the "In My Opinion" column in the May issue of Seventeen Magazine.

According to Joyce, most high schools have dress codes, ranging from the very harsh to gentle and informal. She admits that the majority allow a good deal of leeway for groups such as Ivy League girls, bohemians and middle-of-the-roaders. But, she says, "Whatever the nature of the code, I'm against it. . .(because) the individual who gets stepped on is often the nongrouper: the girl who longs to wear ski pants to school because she freezes in cold weather, the boy who still digs jeans even though all his friends have switched to chinos."

A current target of code defenders, Joyce says, is the Beatle haircut. "Most of the boys who run afoul of the rules are freshmen and sophomores who, I think, look adorable in shaggy hair. . .Shaggy hair is a badge of some sort of them and being allowed to have it does indeed seem to me like a harmless human right."

Code defenders feel that freedom in dress might create a distracting atmosphere, but Joyce counters with the assurance that everyone would eventually calm down and go about their business. "That's the way it works at colleges. . ."

To those who say it's the school's duty to set standards of conduct, Joyce answers that school is a place where you learn to think, to judge and to make decisions. Your taste sense of right and wrong, she says, won't be changed by dressing in accordance with the school board's sense of propriety.

Almost everyone of her friends, Joyce concludes, has some fashion quirk. "But we value each other and wouldn't think of squelching anyone by telling him what not to wear. We care more for each other than for codes."

A senior in Onteora Central High School in Boiceville, Joyce is editor-in-chief of the school paper, a member of the band, the music, jazz appreciation and photography clubs, the writer's workshop and the senior seminar. She received a New York State Regents Scholarship and a New York Times journalism award. Her other interests are "people, music, reading, writing and life-in-general." Joyce plans to study psychology or sociology in college.

Four Local Students Nominated for NCTE Achievement Award

Four Kingston High School students, Daria Mainetti, Nancy Miller, Kenneth Pauker and Robert Swithers, have been nominated for the annual Achievement Awards Program, sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English.

For the eighth year, NCTE is conducting the national Awards competition to grant recognition to outstanding high school seniors for excellence in English. The writing abilities and literary awareness of each nominee will be judged by local and state committees, and NCTE will announce the winners in December, 1965. The winners' names will be sent to every U. S. college and university director of admissions and English department chairman with the recommendation that these students be considered for scholarship assistance. Most awards finalists report that they have been admitted to the college of their choice, and many have been given direct scholarship assistance.

According to James R. Squire, executive secretary of NCTE, the awards program is part of a comprehensive program undertaken by the council in cooperation with American high schools to encourage improvement in English language and literature at all grade levels. By stimulating interest in English studies and by supporting the improved instruction in English, the NCTE seeks to contribute to an educational program of excellence.

In 1963, this award was won by Michele Roach, a Kingston High School student now enrolled in Manhattanville College.

Danish Art Show Slated Through May At New Paltz College

A major exhibition of contemporary Danish painting and sculpture entitled Danish Abstract Art will open at the Art Gallery of the State University College at New Paltz April 30 and be on view there until May 23, it was announced today. The exhibition, sponsored by the Ambassador of Denmark, was organized by the Royal Danish Ministry for Cultural Affairs. The limited tour through the United States was organized by the Smithsonian Institution.

Sixty - three paintings and 23 sculptures have been assembled to present a comprehensive study of the Danish contribution to modern art.

The art of Denmark combines many sources and influences. On the one hand, it has absorbed the powerful impact that the work of Picasso, Kandinsky, Miro, and Klee has had on the international scene, while on the other it has kept alive traditional sources: prehistoric art in Scandinavia, Viking art, and Danish folk art. In the merging of foreign and national currents, Danish artists have produced a distinctive contemporary style, which itself has exerted considerable influence on modern art abroad. The exhibition covers development of abstract art in Denmark since 1933.

Artists in Belgium and Holland, joined with the Danes after World War II to start an international exhibition association. The name COBRA was coined from the names of the capital cities, Copenhagen, Brussels, and Amsterdam.

A complete catalog of the exhibition will be available.

A TREND TO BE HALTED BEFORE IT GOES FURTHER

Q—Last week I was a guest at a large wedding reception. At each guest's place at the table was an ash tray with the bride's and groom's names on it and tied to the ash tray with a white satin ribbon was a thank-you card. This is not the first time I have seen something like this. Is this a new trend and can it be considered proper? I felt as if I was given a receipt for my wedding present.

—If the thank-you cards were intended as acknowledgement for wedding presents, they were very definitely not proper, and if this is a new trend, it should be nipped in the bud.

Bread-and-Butter Letters

Q—Two friends and I were invited to spend last weekend at the house of a couple we met while on a cruise. We had a very enjoyable time. I would like to know if it is necessary for each one of us to write a bread-and-butter letter to our hostess, or may we elect one to write and express thanks for all three?

A—You should each write a separate bread-and-butter letter to your hostess. If, instead of being friends, you were all members of the same family, one note would be sufficient.

The Bridegroom Is A Doctor

Q—Our daughter is to be married to a young doctor and because of the different opinions we have received, we are completely confused as to how his name should be engraved on the invitations. Should it be Doctor John Henry Jones or John Henry Jones, MD?

A—Very definitely his name should be engraved, Doctor John Henry Jones on the invitations.

Four Local Students Nominated for NCTE Achievement Award

Four Kingston High School students, Daria Mainetti, Nancy Miller, Kenneth Pauker and Robert Swithers, have been nominated for the annual Achievement Awards Program, sponsored by the National Council of Teachers of English.

For the eighth year, NCTE is conducting the national Awards competition to grant recognition to outstanding high school seniors for excellence in English. The writing abilities and literary awareness of each nominee will be judged by local and state committees, and NCTE will announce the winners in December, 1965. The winners' names will be sent to every U. S. college and university director of admissions and English department chairman with the recommendation that these students be considered for scholarship assistance. Most awards finalists report that they have been admitted to the college of their choice, and many have been given direct scholarship assistance.

According to James R. Squire, executive secretary of NCTE, the awards program is part of a comprehensive program undertaken by the council in cooperation with American high schools to encourage improvement in English language and literature at all grade levels. By stimulating interest in English studies and by supporting the improved instruction in English, the NCTE seeks to contribute to an educational program of excellence.

In 1963, this award was won by Michele Roach, a Kingston High School student now enrolled in Manhattanville College.

Danish Art Show Slated Through May At New Paltz College

A major exhibition of contemporary Danish painting and sculpture entitled Danish Abstract Art will open at the Art Gallery of the State University College at New Paltz April 30 and be on view there until May 23, it was announced today. The exhibition, sponsored by the Ambassador of Denmark, was organized by the Royal Danish Ministry for Cultural Affairs. The limited tour through the United States was organized by the Smithsonian Institution.

Sixty - three paintings and 23 sculptures have been assembled to present a comprehensive study of the Danish contribution to modern art.

The art of Denmark combines many sources and influences. On the one hand, it has absorbed the powerful impact that the work of Picasso, Kandinsky, Miro, and Klee has had on the international scene, while on the other it has kept alive traditional sources: prehistoric art in Scandinavia, Viking art, and Danish folk art. In the merging of foreign and national currents, Danish artists have produced a distinctive contemporary style, which itself has exerted considerable influence on modern art abroad. The exhibition covers development of abstract art in Denmark since 1933.

Artists in Belgium and Holland, joined with the Danes after World War II to start an international exhibition association. The name COBRA was coined from the names of the capital cities, Copenhagen, Brussels, and Amsterdam.

A complete catalog of the exhibition will be available.

Saugerties Diamondmen Host, Clobber Cairo by 7-2

MISS LITTLE LEAGUE: Eve Scott of Kingston as she appeared in the parade to open the Little League baseball season in Walden. She was invited to appear as Miss Little League. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Scott of Kingston.

Borges, Owen Limit Losers To Single Hit

Jeff Borges, with help from Bruce Owens, led Saugerties High to a 7-2 win over Cairo in a contest yesterday at the Sawyers' home diamond.

The losers were limited to one hit, a freak single by catcher Patterson.

Coach Pete Kramer's varsity nine, which has a 3-2 season record, faces Roosevelt High in a DCLS game at Sauge ties.

Borges chalked up goose eggs for the visitors for two innings until he was relieved in the third frame by Owens, who came in from short stop to take over with the bases loaded. Owens retired the side on a fielder's choice and two infield outs.

The Sawyers, meanwhile pushed across a single run in the bottom of the first and added two more in the third. Four additional Sawyer tallies in the fourth didn't figure in the results as Cairo managed to come across with only two in the final stanza.

The crucial runs for the Sawyers came in the third when Glen Davis reached first on an error, stole second and went to third on a catcher's error. Owens reached first on a bunt and Davis came in on another Cairo error. Owens stole second and third consecutively and came home on another miscue.

Borges meanwhile returned fourth and held the losers to a single hit and two runs in the final inning. The latter came after a base on balls with two out, an error, Patterson's hit and an overthrow.

Davis' double was the only extra base hit of the game, but the Sawyers had seven successful attempts at stolen bases — three by Owens and two by Davis.

Borges set 11 batsmen down via the strikout route while issuing five walks. Losing hurler Zimmerman issued five free passes and fanned as many.

Tovar Bidding For Allen Prize

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cesar Tovar of the Minnesota Twins has notched another hole in his glove en route to the second annual Richie Allen fielding award.

Tovar's latest entry in his bid for the honor came Wednesday night in Minnesota's 9-3 loss to Cleveland.

The Allen award, established last year by the third baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, goes to the rookie infielder whose season-long performance in the field is the most conspicuous — much to his team's chagrin.

Tovar has played in only six games and has committed two errors, so it's unlikely he'll achieve Allen's freshman report card of 41 errors, most by a player in the majors last season.

Popup Trouble

Tovar, 24, had pop-up trouble Wednesday night against the Indians. With two out and none on in the first inning, Leon Wagner lofted an easy pop toward second base where the rookie was playing. Tovar dropped the ball, and Cleveland was on its way to three unearned runs.

The Twins' freshman had help, however, in leading the Twins' to only their third defeat in 10 games.

In other AL games, Detroit nipped Los Angeles 5-4, Baltimore defeated Washington 6-3 and New York belted Kansas City 5-1.

While the Twins were aiding the Indians defensively, Rocky Colavito was leading the offense, driving in four runs with a three-run homer in the seventh inning and a single in the first. Alvis homered with one on for Cleveland while Jimmie Hall connected twice and Allison once for Minnesota.

Chase Dean Chance

Detroit's three-run rally in the seventh inning chased Dean Chance and brought the Tigers a victory over Los Angeles. Chance retired the first two batters before he walked Jim Northrup and gave up a single to Dick McAuliffe.

George Brunet replaced Chance and was greeted by Jerry Lumpe's two-run triple. Lumpe then scored on Norm Cash's single. Jose Cardenal blasted a three-run Angel homer in the fifth while Joe Adcock connected with none on in the sixth.

John Orsino's three-run homer in the sixth inning, the Orioles' third homer in two innings, boosted Baltimore past Washington. Jack Brandt and Jerry Adair had homered in the fifth, helping Robin Roberts' to his second victory. Doug Camilli and Frank Howard connected for the Senators.

Al Downing hurled a five-hitter for the Yankees, who lost right-fielder Roger Maris for two and possibly three weeks. Maris injured his right thigh in making an outstanding catch of Bert Campaneris' line drive in the seventh. Maris had driven in a run in the fourth with a double.

Matty Alou Up To .400 Average

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Matty Alou of the San Francisco Giants is hitting 2½ times his weight, but that's still four points less than his younger brother.

At 160 pounds the littlest and least conspicuous of the three Alou brothers, Matty lifted his average to .400 Wednesday when he drove in four runs with a double and a bases-loaded triple that powered the Giants to a 9-3 victory over Philadelphia.

It was the second straight game in which Matty had produced the winning run — his ninth-inning homer Tuesday ended the Giants' 14-13 slugfest against the Phillies. He now has hit safely in the nine games he has started while producing the winning hit in four of seven San Francisco victories.

And it's just possible that the 26-year-old Matty will finally step up as the Alou family leader instead of 22-year-old Jesus or 29-year-old Felipe.

Jesus is hitting .404 for the Giants.

Felipe the elder, meanwhile, is currently in the also-run category with a .138 average for the Milwaukee Braves.

Two Shutouts

In other games, three top pitching performances were turned in. St. Louis' Bob Gibson three-hit Milwaukee 5-0 and Pittsburgh's Bob Veale three-hit the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0. Cincinnati's Joey Jay pitched 7 2-3 innings of no-hit ball but was gone when the Reds finally edged the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in 14 innings.

And the Houston Astros extended the longest winning streak in the majors this season to seven by walloping the New York Mets 12-9.

The Giants trailed 3-2 in the fourth when Phillies' starter Ray Culp hit Tom Haller with a pitch, walked Jose Pagan and Harvey Kuenn and then hit Matty Alou's bat with a pitch that was rifled into the right field corner for a triple.

Ron Herbel got the victory with five innings of hitless relief after taking over for Jack Sanford. Sanford allowed only three hits — but two were homers by Johnny Callison and Wes Covington. Willie Mays hit one for San Francisco.

Gibson brought his record to 3-0 with his second shutout as the Braves' attendance shrank to 1,324 — setting an all-time low for County Stadium for the second night in succession.

Lou Brock led the Cardinals, scoring a first-inning run and driving in two more later in the game.

Outduels Osteen

Veale, 2-0, didn't allow a base runner past first base as he won his duel with Claude Osteen, who had a six-hit shutout until Dick Schofield started Pittsburgh's winning rally with a double in the eighth inning.

Roberto Clemente then walked and Donn Clendenon won it with a two-run single.

Jay, leading 1-0 on Deron Johnson's homer off Larry Jackson, held the Cubs hitless until Vic Roznovsky collected his first hit of the season, a two-out single in the eighth inning. Billy Williams brought the Cubs a tie with a two-out homer in the ninth.

Each team scored a run in the 10th before the Reds won in the 14th when Ernie Broglio committed a balk with the bases loaded, enabling Tommy Harper to score.

Bob Aspromonte supplied the big bat for the Astros, driving in three runs and capping a four-run sixth-inning uprising that put Houston ahead to stay.

Trailing 9-6 in the sixth, the Astros closed the gap when Frank McGraw and Al Jackson each issued a bases-loaded walk. Aspromonte then rapped a two-run single that clinched it.

Saugerties Fish and Game Club Opposes Proposed Controls on Firearms Traffic

Weapons legislation, the need of alacrity in the clubhouse building program and the spring stocking of trout in area streams were the major items of discussion at Monday night's meeting of Saugerties Fish and Game Club at the Sales and Service showrooms, Ulster Avenue.

State legislation in the form of seven Assembly bills in committee which would place controls on the sales, ownership and transportation or rifles was discussed at great length. The discussion brought out that passage of any of these bills would place a heavy burden and great amounts of red tape on the sportsman.

Club members were advised to write or wire Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson and Senator E. Ogden Bush at the State Capitol Building, Albany, indicating their opposition to Assembly Intro Bills 3486, 3637, 3638, 3639, 3640, 3641 and 4634.

Clubhouse Building Committee Chairman Victor Wood reported that the right-of-way into the club's 14-acre clubhouse site at Centerville is in the deed and he was ready to proceed with improving the road into the site. There was much discussion as to whether or not the road could be constructed for $500.

President Robert Schiavone announced that members were invited to make a physical inspection of the site prior to the next meeting. The members will meet 6:30 p. m. at Centerville Firehouse grounds on the regular meeting night in May and proceed in a group on the inspection tour.

William Kronenberg, trout committee chairman said that the trout fund campaign goal was assured and 1,000 trout, 9 to 10 inches, would be purchased and stocked May 9 in the cooperative program which includes High Woods Sportsmen's Club, Ruby Rod and Gun Club and the Ridgerunners Club. Saugerties is short $10 in meeting the goal.

He also reported that the State Conservation Department has recently stocked 1,240 brown trout 7 to 9 inches in area streams. Another shipment of 1,200 is expected shortly.

Kronenberg requested that club members who have not as yet donated to the fund should make returns as soon as possible in order that Saugerties may meet its quota of $125. Each club's share is $125. The total cost of the shipment will be about $500.

Three achievement plaques were awarded to members at the recent annual banquet. Present to receive theirs were Arthur Sperl, Carlton B. King and Robert Sperl.

King, a past president of the Federation of Ulster County Sportsmen, reported on the progress of the state's anti-pollution program and explained the various restrictions proposed in the weapons legislation in Albany.

A change in the by-laws which would provide free membership to officers completing two terms of office and committee chairmen who served two years, was read and approved for the second time and adopted as part of the club's by-laws.

Cal Hackett, reporting on the junior shooters training course, said 34 youngsters are expected to complete the course at the final session Saturday, May 8 at the Sales and Service showrooms. Certificates will be presented and the parents of the youngsters are invited to the open house event.

It was announced that the County Federation will elect officers at its meeting Thursday, May 13 at Upper Esopus Club at Shandaken. The Federation banquet will be held June 12.

Newspaper Guild's

Conservation Award Will Go to Matthews

A Kingston attorney who is a widely recognized expert in the field of wildlife and conservation today was named winner of the Kingston Newspaper Guild's 1965 Page One Award in Conservation.

S. James Matthews, a practicing attorney in Kingston where he has been a lifelong resident, was the unanimous choice of the Guild's Page One Awards committee for that honor, chairman Henry P. Eighmey announced.

Matthews will be honored with a citation at the Guild's 10th annual Page One Ball on Saturday, May 22, at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston, together with outstanding figures in other fields of endeavor.

Acquiring interest in the out of doors at a very early age, Matthews has been identified with the conservation movement all his life. He is a member of the Advisory Board of the Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources and the Advisory Board of the Joint Legislative Committee on Revision of the Conservation Law.

On State Council

He is a former Vice Chairman of the New York State Fish and Wildlife Management Board and formerly represented this county on District 8 of that board. He is an officer of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County and for more than a decade was a director and vice president of the New York State Conservation Council. He serves as a member of the Conservation Commissioner's Advisory Board, a group of 15 advising the Conservation Commissioner on matters of policy affecting the Department.

Matthews has been editor of the Conservation Council Comments, a bi-monthly 12-page publication which he founded and which is devoted to the natural resources of the Empire State. He is an associate member of the National Wildlife Federation, a member of the Wildlife Society, the Wilderness Society and numerous rod and gun clubs in Ulster County. He has been a speaker at the annual convention of the National Wildlife Federation and on conservation throughout the state. Last year he spoke at the Forest Land Use Conference sponsored by the State of New York concerning the future land use of New York state's forest land.

S. JAMES MATTHEWS

Studied Forestry

Matthews, who acquired his college education at the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse where he matriculated for two years, says he can't remember the occasion of his first fishing trip or first walk in the woods with his father.

After Forestry College and prior to entering law school, Matthews worked on a ranch in Colorado on the slopes of Sangre De Cristo Mountains. Part of the ranch's grazing lands were leased from the San Isobel National Forest. Although forsaking an active career in conservation, his interest in matters remains intense. He is owner of 125-acre woodland parcel in the Catskills which has been in his family for six generations. Presently, there is a Christmas tree plantation on the property.

Young Man of Year

In addition to his conservation activites, he is a former recipient of the Young Man of the Year Award from the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1956. For ten years, he was a lecturer and political instructor at Empire Girls' State sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of New York. He is presently a part time instructor at the Ulster County Community College.

He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, Kingston Rotary and a member of the Consistory of the Fair Street Reformed Church where he has taught church school for many years.

Big Jack Target In Vegas Tourney

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The name of the game today is Jack Nicklaus, or so it seemed as 26 professional golfers fired away in the first round of the $75,000 Tournament of Champions.

The setting was the Desert Inn Country Club. The course, one of the better of the resort challenges according to the pros, measures 7,209 yards.

Par is 36-36—72, and winds of 15 to 25 miles an hour and temperatures in the upper 80s were forecast.

The 25-year-old Nicklaus was a firm 5-2 favorite to retain his 1.000 batting average in the tournament. He has played it twice, won twice and is seeking his third in as many years.

There is Arnold Palmer, the 1962 winner here, who has not won a tournament since the Oklahoma City Open May 18 last year.

There is Bill Casper, Jr., who three times has finished second, and two former winners, Sam Snead, 1961, and Mike Souchak, 1959.

There are also, as Nicklaus himself pointed out, such fellows as Tony Lema and Doug Sanders.

"In my own mind I don't feel I should be favored. I haven't played in a tournament since the Masters two weeks ago, and if you lose two weeks in this kind of competition you can lose your sharpness and you tend to play sloppy."

Palmer shot a 66 in a final practice round Wednesday. Casper went 18 holes, but did not keep a score. Nicklaus had a 73, but said, "I was just fooling around."

Fighters of Month: Laguana-Barruni

NEW YORK (AP) — Lightweight champion Ismael Laguna of Panama and flyweight champion Salvatore Burruni of Italy, two recently crowned boxing rulers, were named co-holders of the Ring's Fighter of the Month Award for April.

Only two changes were made in the heavyweight rankings in which Ring recognizes Cassius Clay as the champion and lists Ernie Terrell, the World Boxing Association's ruler, as No. 3 contender behind Sonny Liston and Floyd Patterson, two former champions.

In the minor changes Thad Spencer of Tacoma, Wash., recent winner over Roger Rischer of San Francisco, advanced to No. 7 and Rischer dropped to No. 9.

Borges, Owen Limit Losers To Single Hit

Jeff Borges, with help from Bruce Owens, led Saugerties High to a 7-2 win over Cairo in a contest yesterday at the Sawyers' home diamond.

The losers were limited to one hit, a freak single by catcher Patterson.

Coach Pete Kramer's varsity nine, which has a 3-2 season record, faces Roosevelt High in a DCLS game at Saugerties.

Borges chalked up goose eggs for the visitors for two innings until he was relieved in the third frame by Owens, who came in from short stop to take over with the bases loaded. Owens retired the side on a fielder's choice and two infield outs.

The Sawyers, meanwhile pushed across a single run in the bottom of the first and added two more in the third. Four additional Sawyer tallies in the fourth didn't figure in the results as Cairo managed to come across with only two in the final stanza.

The crucial runs for the Sawyers came in the third when Glen Davis reached first on an error, stole second and went to third on a catcher's error. Owens reached first on a bunt and Davis came in on another Cairo error. Owens stole second and third consecutively and came home on another miscue.

Borges meanwhile returned fourth and held the losers to a single hit and two runs in the final inning. The latter came after a base on balls with two out, an error, Patterson's hit and an overthrow.

Davis' double was the only extra base hit of the game, but the Sawyers had seven successful attempts at stolen bases — three by Owens and two by Davis.

Borges set 11 batsmen down via the strikout route while issuing five walks. Losing hurler Zimmerman issued five free passes and fanned as many.

Tovar Bidding For Allen Prize

Cesar Tovar of the Minnesota Twins has notched another hole in his glove en route to the second annual Richie Allen fielding award.

Tovar's latest entry in his bid for the honor came Wednesday night in Minnesota's 9-3 loss to Cleveland.

The Allen award, established last year by the third baseman of the Philadelphia Phillies, goes to the rookie infielder whose season-long performance in the field is the most conspicuous — much to his team's chagrin.

Tovar has played in only six games and has committed two errors, so it's unlikely he'll achieve Allen's freshman report card of 41 errors, most by a player in the majors last season.

While the Twins were aiding the Indians defensively, Rocky Colavito was leading the offense, driving in four runs with a three-run homer in the seventh inning and a single in the first. Alvis homered with one on for Cleveland while Jimmie Hall connected twice and Allison once for Minnesota.

Chase Dean Chance

Detroit's three-run rally in the seventh inning chased Dean Chance and brought the Tigers a victory over Los Angeles. Chance retired the first two batters before he walked Jim Northrup and gave up a single to Dick McAuliffe.

George Brunet replaced Chance and was greeted by Jerry Lumpe's two-run triple. Lumpe then scored on Norm Cash's single. Jose Cardenal blasted a three-run Angel homer in the fifth while Joe Adcock connected with none on in the sixth.

John Orsino's three-run homer in the sixth inning, the Orioles' third homer in two innings, boosted Baltimore past Washington. Jack Brandt and Jerry Adair had homered in the fifth, helping Robin Roberts' to his second victory. Doug Camilli and Frank Howard connected for the Senators.

Al Downing hurled a five-hitter for the Yankees, who lost right-fielder Roger Maris for two and possibly three weeks. Maris injured his right thigh in making an outstanding catch of Bert Campaneris' line drive in the seventh. Maris had driven in a run in the fourth with a double.

Matty Alou Up To .400 Average

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Matty Alou of the San Francisco Giants is hitting 2½ times his weight, but that's still four points less than his younger brother.

At 160 pounds the littlest and least conspicuous of the three Alou brothers, Matty lifted his average to .400 Wednesday when he drove in four runs with a double and a bases-loaded triple that powered the Giants to a 9-3 victory over Philadelphia.

It was the second straight game in which Matty had produced the winning run — his ninth-inning homer Tuesday ended the Giants' 14-13 slugfest against the Phillies. He now has hit safely in the nine games he has started while producing the winning hit in four of seven San Francisco victories.

And it's just possible that the 26-year-old Matty will finally step up as the Alou family leader instead of 22-year-old Jesus or 29-year-old Felipe.

Jesus is hitting .404 for the Giants.

Felipe the elder, meanwhile, is currently in the also-run category with a .138 average for the Milwaukee Braves.

Two Shutouts

In other games, three top pitching performances were turned in. St. Louis' Bob Gibson three-hit Milwaukee 5-0 and Pittsburgh's Bob Veale three-hit the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-0. Cincinnati's Joey Jay pitched 7 2-3 innings of no-hit ball but was gone when the Reds finally edged the Chicago Cubs 3-2 in 14 innings.

And the Houston Astros extended the longest winning streak in the majors this season to seven by walloping the New York Mets 12-9.

The Giants trailed 3-2 in the fourth when Phillies' starter Ray Culp hit Tom Haller with a pitch, walked Jose Pagan and Harvey Kuenn and then hit Matty Alou's bat with a pitch that was rifled into the right field corner for a triple.

Ron Herbel got the victory with five innings of hitless relief after taking over for Jack Sanford. Sanford allowed only three hits — but two were homers by Johnny Callison and Wes Covington. Willie Mays hit one for San Francisco.

Gibson brought his record to 3-0 with his second shutout as the Braves' attendance shrank to 1,324 — setting an all-time low for County Stadium for the second night in succession.

Lou Brock led the Cardinals, scoring a first-inning run and driving in two more later in the game.

Outduels Osteen

Veale, 2-0, didn't allow a base runner past first base as he won his duel with Claude Osteen, who had a six-hit shutout until Dick Schofield started Pittsburgh's winning rally with a double in the eighth inning.

Roberto Clemente then walked and Donn Clendenon won it with a two-run single.

Jay, leading 1-0 on Deron Johnson's homer off Larry Jackson, held the Cubs hitless until Vic Roznovsky collected his first hit of the season, a two-out single in the eighth inning. Billy Williams brought the Cubs a tie with a two-out homer in the ninth.

Each team scored a run in the 10th before the Reds won in the 14th when Ernie Broglio committed a balk with the bases loaded, enabling Tommy Harper to score.

Bob Aspromonte supplied the big bat for the Astros, driving in three runs and capping a four-run sixth-inning uprising that put Houston ahead to stay.

Trailing 9-6 in the sixth, the Astros closed the gap when Frank McGraw and Al Jackson each issued a bases-loaded walk. Aspromonte then rapped a two-run single that clinched it.

Newspaper Guild's

Conservation Award Will Go to Matthews

A Kingston attorney who is a widely recognized expert in the field of wildlife and conservation today was named winner of the Kingston Newspaper Guild's 1965 Page One Award in Conservation.

S. James Matthews, a practicing attorney in Kingston where he has been a lifelong resident, was the unanimous choice of the Guild's Page One Awards committee for that honor, chairman Henry P. Eighmey announced.

Matthews will be honored with a citation at the Guild's 10th annual Page One Ball on Saturday, May 22, at the Governor Clinton Hotel in Kingston, together with outstanding figures in other fields of endeavor.

Acquiring interest in the out of doors at a very early age, Matthews has been identified with the conservation movement all his life. He is a member of the Advisory Board of the Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources and the Advisory Board of the Joint Legislative Committee on Revision of the Conservation Law.

On State Council

He is a former Vice Chairman of the New York State Fish and Wildlife Management Board and formerly represented this county on District 8 of that board. He is an officer of the Federated Sportsmen's Clubs of Ulster County and for more than a decade was a director and vice president of the New York State Conservation Council. He serves as a member of the Conservation Commissioner's Advisory Board, a group of 15 advising the Conservation Commissioner on matters of policy affecting the Department.

Matthews has been editor of the Conservation Council Comments, a bi-monthly 12-page publication which he founded and which is devoted to the natural resources of the Empire State. He is an associate member of the National Wildlife Federation, a member of the Wildlife Society, the Wilderness Society and numerous rod and gun clubs in Ulster County. He has been a speaker at the annual convention of the National Wildlife Federation and on conservation throughout the state. Last year he spoke at the Forest Land Use Conference sponsored by the State of New York concerning the future land use of New York state's forest land.

Studied Forestry

Matthews, who acquired his college education at the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse where he matriculated for two years, says he can't remember the occasion of his first fishing trip or first walk in the woods with his father.

After Forestry College and prior to entering law school, Matthews worked on a ranch in Colorado on the slopes of Sangre De Cristo Mountains. Part of the ranch's grazing lands were leased from the San Isobel National Forest. Although forsaking an active career in conservation, his interest in matters remains intense. He is owner of 125-acre woodland parcel in the Catskills which has been in his family for six generations. Presently, there is a Christmas tree plantation on the property.

Young Man of Year

In addition to his conservation activites, he is a former recipient of the Young Man of the Year Award from the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce in 1956. For ten years, he was a lecturer and political instructor at Empire Girls' State sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary, Department of New York. He is presently a part time instructor at the Ulster County Community College.

He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, Kingston Rotary and a member of the Consistory of the Fair Street Reformed Church where he has taught church school for many years.

Saugerties Fish and Game Club Opposes Proposed Controls on Firearms Traffic

Weapons legislation, the need of alacrity in the clubhouse building program and the spring stocking of trout in area streams were the major items of discussion at Monday night's meeting of Saugerties Fish and Game Club at the Sales and Service showrooms, Ulster Avenue.

State legislation in the form of seven Assembly bills in committee which would place controls on the sales, ownership and transportation or rifles was discussed at great length. The discussion brought out that passage of any of these bills would place a heavy burden and great amounts of red tape on the sportsman.

Club members were advised to write or wire Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson and Senator E. Ogden Bush at the State Capitol Building, Albany, indicating their opposition to Assembly Intro Bills 3486, 3637, 3638, 3639, 3640, 3641 and 4634.

Clubhouse Building Committee Chairman Victor Wood reported that the right-of-way into the club's 14-acre clubhouse site at Centerville is in the deed and he was ready to proceed with improving the road into the site. There was much discussion as to whether or not the road could be constructed for $500.

President Robert Schiavone announced that members were invited to make a physical inspection of the site prior to the next meeting. The members will meet 6:30 p. m. at Centerville Firehouse grounds on the regular meeting night in May and proceed in a group on the inspection tour.

William Kronenberg, trout committee chairman said that the trout fund campaign goal was assured and 1,000 trout, 9 to 10 inches, would be purchased and stocked May 9 in the cooperative program which includes High Woods Sportsmen's Club, Ruby Rod and Gun Club and the Ridgerunners Club. Saugerties is short $10 in meeting the goal.

He also reported that the State Conservation Department has recently stocked 1,240 brown trout 7 to 9 inches in area streams. Another shipment of 1,200 is expected shortly.

Kronenberg requested that club members who have not as yet donated to the fund should make returns as soon as possible in order that Saugerties may meet its quota of $125. Each club's share is $125. The total cost of the shipment will be about $500.

Three achievement plaques were awarded to members at the recent annual banquet. Present to receive theirs were Arthur Sperl, Carlton B. King and Robert Sperl.

King, a past president of the Federation of Ulster County Sportsmen, reported on the progress of the state's anti-pollution program and explained the various restrictions proposed in the weapons legislation in Albany.

A change in the by-laws which would provide free membership to officers completing two terms of office and committee chairmen who served two years, was read and approved for the second time and adopted as part of the club's by-laws.

Cal Hackett, reporting on the junior shooters training course, said 34 youngsters are expected to complete the course at the final session Saturday, May 8 at the Sales and Service showrooms. Certificates will be presented and the parents of the youngsters are invited to the open house event.

It was announced that the County Federation will elect officers at its meeting Thursday, May 13 at Upper Esopus Club at Shandaken. The Federation banquet will be held June 12.

Big Jack Target In Vegas Tourney

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — The name of the game today is Jack Nicklaus, or so it seemed as 26 professional golfers fired away in the first round of the $75,000 Tournament of Champions.

The setting was the Desert Inn Country Club. The course, one of the better of the resort challenges according to the pros, measures 7,209 yards.

Par is 36-36—72, and winds of 15 to 25 miles an hour and temperatures in the upper 80s were forecast.

The 25-year-old Nicklaus was a firm 5-2 favorite to retain his 1.000 batting average in the tournament. He has played it twice, won twice and is seeking his third in as many years.

There is Arnold Palmer, the 1962 winner here, who has not won a tournament since the Oklahoma City Open May 18 last year.

There is Bill Casper, Jr., who three times has finished second, and two former winners, Sam Snead, 1961, and Mike Souchak, 1959.

There are also, as Nicklaus himself pointed out, such fellows as Tony Lema and Doug Sanders.

"In my own mind I don't feel I should be favored. I haven't played in a tournament since the Masters two weeks ago, and if you lose two weeks in this kind of competition you can lose your sharpness and you tend to play sloppy."

Palmer shot a 66 in a final practice round Wednesday. Casper went 18 holes, but did not keep a score. Nicklaus had a 73, but said, "I was just fooling around."

Fighters of Month: Laguana-Barruni

NEW YORK (AP) — Lightweight champion Ismael Laguna of Panama and flyweight champion Salvatore Burruni of Italy, two recently crowned boxing rulers, were named co-holders of the Ring's Fighter of the Month Award for April.

Only two changes were made in the heavyweight rankings in which Ring recognizes Cassius Clay as the champion and lists Ernie Terrell, the World Boxing Association's ruler, as No. 3 contender behind Sonny Liston and Floyd Patterson, two former champions.

In the minor changes Thad Spencer of Tacoma, Wash., recent winner over Roger Rischer of San Francisco, advanced to No. 7 and Rischer dropped to No. 9.

Church Senior Title at Stake Saturday Night

St. John's Episcopal, first half champions, and Fair Street Reformed, survivors of a three-way playoff for second half honors, have qualified for the one-game 1964-65 Protestant Church Senior Basketball League championship playoff Saturday at 8:30 p. m. at the YMCA court.

Fair Street Reformed bowled over St. John's, 72-63, in the first game of the triple playoff, then played three strong quarters to nip a late Redeemer Lutheran bid, 46-44, in the second game.

Controlling the ball beautifully and wasting few shots, Fair Street built up a 24-16 halftime lead against Redeemers and eked out a 14-13 third period edge. Redeemers rallied in the fourth for a 15-8 margin when Bob Swithers canned 8 of his 14 points but the clock ran out on the losers.

Ballou Rims 22

Gary Ballou rimmed 22 points and Will Palen added 20 to spark Fair Street's romp over St. John's. Brian Burroughs hit double figures with 12. Game honors went to Brian Findholt of St. John's with 26. Mac Thayer (18) and Bob Hazenbush (12) also helped.

Palen's 22 points and 15 by Ballou sparked the victory over Redeemers. Swithers canned 14 and Alan Deyo 10 for Redeemers.

An all-star preliminary game at 7:30 p. m. precedes the St. John's-Fair Street championship game Saturday night. Trophies will be presented for the Senior and Junior leagues after the game. Refreshments will be served and the public is invited.

Ottinger's Loyalty Day Speech Canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., says his Loyalty Day speech in Mount Vernon, N.Y., has been canceled in "a nasty, petty retaliation against my stand on the House Committee on un-American Activities."

He blamed "discredited elements of the far right" Wednesday for the withdrawal of an invitation to speak next Sunday.

The Westchester County Council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars issued the invitation Feb. 27, two days after Ottinger voted against approval of funds for the house committee.

In a letter to Harry Real, Loyalty Day chairman for the county VFW, Ottinger wrote:

"Your action seems a part of a pattern of harassment, retaliation and intimidation being carried on by a small band of extremists within the county bent on stiffling honest dissent."

Sailors Charged With Kidnaping Of Woman Cabbie

Charges were lodged against Kenneth R. Knickerbocker, 18, of Ft. Pierce, Fla.; William F. Kimmons, 19, of Miami, Fla., and William W. Wallace, 17, of Lynn Mass.

State Tax Exemption For Viet Fighters

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New Yorkers serving in the U.S. Armed Forces in Viet Nam will receive a state income tax exemption as well as a federal exemption, Gov. Rockefeller announced today.

Noting that President Johnson had granted the federal exemption Saturday, Rockefeller said that similarity of state and federal income tax laws make the tax break possible on a state level, too.

The New York exemption and tax refund will apply to those serving in the Viet Nam area since Jan. 1, 1964, and will cover military pay and hospitalization resulting from military service.

St. John's, Fair Street In Title Clash

Church Senior Title at Stake Saturday Night

St. John's Episcopal, first half champions, and Fair Street Reformed, survivors of a three-way playoff for second half honors, have qualified for the one-game 1964-65 Protestant Church Senior Basketball League championship playoff Saturday at 8:30 p. m. at the YMCA court.

Fair Street Reformed bowled over St. John's, 72-63, in the first game of the triple playoff, then played three strong quarters to nip a late Redeemer Lutheran bid, 46-44, in the second game.

Controlling the ball beautifully and wasting few shots, Fair Street built up a 24-16 halftime lead against Redeemers and eked out a 14-13 third period edge. Redeemers rallied in the fourth for a 15-8 margin when Bob Swithers canned 8 of his 14 points but the clock ran out on the losers.

Ballou Rims 22

Gary Ballou rimmed 22 points and Will Palen added 20 to spark Fair Street's romp over St. John's. Brian Burroughs hit double figures with 12. Game honors went to Brian Findholt of St. John's with 26. Mac Thayer (18) and Bob Hazenbush (12) also helped.

Palen's 22 points and 15 by Ballou sparked the victory over Redeemers. Swithers canned 14 and Alan Deyo 10 for Redeemers.

Ottinger's Loyalty Day Speech Canceled

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Richard L. Ottinger, D-N.Y., says his Loyalty Day speech in Mount Vernon, N.Y., has been canceled in "a nasty, petty retaliation against my stand on the House Committee on un-American Activities."

He blamed "discredited elements of the far right" Wednesday for the withdrawal of an invitation to speak next Sunday.

The Westchester County Council of the Veterans of Foreign Wars issued the invitation Feb. 27, two days after Ottinger voted against approval of funds for the house committee.

The Congressman said he received notice of the cancellation last Monday.

In a letter to Harry Real, Loyalty Day chairman for the county VFW, Ottinger wrote:

Leg Injury Benches Maris

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger Maris, victim of a leg injury, is lost to the New York Yankees for two and possibly three weeks.

Maris fell after making an outstanding catch in right field against Kansas City Wednesday in the Yankees' 5-1 victory.

Dr. Sidney Gaynor, New York team physician, said Maris injured the hamstring muscle in the right thigh. The outfielder hurt the same muscle making a similar catch in an exhibition game two years ago and was out for three weeks.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Post Rail and Nevele Way, two three-year-old pacers previously undefeated, battled to the wire Wednesday night with Post Rail emerging as the victory in the Yonkers Raceway feature.

More than 22,000 fans saw the winner clip a 2:02 4-5 mile in the $5,000 invitational pace.

Post Rail returned $34.90. High Level was third.

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Johnny Allen hurled a shutout Wednesday to lead Colgate to an 8-0 baseball victory over Lehigh.

Sailors Charged With Kidnaping Of Woman Cabbie

Charges were lodged against Kenneth R. Knickerbocker, 18, of Ft. Pierce, Fla.; William F. Kimmons, 19, of Miami, Fla., and William W. Wallace, 17, of Lynn Mass.

Mrs. Leona Doherty of Buffalo told police the trio threatened her Tuesday and forced her to drive them on the New York State Thruway from Buffalo to a spot near Amsterdam.

A state trooper became suspicious of the taxicab when it stopped for gasoline outside Amsterdam. He asked Mrs. Doherty for identification and she told the trooper of her plight.

The sailors were arrested and returned to Buffalo Wednesday night.

Police said they were seaman on the U.S.S. Boston and jumped ship while it was anchored in Boston.

State Tax Exemption For Viet Fighters

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — New Yorkers serving in the U.S. Armed Forces in Viet Nam will receive a state income tax exemption as well as a federal exemption, Gov. Rockefeller announced today.

Noting that President Johnson had granted the federal exemption Saturday, Rockefeller said that similarity of state and federal income tax laws make the tax break possible on a state level, too.

The New York exemption and tax refund will apply to those serving in the Viet Nam area since Jan. 1, 1964, and will cover military pay and hospitalization resulting from military service.

National Council On Crime Thanks Ulster Residents

The District Attorney's Office was recently in receipt of a letter from Sigurd S. Larmon, president of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, expressing gratitude to former District Attorney David W. Corwin, Joseph P. Torraca, District Attorney of Ulster County, and to the people in Ulster County for their support to the Council's appeal for funds. The citizens of Ulster County have contributed $2,553 to the Council.

District Attorney Joseph P. Torraca stated that, the National Council on Crime and Delinquency is an organization with approximately 30,000 citizens and officials, organized in 1907 and incorporated as a National Service Agency in 1921, and provides services to promote rehabilitation of juvenile and adult offenders. On a community, statewide, and national level, the Council works to develop effective juvenile, family and criminal courts, to improve probation, parole and institutional services and facilities, and to stimulate community programs for the prevention, treatment and control of delinquency and crime. The Council works with citizens and professional groups and with judges, probation and parole officers, correctional administrators and other public officials.

The NCCD is a nonprofit organization supported by contributions from united funds, foundations, business corporations and individuals interested in expanding its work and services.

The district attorney joins in with the NCCD to thank those citizens that have contributed to the appeal.

Author to Talk On Canal Book At Rhinebeck

Dorothy Hurlbut Sanderson, author of the just-published The Delaware & Hudson Canalway, Carrying Coals to Rondout, will visit Starr Library, Rhinebeck Saturday to discuss her history of one of the valley's most story-filled landmarks.

She will chat with visitors about how she assembled all this information on the canal, and will present interesting sidelights on the colorful groups of pictures illustrating the volume.

Mrs. Sanderson, director of the Ellenville Public Library for many years, is a classmate of Starr Institute's librarian, Mrs. Justine Englander. Many area residents have expressed an interest in meeting Mrs. Sanderson since her recent interview on the Mary Margaret McBride Show on WGHQ.

Mrs. Sanderson's appearance, a feature of Starr Institute's celebration of National Library Week, will be scheduled from 2 to 5 p. m. A copy of her book will be on display all next week at the First National Bank of Rhinebeck along with other books, old and new, of prime interest to library patrons.

More Marines

ble. The American ambassador, W. Tapley Bennett, was recalled to Washington last Friday to see what could be done about it.

Seek Ouster

On Saturday, rebels favoring the return of former President Juan Bosch sought to oust the Donald Reid Cabral government, which had come under widespread criticism for its belt-tightening austerity program to improve the economy.

The insurgents split into groups favoring others as well as Bosch.

Fighting flared sporadically and out of control. Cease-fire agreements were made and broken. A U.S. naval task force headed by the carrier Boxer, with some 1,500 Marines aboard, moved near but out of sight of Santo Domingo Sunday, strictly as a precautionary measure.

Ambassador Bennett hurried back and tried his hand, in vain, at arranging a cease-fire.

On Tuesday, 1,172 Americans were evacuated by helicopter and landing craft at Haina, though not without a scare. A band of 200-300 machinegun-armed civilians accosted the Americans while they were waiting at the Embajador Hotel. They finally left without hurting the refugees.

Mostly Tourists

Still there are about 1,000 Americans in the city and 1,000 in the countryside. Most of those who have been evacuated so far are tourists, transients and dependents of U.S. officials.

Dominican armored forces crossed the bridge into the capital. From another direction 1,000 Dominican army troops were fighting through the city from block to block.

Johnson ordered the Marines ashore during a 5-6 p.m. meeting at his White House office Wednesday with Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

Johnson was told that 300 more Americans had assembled on the Polo Grounds asking for evacuation. Also, the local police chief, identified as Des Perdal, and the noninsurgents' had said they could not guarantee the safety of the Americans or of the American Embassy, which had been machine-gunned.

The President hurriedly called in congressional leaders of both parties to tell them of his decision. Some of the Republicans had been at a dinner honoring Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. Dirksen was among those at the White House session. He said the legislators supported Johnson in whatever action is necessary to protect U.S. citizens.

Going on the air, Johnson announced to the American people his decision to send in the Marines.

Past periods of frequent U.S. intervention are still fresh in the minds of many Latin Americans. U.S. Marines occupied Santo Domingo in 1916-24. They were in Nicaragua in 1927-33.

This time Washington is stressing hands-off the domestic political situation in Santo Domingo, saying its sole aim is to protect the lives of Americans and other foreign nationals. The French have sent a nonmilitary ship to evacuate their citizens and others have asked for U.S. help.

The 400 Marines were reported to have gone from the Boxer to the Polo Grounds, a convenient wayside point between Santo Domingo and Haina, by helicopter. They consisted of two rifle companies and a helicopter squadron.

Marine Col. W. E. Daugherty is in command of the Marine expeditionary unit. Washington officials said the commander on the spot was being given discretion on just how to deploy his forces to meet the situation.

Evacuees were being taken to San Juan, P.R.

What degree of influence the Communists are exerting amid the anarchy is still being studied by U.S. authorities. Leaders of three Communist groups were reported active.

The Joiners

The officers of Kingston Chapter No. 155 OES are requested to be present to open the School of Instruction Friday night at 8. All Chapters of the Greene-Ulster District will participate in the initiation, Kingston will be host. Refreshments will be served.

Panel Discussion On Civil Rights Here on Friday

The Social Science Club of Ulster County Community College is presenting a civil rights panel discussion on April 30, at 7:30 p. m. in Room 34 of the Community College building located at 214 West Chestnut Street. It is open to the public and everyone is invited to attend.

The moderator of the group is Hanna Lori Ruggeri. Pat Hogan is the research assistant and the panel members are Matthew Cahill, Pat Hoppe, the Rev. Joseph Irwin, Wallace John, Jennifer Miller, the Rev. Dexter Olsen, the Rev. Arthur Oudkirk, Theresa Roddy, and Donna Schier.

Among the topic to be observed are: Are the people in the local area active or passive towards the civil rights movement, and are they doing anything about it?

Should civil rights be legislated, or is it impossible and improper to try to force people to think or feel a certain way about any group of people?

Are the Negroes hurting their own cause by being too demanding or aggressive with demonstrations, sit-ins, and marches?

How effective is the Negro writer today, and what seems to be the white reaction to his literature, for example, James Baldwin?

Has the white man adjusted to the civil rights movement and does this movement seem to be the Negroes problem for adjusting to the white element. Is this revolution a problem for the Negro or for the white man? Can the white man handle this challenge or does he refuse to face it?

What effect will be Black Moslems have upon the civil rights movement? What are its effects on the Negro and white communities? What are the positive and negative aspects of this group.

How can the schools in major cities like New York be integrated? What is the effect and response to bussing?

By giving one group more freedom do we infringe upon the rights of other free men? Are the rights and jobs of the white individuals being threatened by too much consideration for the Negro?

Is the North just as guilty as the South in racial discrimination? What form does it take in the North.

Is the Negro finding his place in American History?

Should the Clergy be more active in this movement? Exactly what roll should the Clergy take?

Wilson Education Bill Is Approved

A bill introduced by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County concerning the number of members allowed on Boards of Cooperative Educational Services was passed unanimously yesterday by the New York State Assembly.

Assemblyman Wilson stated that the legislation had been requested by the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services. Because of a recent amendment to the State Education Law Boards of Cooperative Education Services with only one supervisory district were denied the right to have the mandated maximum and minimum number of Board members. In April of 1964 the Ulster County Board was changed to a single supervisory district because of the retirement of one of the two remaining superintendents in this area and, therefore, was no longer able to have the same number of Board members. By law the Ulster County Board was forced to reduce its number of Board members from seven to five. The Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services said that this law prevented the Ulster County Board and similar Boards throughout the state from having proper representation in the various districts served by these boards.

Under the provisions of the bill submitted by Assemblyman Wilson all Cooperative Educational Boards, including Boards with only one supervisory district such as Ulster County, would have the right to elect a maximum of nine members and a miniumum five members. Assemblyman Wilson's bill also included the provision that Board members shall be elected by a majority vote of the members of the local Boards of Education and that each Board member shall serve for a term of five years.

Schools Must Be Integrated by '67 For Federal Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government today set the fall of 1967 as the target date for integration of all grades of a public school system in order for the system to qualify for federal aid.

The Civil Rights Act of 1964 provides that all recipients of federal aid must carry on their activities in a nondiscriminatory manner.

Detailed new guidelines issued by the Office of Education also said there must be a "substantial good faith" start in the 1965-66 school year, with desegregation of at least four grades. There must also be steps taken with regard to faculty integration.

Under exceptional circumstances, the commissioner of education may accept plans that provide for desegregation of fewer than four grades this fall.

The four grades under such procedure, the guidelines said, should include the first grade, the first and last high school grades, and the lowest grade of junior high school.

Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel told a news briefing it was decided to issue official guidelines because of the many requests received for guidance.

The guidelines, in a nine-page "general statement of policies," are being mailed to school systems that have submitted plans that are not acceptable.

They also will be made available to other districts that are preparing plans.

Two Arrested In Shopping Mart Promotion

NEW YORK (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz has announced the arrest of two Upstate real estate men on charges of failing to file reports with his office in connection with construction of a $2.7-million shopping center in New Rochelle.

In announcing the arrests Wednesday, Lefkowitz said a grand jury information was returned against Bruno Low, 54, a Conklin real estate developer, and Anthony Bersani, 46, of Fayetteville, N. Y.

The grand jury papers alleged that the two men failed to file reports of the syndication with the attorney general's office in 1962 and 1963, as required by law.

Lefkowitz said that about 450 persons invested in the shopping area, to be known as "Westchester Plaza Shopping Center."

Syndication was begun in May 1962. Construction has not been completed, Lefkowitz said.

Low and Bersani were arraigned on the misdemeanor charge before Criminal Court Judge Louis A. Cioffi, who set bail at $1,000 bond each or $100 cash for a hearing June 8.

1,000-Man Force

shot through the throat. He was in serious condition.

A Vietnamese force operating in Binh Long Province, 80 miles southwest of Saigon, tangled Wednesday with a strong Viet Cong unit. A U.S. Army adviser was fatally wounded in the opening volley of Communist fire.

The Reds beat off an armed relief column. And American Army helicopters attempting to reach the American and some Vietnamese wounded also were forced from the area by heavy groundfire.

Ground troops finally fought their way into the battle zone, but another American was killed in the attack. A third American was wounded.

Eighteen Viet Cong dead were counted on the battle field.

U.S. Air Force B57 jet bombers carried out a midnight attack on North Viet Nam and reported moderate success in bombing highway routes 7, 8 and 12. A spokesman said 13 tons of bombs were dumped.

In Tokyo, U.S. State Department adviser Walt W. Rostow said the United States had no intention "under any conditions" of bombing large civilian areas in North Viet Nam. He said the Air Force is scrupulous in aiming only at military installations and targets.

Rostow said his week of talks with Japanese officials and leaders would not prompt him to recommend any basic change in America's Viet Nam policy but only to step up the flow of explanation of that policy.

Peking's official New China News Agency said the United States "aided by the British government" is trying to make the projected international conference on Cambodian neutrality "an occasion to bring the Vietnamese people to terms."

"This fond attempt follows the failure of U.S. President Johnson's hoax about 'unconditional negotiations,'" NCNA said.

The British have been promoting the conference on Cambodia in hopes that the United States, the Soviet Union, Red China and North and South Viet Nam would get into discussions about Viet Nam on the sidelines.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko assured the French in Paris Wednesday his government continues to support the idea of a conference on Cambodia. But a Moscow Radio broadcast cast doubt that the Russians would talk there about Viet Nam.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market performed in a ragged manner early this afternoon but spotty strength kept averages fairly firm.

Trading was active, about at Wednesday's rate, but there was little leadership among individual stocks or groups.

The interruption of the bright nature of corporate earnings reports by a decline in quarterly profits for Standard Oil (New Jersey) was one factor which caused hesitation. Another was the landing of Marines in the Dominican Republic.

General Motors was unchanged, failing to respond to the records it set for quarterly sales and profits.

Some of the badly battered sulphur stocks rebounded. Airlines were a little higher on balance. Drugs and electronics were lower. Utilities were generally higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 339.9, putting it above the record closing high of 339.7 made April 19. Industrials were up .2, rails were unchanged and utilities were up .7.

General Motors Reports Biggest Profit Ever Made

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors wrote a fabulous page in American business history Wednesday, reporting the biggest profit ever made in a first quarter by any firm and overshadowing record earnings announced earlier by both Ford and Chrysler.

The $636-million profit topped the GM and U.S. industry's old first-quarter high of $536 million set last year. It also marked new high for any quarter, surpassing the old mark of $602 million GM earned in the second quarter of 1964.

On Monday, Ford Motor Co., the second largest member of the automotive Big Three, reported record earnings of $208.8 million, a 39 per cent increase over the similar period in 1964.

Chrysler led off last week by announcing profits of $56.6 million, an increase of nearly $3 million over its old record of $53.8 set in the first quarter of 1964.

American Motors, the nation's fourth largest auto maker, is due to make its first quarter report early next week. Its automotive sales have run behind 1964 thus far and its report is not expected to be as bright.

737,963 Workers

GM worldwide employment averaged 737,963 workers for the first quarter and they were paid $1.3 billion. These totals were far ahead of the previous highs, set in the second quarter last year, of 690,802 workers and $1.2 billion in payrolls.

Frederic G. Donner, board chairman, and John F. Gordon, president, said, "GM car and truck production in the United States was maintained at peak rates during the quarter in order to meet the current high demand and make up production losses resulting from strikes in the latter part of 1964.

"However, in spite of these high production rates, inventories in the hands of dealers at the end of the quarter remained below the level of a year ago."

The Donner-Gordon report showed net income per share for the first three months of this year was $2.22, compared with $1.87 in the first quarter last year and the any-quarter previous high of $2.11 set in the second three months of 1964.

GM's dollar sales for the quarter were $5.5 billion compared with $4.7 billion in the opening quarter last year and the corporation's former record quarter of $5.0 billion set in the second quarter last year.

The $636-million profit for the opening quarter gave GM a running start toward passing the $1.7 billion earned in all of 1964.

Citation for Support Of U. S. Savings Bonds

The U. S. Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury Department has cited the Selective Service System for its outstanding support of the Savings Bonds program. The compensated employes of Selective Service in New York State have achieved a 100 per cent record of participation in the Payroll Savings Plan for Savings Bonds.

The citation to the employes of Local Boards No. 18-19 was presented April 27, 1965 by Atlee P. Warner, local board auditor and accepted by Raymond W. Lown for the local board.

The citation by the Treasury Department, signed by Douglas Dillon, secretary of the treasury and Colonel W. H. Boughton, state director of Selective Service, was made "In recognition of patriotic service in strengthening the nation and its citizens through the United States Savings Bonds Program."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

ROGER E. SPEAR

Buy for Quality, Not for Low Price

Q) "I would like to invest $5,000 in buying 100 shares each in ten diversified common stocks at an average price of $5 per share. Would that be practical? If so, will you furnish me with the names of ten stocks in this category?" C.A.

A) I am sorry to tell you that buying stocks in the $5 price category is not practical. After a bull market of almost 16 years duration, stocks selling in the $5 range are usually down to that level because their earnings and dividend patterns warrant it. Occasionally, people make money in very low-priced stocks and you usually hear about it. You don't hear about the great number of investors who have lost money trading in these issues. Unfortunately I do, and my mail contains innumerable leters from people who bought a very low-priced stock on a tip and are now faced with a loss they can ill afford. Please accept my advice. Put your money in the quality growth issues so frequently mentioned here and don't try to get rich in too much of a hurry.

Q) "I purchased American Cyanamid in 1963 at approximately 53. Now that the profit is so high, do you advise taking same, or do you see continued rise and growth for this stock? I would certainly appreciate your opinion." L.L.

A) You're entirely welcome to any help that I can give you. American Cyanamid is the type of stock that should keep on growing and building up your profit position. This company is very well diversified in the chemical field and it derives more than one-quarter of its earnings from its Lederle Division, which produces a full line of ethical drugs. Earnings have been in a strong upsurge since 1960 and dividend rises have pretty well kept pace. The shares sell for less than 18 times my estimate of $4.25 per share in earnings for 1965. This is not a relatively high multiple and I advise you to retain your holdings.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Red Cross Head

all disaster losses, as an insurance company might, but it does consider those rebuilding and other essentials that restore a family to normal living. The kind and amount of help the Red Cross provides will depend upon the family circumstances. No two family situations are exactly alike. Therefore, the Red Cross works with each family individually to develop a sound, practical plan for recovery."

Schiff said that long-term assistance to people who need help in recovering from the effects of disaster is the greatest part of the Red Cross disaster program. About 85 per cent of each disaster relief dollar is used for long-term recovery of families suffering severe disaster losses.

Aid Is Outright Gift

"All Red Cross assistance to disaster victims is an outright gift," Schiff continued. "Red Cross never makes disaster loans, never takes liens on property, never accepts repayment for help given disaster victims. The Red Cross never sells food or disaster supplies. Anyone hearing rumors to the contrary should report them immediately to the nearest Red Cross office."

Although the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross is affiliated with the Ulster County Community Chest, permission has been given for a special appeal to be made to help the victims of the recent disasters. Red Cross expenditures will run into unestimated millions of dollars. Anyone wishing to make a contribution to this fund can do so at the local office at 308 Clinton Avenue.

Tools Stolen

Local police were notified Wednesday by John Sherlock, of 37 Trenton Street, that two boxes of tools and a saber saw, with a total value of $90, had been stolen from the Island Dock Marina. Another report last night noted recovery in an area off West Pierpont Street of a typewriter reported stolen recently from a car of William Lounsbury, of Port Ewen, while it was parked in the city.

Death Penalty Bill Moves for Senate Vote

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Democratic bill proposing to abolish capital punishment in New York State—with two exceptions—was ticketed today for a vote in the Sentte next week.

The Senate Codes Committee reported the measure for floor action without a recommendation either for or against its passage.

This procedure was regarded as unusual, since committees usually recommend passage of a bill or decide to kill it in committee. The last time the "for consideration" device was used was when the Senate Finance Committee reported Gov. Rockefeller's sales-tax measure.

The Sydney Sun said New Zealand is reported also to have agreed to provide further military aid to South Viet Nam. The newspaper said "observers believe that the underlying aim of the Australian and New Zealand decisions will be to influence Japan and the Philippines to give greater direct aid to the American cause in the Viet Nam struggle."

National Council On Crime Thanks Ulster Residents

The District Attorney's Office was recently in receipt of a letter from Sigurd S. Larmon, president of the National Council on Crime and Delinquency, expressing gratitude to former District Attorney David W. Corwin, Joseph P. The Council works with citizens and professional groups and with judges, probation and parole officers, correctional administrators and other public officials.

The NCCD is a nonprofit organization supported by contributions from united funds, foundations, business corporations and individuals interested in expanding its work and services.

The district attorney joins in with the NCCD to thank those citizens that have contributed to the appeal.

Author to Talk On Canal Book At Rhinebeck

Dorothy Hurlbut Sanderson, author of the just-published The Delaware & Hudson Canalway, Carrying Coals to Rondout, will visit Starr Library, Rhinebeck Saturday to discuss her history of one of the valley's most story-filled landmarks.

She will chat with visitors about how she assembled all this information on the canal, and will present interesting sidelights on the colorful groups of pictures illustrating the volume.

Mrs. Sanderson, director of the Ellenville Public Library for many years, is a classmate of Starr Institute's librarian, Mrs. Justine Englander. Many area residents have expressed an interest in meeting Mrs. Sanderson since her recent interview on the Mary Margaret McBride Show on WGHQ.

Mrs. Sanderson's appearance, a feature of Starr Institute's celebration of National Library Week, will be scheduled from 2 to 5 p. m. A copy of her book will be on display all next week at the First National Bank of Rhinebeck along with other books, old and new, of prime interest to library patrons.

More Marines

ble. The American ambassador, W. Tapley Bennett, was recalled to Washington last Friday to see what could be done about it.

Seek Ouster

On Saturday, rebels favoring the return of former President Juan Bosch sought to oust the Donald Reid Cabral government, which had come under widespread criticism for its belt-tightening austerity program to improve the economy.

The insurgents split into groups favoring others as well as Bosch.

Fighting flared sporadically and out of control. Cease-fire agreements were made and broken. A U.S. naval task force headed by the carrier Boxer, with some 1,500 Marines aboard, moved near but out of sight of Santo Domingo Sunday, strictly as a precautionary measure.

Ambassador Bennett hurried back and tried his hand, in vain, at arranging a cease-fire.

On Tuesday, 1,172 Americans were evacuated by helicopter and landing craft at Haina, though not without a scare. A band of 200-300 machinegun-armed civilians accosted the Americans while they were waiting at the Embajador Hotel. They finally left without hurting the refugees.

Mostly Tourists

Still there are about 1,000 Americans in the city and 1,000 in the countryside. Most of those who have been evacuated so far are tourists, transients and dependents of U.S. officials.

Dominican armored forces crossed the bridge into the capital. From another direction 1,000 Dominican army troops were fighting through the city from block to block.

Johnson was told that 300 more Americans had assembled on the Polo Grounds asking for evacuation. Also, the local police chief, identified as Des Perdal, and the noninsurgents' had said they could not guarantee the safety of the Americans or of the American Embassy, which had been machine-gunned.

The President hurriedly called in congressional leaders of both parties to tell them of his decision. Some of the Republicans had been at a dinner honoring Senate Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois. Dirksen was among those at the White House session. He said the legislators supported Johnson in whatever action is necessary to protect U.S. citizens.

Going on the air, Johnson announced to the American people his decision to send in the Marines.

Past periods of frequent U.S. intervention are still fresh in the minds of many Latin Americans. U.S. Marines occupied Santo Domingo in 1916-24. They were in Nicaragua in 1927-33.

This time Washington is stressing hands-off the domestic political situation in Santo Domingo, saying its sole aim is to protect the lives of Americans and other foreign nationals. The French have sent a nonmilitary ship to evacuate their citizens and others have asked for U.S. help.

The 400 Marines were reported to have gone from the Boxer to the Polo Grounds, a convenient wayside point between Santo Domingo and Haina, by helicopter. They consisted of two rifle companies and a helicopter squadron.

Marine Col. W. E. Daugherty is in command of the Marine expeditionary unit. Washington officials said the commander on the spot was being given discretion on just how to deploy his forces to meet the situation.

Evacuees were being taken to San Juan, P.R.

What degree of influence the Communists are exerting amid the anarchy is still being studied by U.S. authorities. Leaders of three Communist groups were reported active.

Panel Discussion On Civil Rights Here on Friday

The Social Science Club of Ulster County Community College is presenting a civil rights panel discussion on April 30, at 7:30 p. m. in Room 34 of the Community College building located at 214 West Chestnut Street. It is open to the public and everyone is invited to attend.

The moderator of the group is Hanna Lori Ruggeri. Pat Hogan is the research assistant and the panel members are Matthew Cahill, Pat Hoppe, the Rev. Joseph Irwin, Wallace John, Jennifer Miller, the Rev. Dexter Olsen, the Rev. Arthur Oudemool, Theresa Roddy, and Donna Sailer.

Among the topic to be observed are: Are the people in the local area active or passive towards the civil rights movement, and are they doing anything about it?

Should civil rights be legislated, or is it impossible and improper to try to force people to think or feel a certain way about any group of people?

Are the Negroes hurting their own cause by being too demanding or aggressive with demonstrations, sit-ins, and marches?

How effective is the Negro writer today, and what seems to be the white reaction to his literature, for example, James Baldwin?

Has the white man adjusted to the civil rights movement and does this movement seem to be the Negroes problem for adjusting to the white element? Is this revolution a problem for the Negro or for the white man? Can the white man handle this challenge or does he refuse to face it?

What effect will be Black Moslems have upon the civil rights movement? What are its effects on the Negro and white communities? What are the positive and negative aspects of this group.

How can the schools in major cities like New York be integrated? What is the effect and response to bussing?

By giving one group more freedom do we infringe upon the rights of other free men? Are the rights and jobs of the white individuals being threatened by too much consideration for the Negro?

Is the North just as guilty as the South in racial discrimination? What form does it take in the North.

Is the Negro finding his place in American History?

Is the Negro revolution a world movement? How does Africa fit in the revolution? How is our national image affected in other countries of the world.

Should the Clergy be more active in this movement? Exactly what roll should the Clergy take?

Wilson Education Bill Is Approved

A bill introduced by Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Ulster County concerning the number of members allowed on Boards of Cooperative Educational Services was passed unanimously yesterday by the New York State Assembly.

Assemblyman Wilson stated that the legislation had been requested by the Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services. Because of a recent amendment to the State Education Law Boards of Cooperative Education Services with only one supervisory district were denied the right to have the mandated maximum and minimum number of Board members. In April of 1964 the Ulster County Board was changed to a single supervisory district because of the retirement of one of the two remaining superintendents in this area and, therefore, was no longer able to have the same number of Board members. By law the Ulster County Board was forced to reduce its number of Board members from seven to five. The Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services said that this law prevented the Ulster County Board and similar Boards throughout the state from having proper representation in the various districts served by these boards.

Under the provisions of the bill submitted by Assemblyman Wilson all Cooperative Educational Boards, including Boards with only one supervisory district such as Ulster County, would have the right to elect a maximum of nine members and a miniumum five members. Assemblyman Wilson's bill also included the provision that Board members shall be elected by a majority vote of the members of the local Boards of Education and that each Board member shall serve for a term of five years.

Schools Must Be Integrated by '67 For Federal Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal government today set the fall of 1967 as the target date for integration of all grades of a public school system in order for the system to qualify for federal aid.

The Civil Rights Act of 1964 provides that all recipients of federal aid must carry on their activities in a nondiscriminatory manner.

Detailed new guidelines issued by the Office of Education also said there must be a "substantial good faith" start in the 1965-66 school year, with desegregation of at least four grades. There must also be steps taken with regard to faculty integration.

Under exceptional circumstances, the commissioner of education may accept plans that provide for desegregation of fewer than four grades this fall.

The four grades under such procedure, the guidelines said, should include the first grade, the first and last high school grades, and the lowest grade of junior high school.

Commissioner of Education Francis Keppel told a news briefing it was decided to issue official guidelines because of the many requests received for guidance.

The guidelines, in a nine-page "general statement of policies," are being mailed to school systems that have submitted plans that are not acceptable.

They also will be made available to other districts that are preparing plans.

Two Arrested In Shopping Mart Promotion

NEW YORK (AP) — State Atty. Gen. Louis J. Lefkowitz has announced the arrest of two Upstate real estate men on charges of failing to file reports with his office in connection with construction of a $2.7-million shopping center in New Rochelle.

In announcing the arrests Wednesday, Lefkowitz said a grand jury information was returned against Bruno Low, 54, a Conklin real estate developer, and Anthony Bersani, 46, of Fayetteville, N. Y.

The grand jury papers alleged that the two men failed to file reports of the syndication with the attorney general's office in 1962 and 1963, as required by law.

Lefkowitz said that about 450 persons invested in the shopping area, to be known as "Westchester Plaza Shopping Center."

Syndication was begun in May 1962. Construction has not been completed, Lefkowitz said.

Low and Bersani were arraigned on the misdemeanor charge before Criminal Court Judge Louis A. Cioffi, who set bail at $1,000 bond each or $100 cash for a hearing June 8.

1,000-Man Force

shot through the throat. He was in serious condition.

A Vietnamese force operating in Binh Long Province, 80 miles southwest of Saigon, tangled Wednesday with a strong Viet Cong unit. A U.S. Army adviser was fatally wounded in the opening volley of Communist fire.

The Reds beat off an armed relief column. And American Army helicopters attempting to reach the American and some Vietnamese wounded also were forced from the area by heavy groundfire.

Ground troops finally fought their way into the battle zone, but another American was killed in the attack. A third American was wounded.

Eighteen Viet Cong dead were counted on the battle field.

U.S. Air Force B57 jet bombers carried out a midnight attack on North Viet Nam and reported moderate success in bombing highway routes 7, 8 and 12. A spokesman said 13 tons of bombs were dumped.

One truck was strafed with unknown results.

In Tokyo, U.S. State Department adviser Walt W. Rostow said the United States had no intention "under any conditions" of bombing large civilian areas in North Viet Nam. He said the Air Force is scrupulous in aiming only at military installations and targets.

Rostow said his week of talks with Japanese officials and leaders would not prompt him to recommend any basic change in America's Viet Nam policy but only to step up the flow of explanation of that policy.

Peking's official New China News Agency said the United States "aided by the British government" is trying to make the projected international conference on Cambodian neutrality "an occasion to bring the Vietnamese people to terms."

"This fond attempt follows the failure of U.S. President Johnson's hoax about 'unconditional negotiations,'" NCNA said.

The British have been promoting the conference on Cambodia in hopes that the United States, the Soviet Union, Red China and North and South Viet Nam would get into discussions about Viet Nam on the sidelines.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko assured the French in Paris Wednesday his government continues to support the idea of a conference on Cambodia. But a Moscow Radio broadcast cast doubt that the Russians would talk there about Viet Nam.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market performed in a ragged manner early this afternoon but spotty strength kept averages fairly firm.

Trading was active, about at Wednesday's rate, but there was little leadership among individual stocks or groups.

The interruption of the bright nature of corporate earnings reports by a decline in quarterly profits for Standard Oil (New Jersey) was one factor which caused hesitation. Another was the landing of Marines in the Dominican Republic.

General Motors was unchanged, failing to respond to the records it set for quarterly sales and profits.

Some of the badly battered sulphur stocks rebounded. Airlines were a little higher on balance. Drugs and electronics were lower. Utilities were generally higher.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was up .3 at 339.9, putting it above the record closing high of 339.7 made April 19. Industrials were up .2, rails were unchanged and utilities were up .7.

General Motors Reports Biggest Profit Ever Made

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors wrote a fabulous page in American business history Wednesday, reporting the biggest profit ever made in a first quarter by any firm and overshadowing record earnings announced earlier by both Ford and Chrysler.

The $636-million profit topped the GM and U.S. industry's old first-quarter high of $536 million set last year. It also marked new high for any quarter, surpassing the old mark of $602 million GM earned in the second quarter of 1964.

On Monday, Ford Motor Co., the second largest member of the automotive Big Three, reported record earnings of $208.8 million, a 39 per cent increase over the similar period in 1964.

Chrysler led off last week by announcing profits of $56.6 million, an increase of nearly $3 million over its old record of $53.8 set in the first quarter of 1964.

American Motors, the nation's fourth largest auto maker, is due to make its first quarter report early next week. Its automotive sales have run behind 1964 thus far and its report is not expected to be as bright.

737,963 Workers

GM worldwide employment averaged 737,963 workers for the first quarter and they were paid $1.3 billion. These totals were far ahead of the previous highs, set in the second quarter last year, of 690,802 workers and $1.2 billion in payrolls.

Frederic G. Donner, board chairman, and John F. Gordon, president, said, "GM car and truck production in the United States was maintained at peak rates during the quarter in order to meet the current high demand and make up production losses resulting from strikes in the latter part of 1964.

"However, in spite of these high production rates, inventories in the hands of dealers at the end of the quarter remained below the level of a year ago."

The Donner-Gordon report showed net income per share for the first three months of this year was $2.22, compared with $1.87 in the first quarter last year and the any-quarter previous high of $2.11 set in the second three months of 1964.

GM's dollar sales for the quarter were $5.5 billion compared with $4.7 billion in the opening quarter last year and the corporation's former record quarter of $5.0 billion set in the second quarter last year.

The $636-million profit for the opening quarter gave GM a running start toward passing the $1.7 billion earned in all of 1964.

Citation for Support Of U. S. Savings Bonds

The U. S. Savings Bonds Division of the Treasury Department has cited the Selective Service System for its outstanding support of the Savings Bonds program. The compensated employes of Selective Service in New York State have achieved a 100 per cent record of participation in the Payroll Savings Plan for Savings Bonds.

The citation to the employes of Local Boards No. 18-19 was presented April 27, 1965 by Atlee P. Warner, local board auditor and accepted by Raymond W. Lown for the local board.

The citation by the Treasury Department, signed by Douglas Dillon, secretary of the treasury and Colonel W. H. Boughton, state director of Selective Service, was made "In recognition of patriotic service in strengthening the nation and its citizens through the United States Savings Bonds Program."

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I would like to invest $5,000 in buying 100 shares each in ten diversified common stocks at an average price of $5 per share. Would that be practical? If so, will you furnish me with the names of ten stocks in this category?" C.A.

A) I am sorry to tell you that buying stocks in the $5 price category is not practical. After a bull market of almost 16 years duration, stocks selling in the $5 range are usually down to that level because their earnings and dividend patterns warrant it. Occasionally, people make money in very low-priced stocks and you usually hear about it. You don't hear about the great number of investors who have lost money trading in these issues. Unfortunately I do, and my mail contains innumerable leters from people who bought a very low-priced stock on a tip and are now faced with a loss they can ill afford. Please accept my advice. Put your money in the quality growth issues so frequently mentioned here and don't try to get rich in too much of a hurry.

Q) "I purchased American Cyanamid in 1963 at approximately 53. Now that the profit is so high, do you advise taking same, or do you see continued rise and growth for this stock? I would certainly appreciate your opinion." L.L.

A) You're entirely welcome to any help that I can give you. American Cyanamid is the type of stock that should keep on growing and building up your profit position. This company is very well diversified in the chemical field and it derives more than one-quarter of its earnings from its Lederle Division, which produces a full line of ethical drugs. Earnings have been in a strong upsurge since 1960 and dividend rises have pretty well kept pace. The shares sell for less than 18 times my estimate of $4.25 per share in earnings for 1965. This is not a relatively high multiple and I advise you to retain your holdings.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Red Cross Head

all disaster losses, as an insurance company might, but it does consider those rebuilding and other essentials that restore a family to normal living. The kind and amount of help the Red Cross provides will depend upon the family circumstances. No two family situations are exactly alike. Therefore, the Red Cross works with each family individually to develop a sound, practical plan for recovery."

Schiff said that long-term assistance to people who need help in recovering from the effects of disaster is the greatest part of the Red Cross disaster program. About 85 per cent of each disaster relief dollar is used for long-term recovery of families suffering severe disaster losses.

Aid Is Outright Gift

"All Red Cross assistance to disaster victims is an outright gift," Schiff continued. "Red Cross never makes disaster loans, never takes liens on property, never accepts repayment for help given disaster victims. The Red Cross never sells food or disaster supplies. Anyone hearing rumors to the contrary should report them immediately to the nearest Red Cross office."

Although the Ulster County Chapter of the American Red Cross is affiliated with the Ulster County Community Chest, permission has been given for a special appeal to be made to help the victims of the recent disasters. Red Cross expenditures will run into unestimated millions of dollars. Anyone wishing to make a contribution to this fund can do so at the local office at 308 Clinton Avenue.

Tools Stolen

Local police were notified Wednesday by John Sherlock, of 37 Trenton Street, that two boxes of tools and a saber saw, with a total value of $90, had been stolen from the Island Dock Marina. Death Penalty Bill Moves for Senate Vote

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A Democratic bill proposing to abolish capital punishment in New York State—with two exceptions—was ticketed today for a vote in the Sentte next week.

The Senate Codes Committee reported the measure for floor action without a recommendation either for or against its passage.

This procedure was regarded as unusual, since committees usually recommend passage of a bill or decide to kill it in committee. The last time the "for consideration" device was used was when the Senate Finance Committee reported Gov. Rockefeller's sales-tax measure.

The Sydney Sun said New Zealand is reported also to have agreed to provide further military aid to South Viet Nam. The newspaper said "observers believe that the underlying aim of the Australian and New Zealand decisions will be to influence Japan and the Philippines to give greater direct aid to the American cause in the Viet Nam struggle."

National Wheat Marketing Quota

The national wheat marketing quota and acreage allotment proclaimed for the 1966 wheat crop by the Department of Agriculture on April 14, had to be issued by April 15 under provisions of wheat legislation now in effect, according to Joseph Sauer, chairman, Agriculture Stabilizzation and Conservation Ulster County Committee. Current law requires a marketing quota proclamation whenever wheat supplies are likely to be excessive without a quota.

In the absence of new legislation for the 1966 wheat crop, a referendum would be held by law not later than August 1, 1965, to determine whether or not farmers favor or oppose marketing quotas for 1966.

The Chairman pointed out that the voluntary wheat program now in effect applies only to the 1964 and 1965 crops of wheat. Congress currently is considering new legislation to continue this program on a voluntary modified basis. The proposed legislation would eliminate the mandatory marketing quota provisions, and hence there would be no referendum.

Under the current law's formula, the announced 47.8 million acre national allotment for the 1966 wheat crop is the acreage needed to produce the national marketing quota of 1,292 million bushels, after taking into consideration underplantings and other factors as well as small-farm increases. Such small-farm increases (also provided for 1964 and 1965 crops) would boost the national allotment about 4 million acres, so that the total national effective allotment for 1966-crop wheat would be approximately 52 million acres.

Under marketing quotas, penalties would be assessed for excess production when acreage allotments were exceeded. The current law also provides for penalties if acreage between the former 55-million-acre minimum allotment and the announced national allotment is not diverted to conserving uses. It also does not provide authority for payments for land retirement.

The Department has said that no announcement is planned at this time on support levels, national reserves, State and County allotments, and domestic and export allocation percentages, which are authorized by legislation now in effect. Should no new legislation be enacted, these provisions will be announced prior to the referendum.

Highland Burglary

A burglary at the Grand Union Supermarket at Highland was under investigation today by State Police Investigator L. M. Luongo. Entry was gained through a rear cellar window and the intruder made off with $30 in cash and 11 rolls of Triple S trading stamps, troopers said. The break occurred sometime between 9:30 p. m. Wednesday and 7:30 a. m. today, when it was discovered.

Charged After Mishap

Herbert W. Murdock, 55, of PO Box 355, Kingston, was charged with failure to keep right after a two-car mishap at Abeel and Wurts Street Wednesday afternoon. The other car, police said, was driven by Richard Davis, of Esopus. Murdock pleaded innocent in City Court today and hearing was put over to May 6.

Wall of Trench Caves In, Worker Is Buried Alive

An Orange County construction worker was buried alive and a second man was rescued shortly before 11:30 a. m. Wednesday, after a side wall of a trench in which they were laying sewer lines caved in, according to New Windsor State Police.

Donald Ward, 37, Washingtonville, died of suffocation. Ralph Roos, 49, of River Road, Town of Newburgh, a co-worker, was dug out by rescuers after he was covered with loose dirt for about 15 minutes. He was taken to a local hospital.

Troopers said the two men were working at the bottom of an eight-foot excavation, connecting sewer lines when the wall suddenly caved in. The body of Ward was recovered in about an hour-and-a-half, troopers reported. He was pronounced dead at the scene.

The work was being done by the Mid-County Construction Co., of Fishkill. The State Police BCI attached to the New Windsor substation, investigated.

Thirty-six African nations now shape their own destinies. There were only four countries ruling themselves in all of Africa at the end of World War II.

DischargedFromHospital

Waclaw Solski, of West End Avenue, New York City, who was injured in a traffic accident near Phoenicia last August, was discharged from Kingston Hospital on Wednesday afternoon. He was taken to his home by Doctors Ambulance Service. Two persons reportedly died of injuries sustained in the accident.

State Attorneys Give Views on Pending Bills

At a recent meeting of the Legislative Committee of the New York State District Attorneys Association held at the Hotel Manhattan, several pending bills affecting the criminal law were favored and others were opposed.

District Attorney Torraca said that the Lentol-Corso Bill which seeks to abolish the death penalty in New York State was discussed and the association takes the position that the citizenry should be consulted before any change is made, that possibly a referendum be held in which the people of the state could express their choice between abolition or retention of capital punishment.

Torraca added that in 1963 the Penal Law was amended to abolish the mandatory death sentence and to provide for a two stage proceeding in capital cases where, after a finding of guilty, the jury may determine whether or not capital punishment shall be imposed.

Other bills pending and effecting criminal law which the New York State District Attorney is opposed to are the legislative proposal to transfer 15, 16 and 17 year old defendants to Family Court and to expunge arrest records of defendants after 10 years.

The Association of District Attorneys is in favor of a bill introduced by Assemblyman Hecht, Bill 5225, prohibiting sale or delivery of porongraphic material to minors under 18 years of age.

District Attorney Torraca has also expressed grave concern over the smut or cesspool publications which the youth in the community are exposed to daily. He strongly urges all parents, civic and religious groups to write to their legislative representation to support this bill. He also urges the citizens to voice their opinon as to abolishment of the death penalty.

Crime is everyone's business and with the present rise in crime the public ought to voice its opinion more often and see to it that their safeguards and individual protection from the criminal element are not watered down anymore than they have been, Torraca said.

Computer Squeals On Bookies, Take Near 400 Million

NEW YORK (AP) — A computer which normally evaluated income tax returns was idle.

So, federal law enforcement officials decided to feed it some gambling information from betors, agents, police and other sources. No income tax information was used, the officials said.

The computer evaluated such information as bookmakers' work sheets, the movements of bettors and bookmakers, geographical patterns of betting and the methods and amounts of payoffs.

Fingers 86

Finally, it pointed its electronic finger at 86 alleged bookmakers. What's more, federal authorities said, the computer revealed the size of their yearly turnover as between $300 million and $400 million.

The 86 were indicted on laws requiring gamblers to register with the Internal Revenue Service and purchase $50 wagering stamps, it was announced Wednesday in Brooklyn by U.S. Atty. Joseph P. Hoey. Conviction carries a maximum penalty of a year in jail and a $10,000 fine.

Back on Tax Job

The computer — a Honeywell 200 — with a batch of commendations, is back at its income tax job in the Philadelphia office of the Internal Revenue Service.

Hoey said that if the information the computer handled had been processed by man alone, the three-year statute of limitations would have expired.

Hoey traced the origin of the indictments to the arrests about two years ago of 11 persons on bookmaking charges. None of the 11 were among those indicted Wednesday.

Information seized when the 11 were arrested, including records from a telephone answering service, provided the groundwork for the current case.

The computer clicked off the names of 14,000 bettors in the metropolitan area. Information was obtained from 8,000 of them. It was fed back into the computer, and led to the indictments.

National Wheat Marketing Quota

The national wheat marketing quota and acreage allotment proclaimed for the 1966 wheat crop by the Department of Agriculture on April 14, had to be issued by April 15 under provisions of wheat legislation now in effect, according to Joseph Sauer, chairman, Agriculture Stabilizzation and Conservation Ulster County Committee. Current law requires a marketing quota proclamation whenever wheat supplies are likely to be excessive without a quota.

In the absence of new legislation for the 1966 wheat crop, a referendum would be held by law not later than August 1, 1965, to determine whether or not farmers favor or oppose marketing quotas for 1966.

The Chairman pointed out that the voluntary wheat program now in effect applies only to the 1964 and 1965 crops of wheat. Congress currently is considering new legislation to continue this program on a voluntary modified basis. The proposed legislation would eliminate the mandatory marketing quota provisions, and hence there would be no referendum.

Under the current law's formula, the announced 47.8 million acre national allotment for the 1966 wheat crop is the acreage needed to produce the national marketing quota of 1,292 million bushels, after taking into consideration underplantings and other factors as well as small-farm increases. Such small-farm increases (also provided for 1964 and 1965 crops) would boost the national allotment about 4 million acres, so that the total national effective allotment for 1966-crop wheat would be approximately 52 million acres.

Under marketing quotas, penalties would be assessed for excess production when acreage allotments were exceeded. The current law also provides for penalties if acreage between the former 55-million-acre minimum allotment and the announced national allotment is not diverted to conserving uses. It also does not provide authority for payments for land retirement.

The Department has said that no announcement is planned at this time on support levels, national reserves, State and County allotments, and domestic and export allocation percentages, which are authorized by legislation now in effect. Should no new legislation be enacted, these provisions will be announced prior to the referendum.

Wednesday and 7:30 a. m. today, when it was discovered.

State Attorneys Give Views on Pending Bills

At a recent meeting of the Legislative Committee of the New York State District Attorneys Association held at the Hotel Manhattan, several pending bills affecting the criminal law were favored and others were opposed.

The Association of District Attorneys is in favor of a bill introduced by Assemblyman Hecht, Bill 5225, prohibiting sale or delivery of porongraphic material to minors under 18 years of age.

District Attorney Torraca has also expressed grave concern over the smut or cesspool publications which the youth in the community are exposed to daily. He strongly urges all parents, civic and religious groups to write to their legislative representation to support this bill. He also urges the citizens to voice their opinon as to abolishment of the death penalty.
